U. S. QUIZ BARES RED AS BOSS OF C. I. O. STRIKERS

Named Chief of Ohio Bomb Squad.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—A communist was in charge of the Warren, O., steel strike last year, directing bombing activities, stopping the United States mails, usurping police authority, and appealing to John L. Lewis, C. I. O. czar, to have troops sent in to prevent dispersal of pickets.

This testimony was given today before the special house committee, headed by Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.], investigating un-American activities.

The committee also was told that the so-called civil liberties committee headed by Senator Robert M. La Follette [Radical, Wis.] got its evidence from communists, who charged that employers used ruthless methods against workers during last year's little steel strike in Ohio. The La Follette committee's Red witnesses, according to today's testimony, were John [Shorty] Steuben and Robert Burke.

Renew Committees' Clash.

Today's proceedings renewed the clash between the Dies house committee and the La Follette senate committee. The Dies committee was condemned recently by President Roosevelt for its disclosures connecting New Deal leaders with the communist party. The La Follette committee is known to be the pet inquisitorial body of the administration.

The Dies committee witnesses who told today of the communist leadership of the Ohio steel strike were Edgar Herzog of Elyria, O., who joined the communist party to "find out what it was all about," and Lester Abele, an Ohio National Guard officer and former Republican speaker of the Ohio house of representatives.

On Communist Pay Roll.

The communist strike chieftain named by these witnesses was Gus Hall, who was communist candidate for governor of Ohio until the party's ticket was withdrawn. Hall's real name was said to be Arva Halberg. Herzog, who served in 1937 and 1938 as head of an Ohio state department committee of the American legion to investigate un-American activities, told of his enlistment in the communist party under a fictitious name.

He asserted that Hall was top man at the Warren headquarters of the Steel Workers' Organizing committee, affiliate of the C. I. O., during the little steel strike. At the same time, he said, Hall was on the communist party pay roll as an organizer.

Herzog told of meeting Hall on the picket line during the strike. He said he went to Warren because he had heard communists were paying $2 a day for pickets at the strike front.

Describes Red's Authority.

The witness said he had no difficulty in getting a job as a picket. He declared that pickets reported to the W. O. C. headquarters in an old beer garden, known as the Hollyhock Gardens.

"And who was top man at the headquarters?" Representative Harold G. Mosier [D., O.] asked.

"Gus Hall," the witness replied. "Everybody on strike took their orders from Gus Hall in the city of Warren. If Gus Hall gave you a pass, you could go through the picket line. Nobody could go down certain streets unless Gus Hall gave them a permit."

In his recital of events during the strike at the Republic Steel company's plant in Warren, Herzog said that Hall became excited when he heard that world war veterans were mobilizing a "shot gun army to smash picket lines."

Tells of Call for Help.

Hall put in a telephone call to Cleveland for either Lewis or Clinton Golden, described as a S. W. O. C. executive. Herzog asserted he was in the Warren headquarters of the S. W. O. C. when the call was put through.

"When the call was completed I

LYONS ASSERTS DEMOCRATS OUT TO BUY VICTORY

Lucas Hits G. O. P. on Leadership.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Battling between Republicans and Democrats rose last night to new impassioned heights. Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for United States senator, charged the Democratic machine is making ready to steal the election Tuesday in Chicago. He took as his theme the statement of the Sheppard senate committee that it had found misuse of federal aid road money in the spring Democratic primary campaign.

"In the eyes of the people," said Lyons in Sons of Liberty hall, 1042 North Damen avenue, "the Democrats stand convicted of robbing the poorbox to pad pay rolls. In the primaries they have taken money intended for WPA workers and hired ward heelers to steal an election. Why should not indictments be returned for unlawful use of state and federal funds?"

Assails Republican Leaders.

Scott W. Lucas, Democratic nominee for senator, at several ward meetings accused the Republicans of being bankrupt on leadership. Vituperation and vilification, he charged, were the stock in trade of the Republican campaigners.

Col. A. A. Sprague, former commissioner of public works, spoke for Lucas: "He has consistently supported President Roosevelt in his objectives for social and economic welfare, yet Lucas is a man of independence. He demonstrated this when he opposed the President on the reorganization of the Supreme court."

Mayor Kelly, speaking at the Delano school, 3900 Wilcox street, urged all the Democratic groups to bury political differences. "President Roosevelt is the issue," he said.

Lyons Strikes at Communists.

Lyons spoke at four night meetings. He said if elected he would seek measures to send back communists to Europe.

"The Democratic machine," he said, "brought in Harry Hopkins, Ma Perkins, Dear Alben Barkley of Kentucky, and Speaker William Bankhead of Alabama to speak for their ticket. And now Earl Browder, head of the communists, came to Chicago today to urge election of Roosevelt tickets next Tuesday through the land. Communists are to do all in their power to defeat me."

In a radio address and a stockyards speech Lyons spoke of pay roll padding.

"The Horner bosses," said Lyons, "plotted in a secret session last night to buy or steal the election Tuesday. In a last minute attempt to swing the election the Democratic high command, from its hotel hideout,

JUNGLE STORIES

Purge and his Yes Cats had been having a wonderful time. The Red Buzzard had taught them how to steal the Honey of the Busy Bees of USA as he had done to those in the Land of Stalin. And for five long years the Purge Cat and the Jungle Animals had waxed fat on the savings of the Bee Hive. "Purr to them with false promises," the Red Buzzard had counseled Purge, "and the Busy Bees will be lulled to sleep, while you swipe their Honey." Now it so happened that Purge was a specialist at purring.

Under the spell of his melodious voice the trusting Bees were lulled to sleep. "Mah frans" ♫, lullabyed Purge," ♫ go to sleep ♫ mah frans . . ." But there were a few Old Tory Bees who suffered with insomnia. They remained awake. When the Old Tory Bees saw what was taking place, they roused themselves to great activity. Then the fun began. Those fully awake set about arousing the rest of the Hive. Soon a great buzzing was heard. And as the angry protest grew in volume, the Purge Cat chanted his lullaby with increased vigor. "Mah frans ♫ go to sleep ♫" shouted Purge into the microphone. The Jungle Animals took up the chant "Go to sleep . . . Go to sleep . . ." But the Busy Bees were now fully awake. . . . And so, sharpening their stingers, they went to work on the Jungle Animals. Is it not sad to see the pretty Animals of FolDeRol being bee-labored in such a fashion?

QUESTIONS

Do you see "Call-me-Jim" the great campaign manager? He is bee-wildered. The snarling Jack L. is bee-fuddled. GrassHopkins is bee-moaning his fate. Ode Cologne, the skunk, is bee-deviled. Purge is being stung bee-fore, bee-hind and bee-neath. Do you see the five little Yes kittens? They were brought up on mos-cow milk. The little black cats have bee-smirched and bee-spattered themselves. The Red Buzzard is bee-d——d. Can you find the tattooed boy who is taking a white-wash bath? He is little Jack Horner. Little Jack is trying to cover up those indelible marks on his back. They were tattooed on his skin during the April primaries.

ACQUIRES 30 DRESSED TURKEYS, USING A NEW AND INEXPENSIVE WAY

The man on the telephone said to deliver the thirty dressed turkeys to the caretaker's lodge at St. Mary's of the Lake school east of Mundelein. And the clerk at the Armour Packing company plant in Waukegan believed he was receiving another of the many orders for food placed by the school.

R. E. Opfel, the truck driver, found an obliging stranger awaiting his appearance. The stranger pitched in and helped Opfel unload the turkeys on the grass beside the kitchen door. Everything went so smoothly that the stranger didn't even sign the bill.

When Opfel went back for the stranger's signature he found the birds—valued at $100—and the stranger had disappeared. No one at the school knew anything about an order for 30 dressed turkeys.

RULES SKIPPERS OF PLANES CAN'T READ MARRIAGES

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 4.—(AP)—A marriage ceremony performed by the skipper of an airliner is not legal, Superior Judge Thomas Gould ruled today in the case of Edward I. Von Glatte, 32 years old, and his comely bride, Jane Webster Von Glatte, 25.

Last July they flew three miles up and three miles out from the California coast line in a United Air Lines passenger ship and were married by Capt. Richard Bowman, in command of the craft. The county recorder refused to record the license, however, on advice of the county counsel, who held Capt. Bowman was not qualified under California law to perform the ceremony.

The couple contended that under the circumstances Bowman was as qualified as captains of ocean going vessels who perform ceremonies at sea.

3 British Bombing Planes Seek New Distance Record

ISMAILIA, Egypt, Nov. 5 [Saturday.]—(AP)—Three British Royal Air force bombers took off at 3:55 a. m. [9:55 p. m. Chicago time] today in an attempt to break the world's nonstop distance mark by a flight to Port Darwin, Australia. Nine airmen took part in the attempt.

Jury Convicts 5 in Dixmoor for Speed Trap

Mayor Charles Special of Dixmoor, his justice of the peace, and their three policemen were convicted by a Criminal court jury last night of operating a speed trap in the village.

They face a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a fine of $2,000 on the technical charge of conspiracy to cheat and defraud motorists by false arrests. Punishment will be imposed Nov. 18, should Judge William J. Lindsay overrule a motion for a new trial then.

Mayor Special was allowed to remain at liberty on his old bond of $2,000 until Monday, when the state will seek to have it increased. The bonds of the others were raised from $2,000 to $5,000, and they were taken to jail, pending arrangements to find the surety. They are Justice of the Peace Charles A. Braun and Policemen Robert Grecco, Charles Paduano, and Tony Bater.

Braun Called Ringleader.

Mayor Special's town has had a reputation as a speed trap for more than a score of years, going back to the time when motor travel first began to be heavy on the Dixie highway through the village, which is six miles south of Chicago.

A few years ago Mayor Special changed the name of the town from Specialville to Dixmoor, but his four henchmen did business in the same old way. Witnesses told of being beaten, of being held under exorbitant bond, and of being fined severely even when they scrupulously obeyed the trafic laws. One soda pop manufacturer said he had been told to drop off a case at a policeman's home if he wanted to avoid arrest.

Motor Club Gathers Evidence.

Whenever Mayor Special and his police were investigated, he insisted that his high regard for strict law enforcement and not the revenues from fines was the reason for the great number of trafic arrests in the village. Complaints that stop signals were partly hidden for the purpose of trapping drivers were disregarded.

Acting on numerous complaints last June the Chicago Motor club uncovered evidence which was turned over to the state's attorney's office, resulting in the prosecution. It was discovered that the village [population 400] got half its revenue from fines.

A subsequent inquiry revealed that salaries of the officials were paid from fines in trafic arrests made on the town's mile and a half of streets.

On June 15, the night before Special and his aids were to be brought to the state's attorney's office for questioning, all of the records in Braun's office disappeared. Nothing else was taken. Braun, testifying in the trial, insisted he did not know what had become of the records.

LONDON, Nov. 4—(AP)—The much publicized black tomcat of 10 Downing street, official residence of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, has been rewarded with a gift of fresh fish for his vigilance at the doorway during the September war scare.

Mrs. Chamberlain said in a speech today that among the piles of flowers and messages sent to the residence was a parcel containing two Dover soles for her cat. It was addressed to "The Black Cat, 10 Downing street."

The big pet frequently was seen on the doorstep as important men came and went during the tense September days.

ATTEMPT TO KILL GREEK KING SEEN IN KNIFE ATTACK

LONDON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—An attempt to assassinate King George of Greece was the theory advanced tonight for a knife attack on a British surgeon in Bond street Wednesday.

The Daily Mail said detectives were working on this theory since the attack was made on Dr. Sydney G. MacDonald shortly after he left a West End hotel. King George of Greece, who is staying at another nearby hotel, frequently is unattended on walks in Bond street. The surgeon is said to resemble the Greek king.

Dr. MacDonald said he was attacked by a "short, dark and swarthy" young man who mumbled a few unintelligible words in a foreign accent. The knife was deflected by the surgeon's right shoulder blade and he was not injured seriously.

BROWDER HAILS NEW DEAL; ROOSEVELT SEEKS VOTES

Urges Re-election of Governors Lehman and Murphy.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt, on the defensive against disclosures that the New Deal is being drawn under the influence of the communist party, retorted heatedly tonight in a national radio broadcast. He grouped "old line Tory Republicans" with Fascists and communists.

If the New Deal does not triumph at next Tuesday's election, the President said, Fascism and communism in the United States will prosper with the "perhaps unconscious" aid of the Republican party.

Concerned by Revelations.

Mr. Roosevelt displayed obvious concern over the effect upon the voters of the facts dug up by the Dies committee investigating un-American activities. Evidence has been presented showing that communists are running as Democrats, notably in California, and that many government officials are friendly to the party of soviet Russia.

His counter-offensive did not contain a denial of these revelations. It took the form of what he termed a "challenging statement."

"If American democracy ceases to move forward as a living force, seeking day and night by peaceful means to better the lot of our citizens," he asserted, "communism and Fascism, aided unconsciously perhaps by old line Tory Republicanism, will grow in strength."

Rejects G. O. P. Proposals.

"I reject the merely negative purposes proposed by old line Republicans and communists alike—for they are people whose only purpose is to survive against any other Fascist threat than their own," the President declared.

He issued an appeal for support of the Democratic ticket in New York state and for "liberal" candidates throughout the country.

He personally indorsed Herbert H. Lehman for reëlection as governor of New York and Robert F. Wagner as United States senator. He hoped the voters of his home state would also send to the senate James M. Mead, candidate for the short senatorial term left open by the death of Senator Royal S. Copeland.

Praises Gov. Murphy.

The only other candidate he mentioned by name was Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan. He praised Murphy for not calling out the troops during the Michigan riots of 1937. Murphy's inaction was called "treasonable" by witnesses before the Dies committee investigating un-American activities and provoked the defense of the President.

Asserting that "liberal" government must be continuous, the President declared that the program of Theodore Roosevelt had been wasted during the following four years of President Taft; that the "liberal achievements" of Woodrow Wilson had been liquidated under President Harding.

"The voters throughout the country should remember that need for continuous liberal government when they vote next Tuesday," the President said.

Denies Favoring Any Ism.

The New Deal is attempting to work out current problems, the President said, without committing the nation to "any ism or ideology except democracy, humanity, and the civil liberties which form their foundations."

In indorsing Gov. Lehman, he did not attack the honesty or integrity of the Republican candidate for governor, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey.

ROOSEVELT'S SPEECH

"On the eve of another election, I have come home to Hyde Park and am sitting at my own fireside in my own election district, my own county, and my own state.

"I have often expressed my feeling that the mere fact that I am President should not disqualify me

Election of Roosevelt tickets throughout the nation and perpetuation of the New Deal was demanded last night by Earl Browder, who addressed a massmeeting in the Chicago Stadium as the chief American agent of Josef Stalin.

A crowd estimated at 16,000 persons heard Browder and other speakers bitterly assail the foes of communism, among whom they numbered Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for United States senator.

In a setting that was a strange blending of America and the grotesque pageantry of soviet Russia, the speakers assailed tories, reactionaries, Fascists, and Wall street. Gigantic posters and banners lined the halls.

A picture of Abraham Lincoln was placed midway between those of Browder and Stalin. The audience sang "The Star-Spangled Banner" and followed it immediately with "The International." The Stadium was a sea of clenched fists, the communist salute.

Browder, apparently taking cognizance of the consternation his visit has caused among Democratic politicians of the state, did not mention the names of Illinois Democratic candidates. He confined himself to urging that the policies of Roosevelt be upheld here as well as in the rest of the nation.

Assails Fascist Dictators.

He assailed the Fascist dictatorships of Europe and the Far East. He denounced Fascism in America. He said he was for the election to the senate of Morris Childs, the communist candidate.

It was left for Childs, whose name has been barred from the ballot, to launch the bitter attack upon the Republican senatorial nominee and to mention Lyons by name.

"My own name," he said, "will not be on the ballot because the election board fell for Republican trickery."

Browder's slow delivery and unimpassioned manner suffered by contrast with Childs' fiery oration. The crowd, which had been worked up by Childs much as a revival crowd might be excited by an exhorter, gave Browder an ovation that lasted more than a minute when he rose to speak. The thundering bass of the Stadium organ lent body to the shrill cries of the spectators.

Says Unity Is Main Issue.

"The unity of the majority of the people is the main issue in this election," he began. "Party lines have been wiped out. The people must unite to save us from fascism.

"At this time, unfortunately, the people are not organized. On the one side we have reaction, barbarism, Fascism, and forces of war. On the other are all the things desired by a democratic, peace loving people. In the first group are the economic royalists and Wall street.

"Fortunately the economic royalists are a small group. But they control our industries and our wealth. The people must unite. That is our problem—to establish unity of the people."

Browder, who has recently returned from Europe, told of the scenes that accompanied the German march into Czechoslovakia.

Foresees America Encircled.

"Fascism is encircling America and with the British navy neutral, or actually collaborating, the Atlantic and Pacific oceans will become broad highways for our destruction," Browder declared.

"With these events taking place, two great spokesmen of two great political camps in America had their say. Herbert Hoover [the Stadium crowd booed his name] announced himself as satisfied with the pact of Munich. He said America should adjust itself to the changes in Europe. He said we should announce we will put no obstacle in the path of Fascist conquest of Latin America.

"This proves beyond question that Fascism already is a great force in this country with Hoover as the Fascist representative.

"Then came the other spokesman, President Roosevelt. [Prolonged cheering greeted his name]. He declared there can be no peace under threat of force as a result of surrender to the threat of war.

"Herbert Hoover won the loud and immediate applause of Berlin. President Roosevelt was acclaimed by democratic and peace loving people everywhere. Hoover was wrong. I say he was guilty of national treason. President Roosevelt was right and should be supported. His words should be translated into a definite national policy."

Browder then characterized Roosevelt as the symbol of peace loving, democratic and progressive people everywhere his voice penetrates. He brought down the greatest ovation of the evening by declaring the American people should seek the friendship of the people of the soviet republic.

Previously Childs had drawn prolonged cheering with the statement that the soviet republic has achieved a greater democracy than America has ever had.

Boo Name of Lindbergh.

The name of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was booed when he was quoted as saying the U. S. S. R. is weak. Childs opened his address with attacks upon various newspapers and Lyons.

"The Tory Lyons," he said, "could find only a few reputable labor leaders to indorse him. He therefore forged the recommendations he needed from the leaders of labor."

The massmeeting opened with a parade of the Young communists' league. The Red flag was carried next to the head of the procession, with several American flags trailing.

In a stage tableau, the flag of Red Russia was displayed flanked by American flags held by white and colored youths. The banners that lined the walls of the Stadium read: "Quarantine the aggressor" [President Roosevelt's words], "Defeat Lyons," "Vote for Democracy and Progress," and others. An unseen announcer extolled the "martyrs" of the Haymarket riot.

Spanish War Vets Introduced.

In the middle of Childs' speech, he introduced veterans of the Abraham Lincoln brigade—Americans who have fought for Red Spain—and a list of those killed in action was read. The massmeeting ended with an historical tableau, in which was included the riot at the Republic Steel plant on May 30, 1937.

The crowd was estimated at 20,000 by the communists and was fixed at about 16,000 by Andy Frain, who was in charge of the ushers. Rainy, chill weather cut down the attendance.

Following Browder's speech an appeal for funds was made. One estimate was that approximately $2,000 was taken in.

Browder made two other appearances during the day; at a press conference and in a radio speech.

Asked if he had come to Chicago to aid the Democratic party in Illinois, Browder replied that he is here to aid the forces of progress and peace.

Explains Views of Red Paper.

Browder then was asked if Chicago's communist daily newspaper reflects his political views. It has been urging the defeat of Lyons as a "Tory Republican."

"The paper reflects the views of all progressive peoples, including the communists," he said.

"If you should favor a particular candidate, it is hardly likely is it that this communist paper would attack him and advocate the election of someone else?"

"Well, I don't know," Browder replied. "The paper must reflect the opinions of the people it represents; of the people among whom it circulates."

"You know, don't you, that the communist handbook for electioneering in Illinois orders party workers to use this newspaper in getting votes for the candidates you favor?"

"That is because the paper represents all progressive peoples, including the communists. Understand this, we are supporting no ticket or no one 100 per cent. We are supporting Roosevelt only on issues.

"Our views are strongly supported on the inside of the Democratic party. They are supported to a lesser degree in the Republican party.

"Mr. Lyons announces, I understand, that he intends to deport on cattle boats all foreign born communists if he is elected," Browder continued. "I feel sure that this would not reduce the membership of the party very materially, but it would be a great blow at democracy.

"And," he went on angrily, "every-time a reactionary makes a crack like that he is merely driving more and more of the liberals into our party. The entire communist party is misrepresented.

Assails "Voice of Reaction."

"However, the reactionary and Tory press has been able to do an astonishing thing. It has made the communist party popular and almost respectable. The voice of reaction is the voice of Fascism, and Fascist forces will eventually be the downfall of this country unless checked. These forces are symbolized by Herbert Hoover, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and Vice President John N. Garner."

In his radio address last evening Browder dealt more directly with the communist views on the elections of next week.

"Paradoxically enough, the worst reactionaries are the ones to demand that the communists have their own ticket—because they would like us to help them split the New Deal forces. But the communist party has withdrawn its ticket from the ballot in most states, in the interests of complete unity of all progressive, labor and democratic forces around a single ticket."

has unloosed the strings on its slush fund. They are to win by fair means or foul."

"Each day," he said, "new scandals are breaking in the Horner-Lucas administration. The United States senate committee headed by Senator Morris Sheppard, a Democrat of Texas, reported that extensive pay roll padding had taken place in the Illinois state highway department last spring before the primary. This pay roll padding involved the use of federal funds.

Exposed by Democrats.

"The committee in its report said that 450 men were suddenly hired in Cook county by the highway department on March 21. It reports most of them were dismissed the day after the primary.

"The committee report says: 'Out of this group 70 men did no highway work at all but had been instructed when reporting for work to go back to their precincts and canvass them in behalf of the Horner-Courtney-Lucas ticket. All of the 450 worked in their precincts and wards for the Horner-Courtney-Lucas ticket.'

"This senate report was not made by Republicans, but by Democrats. It charges without equivocation that federal and state funds were used in an unlawful manner to hire political workers to do political work for Horner and Lucas.

"The voters recall that at West Frankfort, on March 26, Gov. Horner called on the people to join him in 'smashing for all time the Kelly-Nash machine.' Yet seven months later Horner stands arm in arm with Kelly and Nash and says it was only a family fight, he didn't mean what he said last spring."

Lucas Raps Job Issue.

Lucas, in three night meetings, dwelt upon the Lyons' shout of "Bring Back Jobs."

"If the Republicans find these jobs they are talking about bringing back," said Lucas, "and they should bring them back, for they took them away —I suggest they make their next slogan 'Bring Back Truth.'

"In my experience in political life I don't recall a single instance wherein the sole strategy of a major party has been based upon vilification, vituperation and misrepresentation.

"In this campaign the Republicans not only have been inconsistent in their every promise, but they have attempted to befuddle the voters by talking about everything but the real issues. Obviously this is because they have no constructive program of their own.

"Now despite all this smoke screen of fantasy, the voters realize that the problem at hand is the selection of men to fill certain important offices in government. They aren't going to risk the election of men who not only have failed to declare their stand on important national issues, as the Republicans have failed in this campaign, but they most certainly aren't going to toss the control of government back in the hands of reactionary group who failed them once before.

"It is obvious that we of the Democratic party have no quarrel with the ordinary Republican voter, because a million progressive Republicans have joined our ranks since 1932 and we're going to get more of them this time. But we do have a quarrel with the politically and intellectually bankrupt leadership of that party. The leadership of Hoover, Landon and Hamilton still is at the helm of the reactionary Old Guard. That leadership is the best asset of the Democratic party in any campaign."

Speaks Before Veterans.

At noon Lucas asserted at a veterans' rally in the Selwyn theater that Lyons has been sowing false propaganda.

"In ten years of service at Springfield," said Lucas, "my opponent has shown absolutely no interest in behalf of the veterans. In fact he missed 650 roll calls during his career in the general assembly. But I seek to go to Washington upon my record as a public servant and not upon the misdeeds of another man."

Brien McMahon of Washington, assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division of the department of justice, was a speaker at the veterans' rally. Michael Igoe, United States district attorney, who lost the Democratic senatorial nomination to Lucas in the primaries, said: "There is only one issue in this campaign—we're for Roosevelt or we're against him."

ORDER COURTNEY POLICE TO GUARD DUTY AT POLLS

Police Commissioner Allman issued an order yesterday transferring all but 13 of the 106 city policemen assigned to State's Attorney Courtney to polls duty on election day.

Left at the state's attorney's office in the commissioner's original order were only Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator; Lieut. Charles Egan, Capt. Frank Reynolds, and Frank Hand, Courtney's bodyguards, and John Cronin, the prosecutor's policeman-chauffeur. Later the list was expanded, at Courtney's request, to provide six men to guard informers housed in the county jail and two to answer telephones.

The order, Commissioner Allman said, was routine, having been issued every year during primary and election balloting. Under the statutes, the police must station a man in every polling place. This year, Allman said, it was only possible to comply with the law by borrowing 400 park police in addition to using the state's attorney's detail.

C. I. O. STRIKERS BOSSED BY RED, QUIZ DISCLOSES

Named as Bombing Chief in Ohio Terrorism.

don't know whether Lewis or Golden answered, but whoever it was told Hall that he had been informed a call had been made from Washington to the governor and the troops would arrive the next day," Herzog said.

Herzog testified National Guardsmen came the next day and their presence was welcomed by Hall, although he outwardly assailed the troops as minions of capitalism.

Herzog identified Hall with the stoppage of the United States mail during the strike and asserted that the strike leader usurped police functions in the strike area.

Dynamiting Activities Told.

Under questioning by Representative Mosier, Herzog told of the activities of a dynamite squad, employed to intimidate families of nonstriking workers. He named one Arthur Scott as the head of the squad, but asserted Scott took his orders from Hall. The squad got its first supplies from Oil City, Pa., he added.

Hall also was identified by Abele as the director of bombing activities. Abele said Hall was the leader of eight men arrested in connection with the bombing activities. The witness, who went to the strike area when Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio sent national guardsmen to Warren, said four of the men were sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary for terms ranging from one to twenty years for illegal use of explosives.

Recalls Confessions

Hall pleaded guilty to malicious destruction of property, a lesser offense. Abele related that a check of records disclosed that a $500 fine imposed on Hall was paid by a check drawn by the S. W. O. C.

Abele declared that the confessions were made in his presence and that Hall was named as the leader of the group which obtained dynamite and nitroglycerine.

ELECT VAN NUYS, TOWNSEND ASKS; NEW TUNE FOR HIM

Gov. M. Clifford Townsend of Indiana, who a year ago decreed political death for United States Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.], last night urged the senator's reëlection. Gov. Townsend spoke at a Lake county Democratic rally in the Gary armory. He called upon voters to elect the full Democratic ticket for better harmony between the state and federal government. He singled out the Republican city administration of South Bend as an example of a city government that had received the least help from government relief.

WARNS DICTATOR MAY RISE TO LEAD THE UNEMPLOYED

Mental forces are at work among the nation's 14,000,000 unemployed, which may lead to an American dictatorship. Dr. George K. Pratt, director of the Connecticut Society for Mental Hygiene, voiced this warning yesterday. He spoke at the annual meeting of the Illinois Society for Mental Hygiene in the Chicago Woman's club.

"When people are frightened and insecure over a long period," he said, "they long for the good old days of childhood and the boon of being cared for. When enough feel that way there is always a papa to take over their responsibilities, as has happened in Germany, Italy, and Russia. How long can our 14,000,000 unemployed withstand the call of the cradle before seeking a Mussolini, Hitler, or Stalin who will trade them the promise of security for their independence? The breaking point is near unless the mental hygiene viewpoint permeates government."

ELECTION BOARD CHOICES TOLD BY CANDIDATE EHLER

Will Pick Dr. Mann, Reedy, Johnson if He Wins.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Theodore F. Ehler, Republican nominee for county judge, last night announced that three well known Chicagoans had agreed to serve as members of the board of election commissioners in the event of his election next Tuesday.

They are: George E. Q. Johnson, former federal judge, former United States attorney and prosecutor of Al Capone; Dr. Louis L. Mann, rabbi of Sinai temple, and Thomas J. Reedy, former dean of commerce at Loyola university and present treasurer of the National Catholic Alumni federation. Mr. Reedy is a Democrat.

Makes Good His Promise.

In making this announcement, former Judge Ehler fulfilled a promise made many months ago when he declared that he would let the voters know his choices for the board prior to election day.

"I stated that I would designate outstanding citizens," he said, "to supervise all elections. I have discussed the situation with these men, all of whom have agreed to accept appointment and serve in the event of my election.

"The time has come to purge Cook county and Chicago of dishonest elections and to safeguard the sanctity of the ballot. This can be accomplished only through the enlistment of independent, conscientious, and outstanding citizens, who are concerned only with good government. I feel confident that under the supervision of these men, our city and county will be assured of honest elections."

Choices Issued Statement.

Former Judge Johnson, Dr. Mann, and Mr. Reedy issued a short joint statement accompanying the Ehler announcement.

"In the event of the election of former Judge Ehler as county judge and our appointment as members of the election board," it read, "we shall accept those appointments and administer that high trust efficiently and conscientiously. It is our firm belief that without complete honesty at the very source of government, democracy will perish."

The election board has only two members at present—Harry Lipsky and Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke, former collector of internal revenue, who is a Republican. It has had no chairman since the resignation, several weeks ago of Alexander J. McKay, after his indictment by the federal grand jury in connection with PWA sewer contracts.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, who is campaigning for a fifth term against Ehler, made no appointment of a successor to McKay. Much of the directorial work on the board has been assumed by the chief clerk, John S. Rusch.

FREE 6 IN BUND AS VIOLATORS OF SECRET OATH ACT

New York, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Five judges of the Supreme court, appellate division in Brooklyn, today unanimously exonerated six members of the German-American settlement league, operators of Camp Siegfried, at Yaphank, Long Island, who were convicted of violating the civil rights law in Suffolk county last July.

The court ordered immediate suspension of the one year jail sentence imposed on Ernest Mueller, league president, and the return of $13,500 in fines levied against the league and the six individual defendants.

The specific charge accused leaders of the league, an affiliate of the German-American bund, which claims 400,000 members, of conducting a secret oath-taking society without filing a list of members with the secretary of state as required by the civil rights law. The court held that the oath of the society was merely a pledge.

Reconciled

Luise Rainer and Clifford Odets.

New York, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Actress Luise Rainer gazed fondly into the eyes of her erstwhile estranged husband after their reconciliation yesterday in the office of their mutual attorney here. Commenting on the rift with her husband, Clifford Odets, Miss Rainer said, "He thought I didn't love him and I thought he didn't love me. We were both wrong."

$253,098 ALLOTTED FOR WPA HOUSING PROJECT SEWER

A WPA allotment of $253,098 for construction of a sewer to serve the new three million dollar Trumbull park housing project was announced yesterday by H. K. Seltzer, Chicago director of the Works Progress administration. The cost of the sewer amounts to $340 for each of the 743 voters registered from the project for next Tuesday's election.

The new sewer, sponsored by the city department of public works, will begin at the east line of the housing project on 107th street, extend east on that street to Hoxie avenue, then north to 103d street, and east again to an existing sewer at Commercial avenue.

The WPA usually makes it a practice to refuse projects in which more than $7 per man per month is required for material and supplies. The present sewer project, however, calls for the expenditure of $11.70 per man per month. Two other housing projects, built under New Deal auspices, will send more than three thousand voters to the polls. These are the Jane Addams project and the Julia Lathrop homes.

FEE SUIT AGAINST JARECKI SET FOR AFTER ELECTION

Hearing on a suit against County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki and about 60 others seeking recovery of $6,000,000 paid to estate appraisers alleged to have performed little or no work, was continued yesterday by Judge D. J. Normoyle of the Circuit court until Nov. 16.

A date for trial of the suit probably will be set on that day. Judge Normoyle may also hear arguments on a request for a temporary injunction to restrain County Treasurer Horace G. Lindheimer from paying out any more money as appraisers' fees.

The suit was filed by Attorney John E. Northup on behalf of Mrs. Clarence Ford Smith, member of the Women's Civic Council. Mrs. Harriet M. Robertson, president of the council, brought the original charges against Judge Jarecki.

The judge was defended yesterday by Miss Margaret Haley, long time leader of the Chicago Teachers' Federation, who called Mrs. Robertson's charges paltry, and said Judge Jarecki had made a creditable record and deserved reëlection.

GETS YEAR ON BOY'S CHARGE.

Judge Matthew D. Hartigan yesterday sentenced Emery Pollard, 46 years old, 1632 Belmont avenue, to one year in the Bridewell for contributing to the delinquency of a boy, 14 years old.

G. O. P. WORKERS TOLD TO FLAUNT FORBIDDEN SIGNS

Autos to Carry Smash Boss Posters Election Day.

Edward F. Moore, chairman of the Republican county committee, yesterday reminded party precinct workers to bring out on election day, next Tuesday, their special campaign posters. The signs ask voters to "Smash Kelly-Nash Boss Rule" by voting the Republican ticket.

These posters are the forbidden campaign signs. When the Republicans tried to hire members of the bill posters' union to put up the posters, Business Agent Otto Kreuger of local No. 1 refused to allow his men to take the job. He explained, frankly, that he feared the city administration would be angered if they did.

Get Around Poster Ban.

Because the Democrats attempted to censor their opponent's slogans, the Republicans sent out sandwich men and women, decked out a boat in the posters, and put it to work plying the branches of the Chicago river. They also sent out an elephant, a living symbol of the Republican party, throughout Chicago streets.

"We've taken our message to Chicagoans," said Moore. "And I really believe it has been done more effectively than if the Democrats had not attempted to interfere."

The last step in this phase of the campaign, he said, will be for the precinct workers to cover their automobiles with the posters on election day. Special signs with the same appeal have been prepared for this purpose. These fit snugly over the hoods or spare tires of automobiles.

Signs Distributed to Workers.

All these special signs were distributed to workers at the great Republican rally in the Coliseum last Tuesday evening.

"We expect thousands of cars to carry our slogan Tuesday," Moore said. "The city will blossom with cars carrying these forbidden words. We're going to do our best to turn out a record vote."

Cross-Examine Writing Expert on Ballot Marks

Mrs. Katherine Keeler, a handwriting expert, was cross-examined yesterday at the trial of five election officials of the 35th precinct of the 24th ward. She explained how she arrived at the conclusion that 290 ballots cast in the April primary were marked by the same person. The officials are on trial before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki on charges that they permitted fraudulent voting.

WHAT IS LIFE WITHOUT LOVE? BARE TO HENRY

Love attacks persons in strange ways, Policeman Fred Susebach of the North avenue station said yesterday, as he bade two icemen farewell.

The icemen, early in the morning, saw a ghostlike figure flitting about Humboldt park near Hirsch boulevard and California avenue. Somewhat startled because it wore no clothes, they called police. When the policemen approached the figure ran, stumbled into a pool of mud and came out all dirty.

The icemen had supplied the policemen with two gunnysacks such as icemen carry. These were tossed to the figure, who turned out to be a youth who said:

"I was disappointed in love and I'm tired of it all. So I just threw my clothing into the park lagoon."

from expressing as a citizen my views on candidates and issues in my own state.

"I have changed my mind about the nature of some problems of democratic government over the past few years as I have had more and more experience with them. I had never realized how much my way of thinking had changed until the other day when I was watching the finishing touches being put on a simple cottage I have recently built—a cottage which, by the way, is not in any sense of the word a 'dream house.'

Not Like Building House.

"Just watching the building go up made me realize that there was a time not so long ago when I used to think about problems of government as if they were the same kind of problems as building a house—definite and compact and capable of completion within a given time.

"Now I know well that the comparison is not a good one. Once you build a house you always have it. On the other hand a social or an economic gain is different. A social or economic gain made by one administration may, and often does, evaporate into thin air under the next one.

"We all remember well known examples of what an ill advised shift from liberal to conservative leadership can do to an incompleted liberal program. Theodore Roosevelt, for example, started a march of progress during his seven years in the presidency but, after four years of President Taft, little was left of the progress which had been made.

Points to Wilson Administration.

"Think of the great liberal achievements of Woodrow Wilson's new freedom and how quickly they were liquidated under President Harding. We have to have reasonable continuity in liberal government to get permanent results.

"The whole United States concedes that we in New York state have carried out a magnificent liberal program through our state government during the last sixteen years. If the continuity of that liberal government had been broken in this state during that time we would be nowhere near the point we have reached today.

"The voters throughout the country should remember that need for continuous liberal government when they vote next Tuesday.

"On that day the oldest of modern democracies will hold an election. A free people will have a free choice to pick free leaders for free men.

Points to Secret Ballot.

"In other lands across the water the flares of militarism and conquest, terrorism and intolerance, have vividly revealed to Americans for the first time since the revolution how precious and extraordinary it is to be allowed this free choice of free leaders for free men.

"No one will order us how to vote, and the only watchers we shall find at the polls are the watchers who guarantee that our ballot is secret. Think how few places are left where this can happen.

"But we cannot carelessly assume that a nation is strong and great merely because it has a democratic form of government. We have learned that a democracy weakened by internal dissension, by mutual suspicion born of social injustice, is no match for autocracies which are ruthless enough to repress internal dissension.

"Democracy in order to live must become a positive force in the daily lives of its people. It must make men and women whose devotion it seeks feel that it really cares for security of every individual; that it is tolerant enough to inspire an essential unity among its citizens; and that it is militant enough to maintain liberty against social oppression at home and against military aggression abroad.

Urges Positive Force.

"The rest of the world is far closer to us than in the days of democracy's founders — Jefferson, Jackson, and Lincoln. Comparisons are unavoidable. To disprove the pretenses of rival systems, democracy must be an affirmative, up-to-date conception. It can no longer be negative—no longer adopt a defeatist attitude. In these tense and dangerous situations in the world democracy will save itself with the average man and woman by proving itself worth saving.

"Too many of those who prate about saving democracy are really only interested in saving things as they were. Democracy should concern itself also with things as they ought to be.

"I am not talking mere idealism; I am pressing realistic necessity.

"I reject the merely negative purposes proposed by old line Republicans and communists alike—for they are people whose only purpose is to survive against any other Fascist threat than their own.

"As of today, Fascism and communism—and old line Tory Republicanism—are not threats to the continuation of our form of government. But I venture the challenging statement that if American democracy ceases to move forward as a living force, seeking day and night by peaceful means to better the lot of our citizens, Fascism and communism, aided, unconsciously perhaps, by old line Tory Republicans, will grow in strength.

"It will take cool judgment for our people to appraise the repercussions of change in other lands. And only a nation completely convinced—at the bottom as well as at the top—that their system of government best serves their best interests, will have such a judgment.

Praises Gov. Murphy.

"And while we are developing that coolness of judgment, we need in public office, above all things, men wise enough to avoid passing incidents where passion and force try to substitute themselves for judgment and negotiation. During my four years as governor and during my nearly six years as President, I am proud of the fact that I have never called out the armed forces of the state or nation except on errands of mercy.

"That type of democratic wisdom was illustrated last year by the action of Gov. Murphy of Michigan when he persuaded the negotiators of the employers and employés to sit around a table and thus got an agreement, avoided bloodshed, and earned the praise of both sides of a controversy that had frightened a whole nation.

"With such an approach, the New Deal, keeping its feet on the ground, is working out hundreds of current problems from day to day as necessities arise and with whatever materials are at hand. We are doing this without attempting to commit the nation to any ism or ideology except democracy, humanity, and the civil liberties which form their foundations.

Welfare of People.

"Our economic and social system cannot deny the paramount right of the millions who toil and the millions who wish to toil, to have it function smoothly and efficiently. After all, any such system must provide efficiently for distributing national resources and serving the welfare and happiness of all who live under it.

"The modern interdependent industrial and agricultural society is like a large factory. Each member of the organization has his own job to perform on the assembly line, but if the conveyor belt breaks or gets tangled up, no one in the factory, no matter how hard he tries, can do his own particular job. Each of us—farmer, business man or worker—suffers when anything goes wrong with the conveyor belt. If our democracy is to survive it must give the average man reasonable assurance that the belts will be kept moving.

"Dictators have recognized the problem. They keep the conveyor belts moving—but at a terrible price to the individual and to his civil liberty.

Strikes at Abuses.

"The New Deal has been trying to keep those belts moving without paying such a price. It does not wish to run or manage any part of our economic machine which private enterprise can run and keep running. That should be left to individuals, to corporations, to any other form of private management, with profit for those who manage well. But when an abuse interferes with the ability of private enterprise to keep the national conveyor belt moving, government has a responsibility to eliminate that abuse.

"We do not assume for a minute that all we have done is right or all that we have done has been successful, but our economic and social program of the past five and a half years has definitly given to the United States a more stable and less artificial prosperity than any other nation in the world has enjoyed.

"The very fact that the business slump beginning last fall and running into last summer did not become a major economic disaster like the slump that ran from 1929 to 1933 is the best kind of proof that fundamentally we have found the right track.

Cites Automobile Activity.

"You have just heard the news about the automobile factories and many other industries that are opening up for full employment again. And during the month of October alone overall employment has risen nearly 3½ per cent.

"I have been very happy in the last six months to see how swiftly a large majority of business men have been coming around to accept the objectives of a more stable economy and of certain necessary supervision of private activities in order to prevent a return of the serious abuses and conditions of the past.

"But if there should be any weakening of the power of a liberal government next Tuesday, it would resurrect false hopes on the part of some business men, now beginning to change antiquated ideas, that if they can hold out a little longer no adaptation to change will be necessary.

"There is no doubt of the basic desires of the American people. And because these basic desires are well known you find all parties, all candidates, making the same general promises to satisfy these desires.

Points to Campaign Pledges.

"During the weeks before a general election, all parties are the friends of labor, all parties are against monopoly, all parties say that the unemployed must have work or be given government relief, all parties love the farmer.

"Let me warn you now, as I warned you two years ago in my address at Syracuse, against the smooth evasion which says:

"Of course we believe all these things; we believe in social security; we believe in work for the unemployed; we believe in saving homes. Cross our hearts and hope to die, we believe in all these things but we do not like the way the present administration is doing them. Just turn them over to us. We will do all of them—we will do more of them—we will do them better; and, most important of all, the doing of them will not cost anybody anything.

"But when democracy struggles for its very life, those same people obstruct our efforts to maintain it, while they fail to offer proof of their own will and their own plans to preserve it. They try to stop the only fire engine we have from rushing to the fire because they are sales agents for a different make of fire engine.

"New ideas cannot be administered successfully by men with old ideas, for the first essential of doing a job well is the wish to see the job done at all.

"Judge parties and candidates, not merely by what they promise, but by what they have done, by their records in office, by the kind of people they travel with, by the kind of people who finance and promote their campaigns. By their promoters ye shall know them.

"No national administration, however much it may represent the genuine popular will of the people, can in the long run prove enduringly effective if that administration can be cut off from the people by state and local political machinery controled by men who are hostile.

"My own state of New York is to choose a governor. Ours is the most complex state in the Union—thirteen million population, great farming areas, hundreds of small communities, one huge city of seven million people, and many other cities, great and small.

"Governing the state of New York requires the skill which comes from long experience in public affairs.

Governorship Big Job.

"In 1918, when I was 36 years old, I was invited to run for the governorship of this state. I was then assistant secretary of the navy. I declined the offer because my job required me at that time to sail on a destroyer for overseas service. I am glad I did, for, looking back on that time, I do not think that I had experience and knowledge of public affairs wide enough to qualify as governor. Besides I did not think it quite right to abandon in midstream an important public job that I had undertaken.

"Governing the state of New York is more than being an assistant secretary of the navy or a district attorney. The governor of this state is called upon to administer eighteen great departments of government and to supervise state institutions that house over one hundred thousand wards of the state.

"He must be able to understand and handle the vast and intricate problems of agriculture. He is charged with the supervision of state finance and the maintenance of state credit. He is responsible for its widespread system of roads, parks, canals, bridges, and schools.

"He has to maintain, preserve, and improve the great body of social legislation already on the statute books of the state—unemployment insurance, workmen's compensation, social security, help for the needy and the underprivileged; and he must see to it that these recent reforms are made to keep pace with the broadening conception of social justice.

Points to Responsibilities.

"Equal protection of the law—criminal and civil—for human rights as well as property rights; prosecution of criminals in high financial places as well as low places; the preservation of civil and religious liberties—all these precious essentials of civilization are entrusted to him.

"New York has state laws matching every progressive federal measure of the last five years. They were all enacted under the guiding hand and driving energy of Gov. Herbert H. Lehman.

"Recruits in the battle for economic democracy are always welcome irrespective of party; but at a critical moment in the world's history we cannot take the risks of supplanting seasoned leaders like Gov. Lehman with men, no matter how sincere, who have yet to win their spurs or prove what they really know or where they really stand in the fight for social justice. Those who truly and sincerely join the struggle for social justice and economic democracy for its own sake do not throw stones at veteran fighters in that cause.

"No one can properly minimize the need of active law enforcement, whether it be in a great city or in the rural counties.

"Certainly Gov. Lehman has never minimized it and has never hesitated to call to his assistance in law enforcement young and vigorous prosecutors, irrespective of politics. We need more active law enforcement, not only against the lords of the underworld, but also against the lords of the overworld.

Right to Prosecute Criminals.

"It is right — wholly right — to prosecute criminals. But that is not enough, for there is the immense added task of working for the elimination of present and future crime by getting rid of evil social conditions which breed crime. Good government can prevent a thousand crimes for every one it punishes.

"The fight for social justice and economic democracy has not the allure of a criminal jury trial; it is a long, weary, uphill struggle — and those who give themselves unsparingly to it are seldom acclaimed at my lady's tea or at my gentleman's club.

"As a resident and voter in the state of New York I urge my fellow citizens and voters who are interested in preserving good government and American democracy to vote for Herbert H. Lehman.

"And just as a governor is required to be much more than a good prosecutor, so a United States senator must be much more than a good lawyer. A senator from New York must do more than merely vote on whatever bills drift by. He must be able and willing to take the initiative — to keep the legislative wheels turning in the right direction.

"If you were to list some of the newly recognized major responsibilities of government to meet the complexities of modern life—security in old age, unemployment insurance, protection of the rights of labor, low cost housing, and slum clearance—you would have a virtual resumé of the acts of the congress which bear the name of Robert F. Wagner. So often since 1933 has new legislation been described as 'the Wagner act' that the phrase has become confusing because there have been so many Wagner acts.

Praises Senator Wagner.

"For example, there is not only the Wagner labor relations act; there are the Wagner social security act and the Wagner housing act; and although you might feel uncertain as to which particular act is meant by the phrase, you can feel no uncertainty as to this—that any one of the Wagner acts was an act intended for the benefit of those who need the help and support of government against oppression and intolerable conditions of living. His name stands for courageous and intelligent leadership, constructive statecraft, and steadfast devotion to the common man and the cause of civil liberties.

"With him I hope the voters of this state will send to the senate an experienced member of the house of representatives—James M. Mead—known through many years for his expert knowledge of three fields whose intricate problems press heavily upon government today, railroads, aviation, and civil service, and for his unflagging support of every liberal measure that has come before the congress. We need that legislative experience, the temper of mind, that expert knowledge in the United States senate.

Pick Men for Liberalism.

"Look over the rest of the names on the ballot next Tuesday. Pick those who are known for their experience and their liberalism. Pick them for what they have done and not just for what they say they would do.

"And one last but important word: Pick them without regard to race, color or creed. Some of them may have come of the earliest colonial stock; some of them may have been brought here as children to escape the tyrannies of the old world. All of them are American citizens now.

"Remember that the fathers of the American revolution represented many religions and came from many foreign lands.

"Remember that no matter what their origin they agreed with Benjamin Franklin: 'We must, indeed, all hang together or most assuredly we shall all hang separately.'

"Remember that in these grave days in the affairs of the world we need internal unity—national unity. For the sake of the nation that is good advice and it never grows old."

ROOSEVELT'S SPEECH CALLS FOR NO REPLY, IS DEWEY'S DECISION

New York, Nov. 4.—[Speical.]—Convinced that President Roosevelt's radio speech tonight had missed fire, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, Republican nominee for governor, canceled arrangements for a reply over a nation-wide hookup.

Dewey had planned originally to reply to the President, and the various broadcasting companies had offered him facilities. After listening to the President's plea for the reelection of Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, Dewey and his advisers notified the radio companies it would not be necessary to make an answer. Dewey may reply to the President on local issues at a Brooklyn rally tomorrow night, but there will be no nation-wide response, his managers said.

Campaign observers, analyzing the President's speech, found Mr. Roosevelt attacked Dewey only for his youth, saying he had not "won his spurs in the fight for social justice."

SPEECH PRAISING WPA MAILED TO 9,000 (BY WPA)

Copies Broadcast in N. Y. on Washington Orders.

New York, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Officials of the Works Progress administration said today that the New York office had mailed 9,000 copies of a speech praising the WPA to various persons throughout the state and had done so on instructions from David Knites, an assistant WPA director in Washington.

The speech was from the congressional record, and was made by United States Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach [D., Wash.]. Officials said the postage was paid with WPA funds.

State Offices Distribute Speech.

They said they understood all state WPA offices had been distributing the speech to civic, professional, and social organizations.

In Washington, Truman Felt, WPA publicity chief, said a one-page reprint of Schwellenbach's speech in the senate on June 7, 1938, giving a physical inventory of WPA, had been sent to state directors for their information. Five thousand copies of a speech by Harry L. Hopkins on "pump priming," printed in the government printing office, also are being franked by the New York WPA office.

Sheppard to Delay Action.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Senator Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.] said today that federal employés would escape possible prosecution for contributing to campaign funds of senatorial candidates until such time as an existing conflict over laws on this subject is settled.

Although the senate campaign funds committee headed by Sheppard contends these contributions violate federal law, members point out that the justice department ruled years ago that government workers could make political contributions.

Sheppard said his committee had approved the action of Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.], a candidate for reëlection, in turning over to the Indiana state Democratic committee $2,492.15 received from 34 federal employés.

HOMAGE IS PAID TO WILL ROGERS WITH MEMORIAL

Claremore, Okla., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Will Rogers' friends, from the President down to his lowliest admirers, joined in common tribute here today at the dedication of Oklahoma's memorial to her most famous son.

President Roosevelt made a brief radio broadcast from Hyde Park, N. Y. He was followed on the air by comrades of the cowboy philosopher's stage days—Eddie Cantor and Fred Stone from New York, George M. Cohan, speaking from Pittsburgh, and Irvin S. Cobb from Hollywood.

Twenty thousand persons attended the ceremonies, which were timed to coincide with the fifty-ninth anniversary of Rogers' birth. The monument they dedicated is a $200,000 spreading limestone building on a knoll housing the Will Rogers Memorial museum.

In his radio speech President Roosevelt said that America, to whose heart Will Rogers brought gladness, will hold him in everlasting remembrance.

WIDOW OF GREEK KING MAY GIVE U. S. TESTIMONY

New York, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Princess Aspasia, widow of King Alexander of Greece, may come to the United States to testify in the bankruptcy proceedings of John W. Harris, builder and engineer, it was disclosed today at a hearing before Bankruptcy Referee Peter B. Olney Jr.

Counsel for the trustee in bankruptcy contends the princess is holding money and property for Harris. The attorney is inquiring into Harris' gifts to the princess of $1,500 a month and about $250,000 worth of securities in his building company.

The engineer recently testified of his love for Princess Aspasia and said he will marry her when he gets a divorce. He admitted giving her $25,000 shares of stock, and assuming the cost of remodeling her London house. Attorneys have received no reply to messages sent to the princess at Vienna and Paris.

Jailed for Perjury

Mrs. Irene Leach Bitner (right) with Deputy Sherif Mary Deverman after she had been sentenced to jail for perjury.

A woman who testified that she reared a boy born to her husband and her sister as her own was sent to jail yesterday. Judge Robert C. O'Connell held her in contempt for testifying the child was her own when she was divorced from the man she calls the father, Rex Leach, of 1433 East 63d street.

The woman, recently remarried, is Mrs. Irene Leach Bitner, 31 years old, of 1427 East 63d place. She had come to court to fight Leach's effort to discontinue payments for the child's support. His attorney, M. T. Gruener, said she and her new husband had just filed adoption proceedings in which they said the child, known as Barrett Leach, 5 years old, is the son of Mrs. Bitner's sister, Lottie Gallos of 8152 Escanaba avenue.

Mrs. Bitner admitted this and said Leach was the father. She represented herself as the mother, she said, to save all concerned from disgrace, and Leach represented himself as the father. Judge O'Connell ordered her to jail until the case is resumed Monday. He ordered prosecutors to determine whether her attorneys in the divorce case were guilty of contempt.

CUBA OFFERS U. S. RIGHT TO USE HER AS A WAR BASE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 4.—Cuba may become a United States naval, military, and air stronghold under a treaty which will be discussed in Washington, D. C., next week by Col. Fulgencio Batista, chief of the army and strong man of Cuba, and Gen. Malin Craig, United States army chief of staf. The proposed pact will be for mutual defense and defense of the new world against European aggression.

Batista, it is learned, will promise President Roosevelt that Cuba will not go communistic or Fascist and will enter no political or military alliances with such nations. He will offer to permit the United States to build under a 99 year lease four new naval bases in Cuba and to enlarge the Guantanamo base, to build ten military airports, and to store war materials in Cuba. The project would cost $100,000,000, which would be paid by the United States. Only Cuban labor would be used.

In return the United States would offer Cuba tarif reductions and other economic advantages, including a plan to consolidate Cuba's numerous foreign loans into one issue with uniform interest of 4 per cent and maturing in 100 years.

1 HOUR KNOCKOUT IS HELD CRUELTY; GRANTED DIVORCE

When Mrs. Rose Fadz became aware of what was happening she saw that Stanley, her husband, was reviving her and apologizing at the same time. Then she looked at the clock and calculated that it had been just an hour since he struck her, she told Judge Robert C. O'Connell yesterday. For three months, she said, she had to wear bandages.

Mrs. Fadz's attorney, Irving Eisenman, told the judge that hitting her that hard was cruelty. The judge agreed and gave her a divorce. Mrs. Fadz, 34 years old, a former dancer, went home to 1922 South Lawndale avenue.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE STRAIGHTENS OUT PUZZLED VOTERS

Gives Nonpartisan Facts at 15 Booths.

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

"Say, is this election day?"

That question was asked dozens of times yesterday by shoppers as they hesitated before flag-draped booths maintained by the Cook County League of Women Voters. Three booths are in downtown department stores. A dozen others were set up in the suburbs.

All the booths were well supplied with pink and green specimen ballots, Illinois election law pamphlets, and rules and regulations of the board of election commissioners, for free distribution to inquirers.

Despite the frequent query about election day, the men and women who asked for the folders, league attendants said, were much better informed than they used to be. Fifteen years ago, when the league began its non-partisan pre-election service, many Chicago voters didn't know what a ballot was.

Mention Common Errors.

Even yesterday workers had to caution many against what they say are common errors in voting. Do not erase your ballot, they warned. Return it and ask for another. Mark a cross [not a yes or no] and only within the square or circle in front of the name of your candidate. If you are voting a straight ticket place a cross in the circle at the head of your party column.

Q.—Must I vote as I did in the primary? A.—No.

Q.—If I have not moved since last year, and have not re-registered, may I vote? A.—Yes. Furthermore, citizens who have moved since Oct. 11 within the same precinct may vote by affidavit supported by the affidavit of a registered householder. If you moved before Oct. 10 and did not file an application for change of address you can't vote.

Going Away? Vote Today.

Q.—If I am out of town on election day can I vote? A.—Yes, vote today at the office of the board of election commissioners or the county clerk's office.

Q.—How can I get an absentee ballot? A.—It's too late to get one by mail. Applications must be received by the election board five days preceding any election. If you go for it in person, you can get it today.

A.—What is a cumulative vote? A.—This applies to voting for candidates for the general assembly. Three will be elected in each district. If you vote for one, he will get three votes. If you vote for two, each will get one and a half votes. If you vote for three, each will get one vote.

Q.—Can I cast a cumulative vote for other offices? No.

Bewildered by Citizenship.

The most bewildered were those women who married in the years 1907 to 1922. At that time wives assumed the citizenship of their husbands. A woman alien automatically earned the right to vote when she became the wife of an American.

"But I am divorced," explained one timid woman, her words blurred with a foreign accent. "I haven't been at the polls since my husband left me. Am I Polish—or am I American?"

"American," she was told. "Go out and vote."

Another, married four times, was not so fortunate. Russian born, she gained her citizenship with her first marriage in 1907, lost it with her second in 1910, regained it with a third in 1920, and relinquished it because of an alien husband in 1922. She has since divorced him, but too late, she was told. She is still an alien.

Wreck Landmark

New York, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Razing of the old postoffice and federal building on the outskirts of the financial district, begun on Aug. 15, is to be completed by Christmas. The 68 year old building was sold to the city for $1.

Squatting on the triangle inclosed by lower Broadway, Park Row, and Mail street, it has long been considered the ugliest architectural monstrosity in America by members of various municipal and other art experts.

The building, built at a cost of $8,500,000, has no salvage value, and is being demolished by a private contractor. The workmen—some 100—started at the basement and worked up to the roof, stripping the interior. They are now removing the roof and starting working down again.

CHICAGO TO SEEK BIDS ON SUBWAY UNIT BY NOV. 15

The city will be ready to advertise for construction bids for the first section of the State street subway Nov. 15, Philip Harrington, city subway commissioner, said yesterday. The first section will extend three-fourths of a mile between Illinois street and Bellevue place. It is estimated the section will cost $2,500,000.

Harold L. Ickes, Public Works administrator, yesterday completed formalities in connection with an 18 million dollar PWA grant for the 40 million dollar subway project. He signed the contract previously passed by the city council.

Ickes is expected to announce soon the PWA resident engineer who is to supervise the work for the government. It is reported that Joshua D'Esposito, Chicago engineer and a member of the PWA commission that drafted the subway program, will be named. D'Esposito was "watch dog" for the government in the 60 million dollar sanitary district improvement program which was constructed with federal aid.

Marrying Merry Fahrney Appeals Divorce Ruling

Merry Fahrney Cassini, the marrying patent medicine heiress, appealed to the Appellate court yesterday through Attorney Frank Cantwell for a rehearing on her divorce from Baron Arturo Berlingieri. The Appellate court ruled Oct. 26 that Merry's divorce from the baron, third of her husbands, was void. That left her with Count Oleg Cassini, No. 4, as an extra husband.

CONSUL BLAMES SABOTAGE PLOT FOR SHIP BLAST

German Lays Explosion to 'Secret Warfare.'

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Baron Manfred von Killinger, German consul general at San Francisco, today declared that criminal sabotage was responsible for the mysterious explosion which ripped a hole in the German steamer Vancouver here yesterday.

"As a former naval officer, I know the effects of explosives in warfare," said Baron von Killinger. "The geyser of water thrown up by the explosion to the height of the ship's mast can only have been caused by the detonation of chemicals applied to the outside of the ship.

Assails Attacks on Nazis.

"The ship's plates are bent inward, according to the testimony of the diver. The conclusion I leave to the public. The very active investigation by the authorities will establish that an act of criminal sabotage was committed.

"I deeply regret that the printed attacks against my country have resulted in concrete disaster.

"There is some consolation in the hope that this rotten act will open the eyes of the general public to the effect of irresponsible poisoning of public opinion perpetrated by a small clique aiming to destroy by secret warfare the basis of ordered society. You know whom I mean."

Sabotage Theory Grows.

The theory of sabotage grew stronger among seamen here as additional details of the explosion were made known. An investigation was ordered by the department of commerce in Washington, and agents of the federal bureau of investigation were conducting an inquiry.

Meanwhile, preparations were made to lift the 477 foot vessel from a mudbank in the Oakland estuary, where she settled stern down after the explosion. The ship was reported to be taking water faster than three pumps could empty it.

An investigation last night by federal agents and Oakland authorities brought a closely guarded statement from District Attorney Earl Warren.

"We are of the opinion that the explosion was not in the engine room or in the ship itself," said Warren.

Smash Windows of Paris Communist Party Offices

PARIS, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Windows of the communist party headquarters here were smashed tonight by a small group of young Nationalists. Chanting "La Marseillaise," the French national anthem, the band of about a dozen youths marched up to the building in Central Rue Lafayette, hurled stones and fled before police arrived.

Swiss President Acts to Stop Nazi Activities

BERNE, Switzerland, Nov. 4.—(AP)—President Johannes Baumann today called an extraordinary meeting of Swiss police chiefs to consider measures for stamping out increasing Nazi activity in Switzerland. The president, who also is minister of justice and police, asked the heads of police departments of several Cantons to meet him in Berne.

Sentenced

MRS. KATHLEEN RICE.

Mrs. Kathleen Rice, 24 years old, who told the court she married when only 14 years old, was given concurrent sentences of one to ten years in the women's prison at Dwight on each of two charges of robbery yesterday by Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley of the Criminal court. Mrs. Rice is the mother of two children.

"You're not a bad girl, but you have not been choice in your company," Judge McKinley said in passing sentence. "I'm going to recommend that you be released at the expiration of minimum time." Such action would permit her release in 11 months.

Mrs. Rice was arrested with Joseph Smith, 21 years old, and Walter Stafford, 26, on charges of robbing a garage and a delicatessen store. The two men on Thursday were sentenced to one year to life in prison on each of two charges of robbery with a gun.

U. S. MUST SPEED ITS BATTLESHIPS, SAYS ROOSEVELT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Battleship construction in the United States must be speeded up, President Roosevelt declared today. He announced that two wartime military plants will shortly be reopened in order to facilitate the building of the fighting craft provided for in the naval expansion bill of 1938.

The government's armor plate factory in West Virginia and the navy yard at New Orleans are to be opened on a scale similar to that of 1918, the President said. A survey is being made of all other military properties owned by the government with a view to determining whether they can be made useful in a rearmament program, he revealed.

Construction of the new battleships, the Washington and North Carolina, the keels of which were laid a year ago, has been delayed by changes in construction plans.

Scheduled to be completed in August, 1941, four years after the official starting date, the two fighting ships are now two months behind schedule. They probably will not be ready for service before 1942.

The President said that such long intervals between the time congress appropriates for a ship and its launching must be cut down.

The girl is 5 months old. Reichsfuehrer Hitler was the godfather and former Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller officiated. Mrs. Goering is the former Emmy Sonnemann, movie actress. Goering's friends asserted with pride that Edda did not cry during the christening ceremony.

MOSCOW SENDS CHINA MORE AID TO RESIST JAPS

Chiang Gets Tanks, Guns and Advisers.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 5.—[Saturday]—(AP)—Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, dictator of China, with a group of soviet Russian advisers, more than 100 new tanks, recently Russian-strengthened artillery, and troops withdrawn from the Hankow area, has chosen southern Hunan province in which to make a new stand against the Japanese invasion.

The Chinese are taking up new positions in Hunan, south and southwest of Hankow. That city, Chiang's former stronghold, now rapidly is being converted into a Japanese military and commercial citadel in the heart of China.

Americans Train Pilots.

With the loss of the Hankow zone, Chiang is striving to avoid positional warfare, for which the Japanese, with their superior equipment, are better fitted. He is expected to intensify guerilla, or hit and run, warfare.

To back up this new phase of resistance the Chinese will have an air base in Yunnan, southwestermost province of China, where American instructors are training young airmen to expand the small but effective force of Russian-equipped and manned planes.

With an estimated six months' supply of munitions and a practically unlimited reservoir of man power, Chiang believes the Chinese will be able slowly to wear down the Japanese.

Japs Set Up New War Zone.

Japanese authorities warned neutral powers today to send their gunboats up the Yangtze river at least as far as Shasi, 120 miles west of Hankow, and designated the area between Hankow and Shasi a zone of hostilities.

The Japanese memorandum also advised that foreign vessels in the Siang river, which empties into the Yangtze through Lake Tungting, proceed upstream as far as Changsha, 180 miles south of the Japanese Hankow base.

Americans and other foreigners declare there is little chance of successful competition—for months at least—with the commercial organization Japan is building up in Hankow. Within the past few days hundreds of Japanese vessels have reached the metropolis, bringing goods up the Yangtze river. They arrived without incident, even though Japanese authorities had proclaimed the river unsafe. Foreign shipping has been bottled up for a year.

War Spreads in South.

HONGKONG, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Chinese-Japanese war has spread over a wide area of Kwangtung province, where the Japanese won a foothold with the capture of Canton Oct. 21.

The Chinese General News agency reported tonight that undefended cities of the province were bearing the brunt of widespread Japanese aerial attacks. Several towns were destroyed and others partly wrecked, the agency said.

[In Shanghai the Japanese naval spokesman said the aerial operations were centering on Yingtak, about 70 miles north of Canton on the Canton-Hankow railway. The Japanese army spokesman in Shanghai said the railway had been occupied for about 30 miles north of Canton.]

Japanese advices said the Chinese defense of Kwangtung province had been complicated by what they termed civil war between Kwangtung troops and provincial forces from neighboring Kwangsi. Kwangsi forces were said to be attacking the Kwangtung soldiers because of their failure to make a last ditch defense of Canton.

Wins $276,000 Suit

William S. Hart, former screen star, in whose behalf big judgment against United Artists was granted yesterday.

New York, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—William S. Hart, two-gun hero of many a western thriller of the old silent film days, won a jury verdict in Supreme court here today against the United Artists' corporation for $190,484, plus interest since 1931, a total of $276,965.

The suit arose from Hart's last picture, "Tumbleweeds." He charged that United Artists, in violation of its contract, made a block booking of "Tumbleweeds," which cost $500,000 to produce, with a picture that cost only $60,000. As a result "Tumbleweeds" lost $300,000, while the cheap picture made that much.

Once before Hart won an $80,000 verdict in the case, but United Artists won a reversal on an appeal. The jury required four hours to reach its verdict today.

DUCE TELLS ITALY TO KEEP EYE ON VENGEFUL WORLD

ROME, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini warned the country today against men who "are dreaming of speculative and impossible revenge."

"For this reason," he told a crowd massed before the Palazzo Venezia, "there is still need of sleeping with our heads on our packs as we did in the trenches."

Mussolini evidently was referring to factions abroad which he regards as being opposed to policies of general European appeasement on the basis of the four power Munich accord which sliced up Czechoslovakia.

"There are men who, feeling themselves beaten by the rectilinear, truly peaceful, European and human policy of the [Rome-Berlin] axis, are dreaming with their eyes wide open of speculative and impossible revenge," Mussolini said.

The occasion was the twentieth anniversary of the Italian world war victory over Austria. A hundred thousand veterans and thousands of civilians were in Rome.

HUNGARIAN ARMY MARCHES TODAY INTO CZECH AREA

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Hungary, on the eve of what she acclaims as her national resurrection, put final details in order tonight to begin occupation of 4,875 square miles of Czechoslovakia.

Tens of thousands of Hungarian soldiers awaited orders to march at 10 a. m. [3 a. m., Chicago time] tomorrow across pontoon bridges over the Danube river into the territory awarded Hungary by Italian and German arbitrators in Vienna last Wednesday.

HULL DEMANDS JAPAN STAND BY 9 POWER PACT

Says U. S. Will Oppose Empire's Plans.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Cordell Hull, secretary of state, indicated today that the United States would not abide by Japan's intention to link Japan, China, and Manchukuo together politically and economically.

In a formal statement he also gave the world to understand that this country would not accept any denunciation by Japan of the nine power treaty guaranteeing China's independence and the open door of commercial opportunities there.

He served notice that the United States stands on the existing treaties dealing with Japan and China. The American attitude, he said, is governed by the generally accepted principles of international law, by treaties, and by principles of fair dealing and fair play among nations.

Action Not Indicated.

He did not indicate what action the United States would take. He denied reports that he was consulting with other powers to induce them to denounce their commercial treaties with Japan.

Hull twice mentioned China and Japan in his short statement. This was interpreted to mean that, even as he will refuse to concede Japan the right to make a peace in China prejudicial to the nine power treaty, so he will also refuse to recognize the right of China to make a peace with Japan which would injure the rights of the United States and other nations.

It is thought possible that the time might come when China, tired of the war, might seek to make peace with Japan by direct negotiation. The United States, and probably other signatories to the nine power treaty reached in Washington in 1922, would then come forward to say that China had also incurred obligations under the treaty, namely, to respect the rights of other nations in China, and could not throw them over.

Both Bound by Pact.

Neither Japan nor China has the privilege, by her own action, to get rid of the nine power treaty. Significantly, there is nothing in the treaty providing for denunciation of it, which means it continues in perpetuity unless the powers again get together to change it.

Japan's contention is that between 1922, when the nine power treaty was signed, and today conditions have radically changed and that changing conditions invalidate the treaty. China no longer exists as it was in 1922 and Japan is the master of southeastern Asia.

Poles Hurl Ukrainians Out of Windows; Many Hurt in Riots

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 4.—Fresh outbreaks in cities of the Polish Ukraine have occurred during this week.

Lwow again was the scene of disorders. On Wednesday, after church services, Ukrainians demonstrated against Polish policies and for an independent Ukrainian republic. Their parade was dispersed by police. Later the Ukrainians congregated in the market place and smashed windows in the city hall.

On Thursday Polish students attacked a Ukrainian seminary. They threw Ukrainian students out of second story windows. Fifty Polish students were reported to have been arrested. Many Ukrainians were in hospitals with serious injuries.

Censor Suppresses News.

For the second time in three weeks, Lwow is being patroled by heavily armed militiamen. No accounts of these riots were published in the Warsaw press.

Because of censorship, it is impossible to discover the number of arrests and casualties in Lwow. The Polish Telegraph agency again has sent brief messages to foreign subscribers minimizing the importance of the riots, but even this news for foreign consumption is not permitted to appear in the Polish press.

A meeting of the Polish Journalists' syndicate passed a resolution protesting the confiscation of newspapers which attempted to publish stories about the riots. The resolution also protested the terrorist campaign which the government is waging against opposition parties to prevent them from boycotting the parliamentary elections on Sunday.

A delegation of editors and publishers attempted to visit Premier Skladkowski. They were ordered to see the chief of the political department of the ministry of interior.

Plead for Free Press.

After stating that repeated confiscations were threatening the newspapers with bankruptcy, and recalling the promises of President Ignace Moscicki that the elections would be held fairly, the delegation pleaded that freedom of the press be restored at least for the elections Sunday and for the municipal elections in December.

Director Waclaw Zyborski promised to decrease the number of confiscations. He said the government did not intend to restrict the freedom of the press through censorship, but merely wished to preserve public order. He further promised to investigate the long list of submitted complaints.

Although political police imprisoned many opposition leaders during the election campaign, no news of this action has yet been published in Poland.

SPANISH INSURGENT COLUMNS MEET TO OPEN JOINT DRIVE ON EBRO

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Nov. 4.—(AP)—Spanish insurgent columns tonight made a junction, it was reported, in their offensive against the government salient west of the Ebro river. They began immediately to prepare for a concerted drive against this zone which was captured by loyalist troops in July, the rebels said.

Insurgent advices said the attacking troops had formed an unbroken front after an advance of nearly 10 miles since Sunday.

A rebel broadcast said insurgent troops had occupied Mora de Ebro, major objective of the drive. Other advices, however, did not confirm this. Rebel dispatches from the front said that Miravet and Benisanet, towns near Mora de Ebro, had been captured.

It was asserted that fifteen government trench lines and more than 700 prisoners fell to Gen. Francisco Franco's rebel troops yesterday. About thirty-eight square miles of territory were regained, it was said.

COAT STOLEN AT POLITICAL RALLY.

Guy C. Crapple, 163 North Long avenue, reported to police yesterday that his new coat and hat, valued at $75, were stolen at a political meeting Thursday night at 831 North Central avenue.

U. S. AND BRITAIN ASK JAP AID FOR 200 IN WAR ZONE

HANKOW, China, Nov. 5 [Saturday.]—(AP)—American and British authorities today sought Japanese assistance to bring out 200 foreigners, including sixty Americans, who are in Kuling, a mountain resort 100 miles southeast of Hankow. The authorities feared Chinese troops surrounded by Japanese in that section might seize food supplies stored by the Kuling refugees to carry them through the next two months. The Japanese promised assistance, but said it was difficult to make contact with Japanese forces campaigning in the Kuling region.

HUNT 2 BROTHERS IN SLAYING OVER PARKING REBUKE

Killer, Identified, Flees After Shooting.

Two brothers were sought by police last night as suspects in the wanton slaying of Donald Warden Thursday night. Warden, 27 years old, a railroad electrician, was shot to death on the front porch of his home at 1143 South Central Park avenue. The shooting was the climax of his quarrel with four men after one of them had parked an automobile partly on Warden's lawn.

The brothers are Rubin Jersky, 25 years old, and Irving Jersky, 22, neighbors of Warden. Both have police records. Witnesses told police they participated in the fight that preceded the shooting. A third brother, Jacob, 26 years old, is also sought for questioning although police said he had not been named as being present.

Flee After Slaying.

Rubin Jersky lives at 1136 South Central Park avenue, across the street from Warden's home. Police learned that Rubin, his wife and Irving Jersky left their second floor apartment about fifteen minutes after the shooting and drove away hastily.

Rubin Jersky has a police record dating to 1931 when he was freed on a robbery charge. In 1933 Rubin and his two brothers, reputed to be members of an automobile theft ring, were charged with assault to commit murder after a shooting near Salt Lake City, Utah. Jacob Jersky was shot by two policemen in Chicago in 1936 while trying to evade capture for his return to Utah. The assault charges were nolle prossed there later. In January, 1936, Rubin served ten days in the Bridewell for reckless driving.

A fourth brother, Hyman Jersky, 27 years old, was placed on probation in 1933 for tampering with an automobile. Hyman is now reported to be in a sanitarium. The brothers lived with their father, Mayer Jersky, a moving van operator, at 3530 West 12th place until the father's death a year ago.

Canvass Neighborhood for Clews.

Sergt. Joseph Fallon developed the clews leading to the trail of the brothers. He and eight detectives canvassed the neighborhood in the belief that Warden's slayer probably lived near by because of the haste with which he obtained a gun during the fight.

The story of the slaying was pieced together by police from several witnesses, including Warden's young widow, Mrs. Annette Good Warden, 27 years old. The Wardens' son, Donald Jr., 8 years old, was asleep at the time of the murder.

Warden, once a professional boxer, had been angered often by automobile drivers who blocked the front of his home and parked their machines on the front curbing and lawn. Thursday night, according to Mrs. Warden, her husband saw an automobile park with one of its wheels on the curb and lawn. The passengers in the car—three or four—had left. Warden waited on the porch for them.

Beats Off Two Men.

Other witnesses told of what ensued. Warden was seen fighting off two men when a third joined them. They threw Warden down and beat and kicked him. He got up and ran into a gasoline filling station at 1147 South Central Park avenue. A man was chasing him and Warden tried to seize a gasoline pump nozzle. Abe Litberg, a station attendant, yelled at him not to disturb the nozzle.

Warden then ran back to his home, two of the men following him. He ran up the stairs to the top of the front porch. As he stood there a fourth man stepped up and called: "You coward, why don't you come down and fight?" Warden began rolling up his sleeves and started to go down when the man shot him.

Funeral services for Warden will be held at 9:30 a. m. Monday morning from the chapel at 3615 Cermak road to St. Agatha's church.

MENACED WITH GUN FOR REBUKE OVER PARKING

Felix Meleski, who operates an automobile repair shop at 2540 Linden place, had an encounter last night similar to that which ended fatally for Donald Warden Thursday night. Warden was shot to death when he objected to a car driven onto his lawn.

Meleski objected when a motorist and his woman companion parked in his driveway. The driver, who was wearing a uniform somewhat similar to that of army officers, drew a pistol and threatened to kill Maleski, remarking: "Be careful, buddy; you know what happened to that guy last night."

BOOKIES GET RAIN CHECKS; ONLY 5 RAIDED IN DAY

State's Attorney Courtney's ax squads were interrupted yesterday in their handbook smashing by the sudden rainstorm. So they visited only five places and called it a day. The raids brought the total of betting establishments demolished in the anti-gambling campaign to 606. The raids were at 944 East 43d street, 2838 Broadway, 18 East Harrison street, 1204 Hood avenue, and 37 South Wabash avenue.

CONDEMNS BOARD FOR PAROLES TO 2 STRIP BANDITS

Without Jobs, They Go Back to Crime.

Police Chief L. B. Rogers of Kankakee yesterday termed "damned bad business" the action of Gov. Horner's parole board in freeing two convicts without making sure that they had jobs waiting for them.

Lacking employment the two parolees, brothers, returned to their former occupation of robbery. They are now in the Kankakee jail, charged with a score of strip robberies, in which they held up couples in local lovers' lanes and forced the men to shed their trousers as a precaution against pursuit.

Confess Thirteen Robberies.

The prisoners are Frank Laurix, 29 years old, and his brother, Bernard, 24. They were arrested Thursday and already have confessed thirteen robberies in which they have been identified. They are suspected of a number of others. A third brother, Joe Laurix, who has a minor police record, is being sought in Chicago.

Frank Laurix was arrested in 1931 with three accomplices. They were identified at Kankakee in some twenty filling station robberies. While awaiting trial, they escaped from the Kankakee county jail, using saws smuggled to them by a younger brother of one of the band. They were recaptured in Georgia ten days later.

Laurix was returned to Kankakee and sentenced to Joliet penitentiary. He was paroled from there last August.

Resume Life of Crime.

While Frank was in prison his younger brother, Bernard, was also convicted of robbery at Kankakee and sent to the Pontiac reformatory. Bernard, transferred later to Joliet, was paroled in February, 1937. After Frank's release, the brothers resumed their holdup activities.

Both of the convict brothers were paroled to a Kankakee priest. Frank Laurix told Chief Rogers that neither had had steady work since being released.

"We got a day's work now and then just to make things look good," said Frank.

"It was damned poor business to let them out without making sure that they had regular jobs," said Chief Rogers. "If they weren't working, anybody should have known they'd start stealing."

WOMAN ACCUSED OF BEING WITCH KILLED BY AUTO

Rochester, Ind., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Mrs. Irene Ray, 62 years old, whose neighbors last spring accused her of witchcraft, was killed by an automobile tonight. Her husband, Lewis Ray, a laborer, was critically injured.

The couple was struck by the automobile of Miss May Kern as they walked on the highway near their home a mile east of Rochester. Miss Kern said her vision was impaired by a heavy rain and that she was watching a bicyclist in her path. She was not held.

Last May members of eight Rochester families caused Mrs. Ray's arrest by persistent charges that she had "hexed" many persons. They said she cast spells with vinegar and cat hairs. The woman was subsequently released, State's Attorney Murray McCarty pointing out that Indiana has no statute covering sorcery.

21 COOK COUNTY CONVICTS AMONG 67 GIVEN PAROLES

Among those to be released is Dominick Buttita, who was convicted as a receiver of stolen automobiles in May, 1934. A young accomplice testified that Buttita gave him a number of master keys and told him to steal cars. Five machines were turned over to Buttita, who had a shop near Grand and Central Park avenues.

Also to be paroled are Morris J. Billeck, convicted of shooting Robert H. Brown, a real estate broker, in his office at 188 West Randolph street in July 1935, and William J. Roula, a tax collector in Worth township, who stole $5,000 in tax funds in February, 1936.

FIND INDIANA GIRL RAPED BEFORE MYSTERY DEATH

Examine Body for Traces of Poison.

Coroner J. Robert Doty of Gary said last night that an examination of the body of Miss Frieda Borman showed she had been raped. The young woman was found dead under mysterious circumstances Thursday alongside a lonely road near Griffith, Ind., ten miles south of West Gary where she lived.

Keith Alson.

Police have been unable thus far to determine the cause of death. No marks of violence were found on the body. The young woman was fully dressed. From the condition of the clothing police said it appeared the body had been brought to the road and placed in a clump of bushes.

Awaits Chemical Analysis.

Coroner Doty said he could not determine the cause of death until after a chemical analysis. He said there was a possibility the young woman may have been poisoned or drugged. Last night the contents of her stomach were being examined by City Chemist Charles Zumfelde of Gary.

At Crown Point Chief Deputy Sherif Charles Carlson conferred with Keith Alson, who had planned to marry Miss Borman next spring. Alson, who is 23 years old, is employed on a dairy farm near Crown Point. He and the young woman had been sweethearts for the last two years.

Alson said he had last seen Miss Borman a week ago Tuesday when she visited him on the farm. He said he had gone to Gary last Sunday to visit her in response to a letter. When he arrived at the Borman home, however, he was told Frieda had been missing since the previous day.

Question Her Friends.

He and Miss Borman's brother, William, began a search for her. They questioned friends, then reported her disappearance to police. Alson said he had no idea how the young woman came to her death.

Coroner Doty said police also wished to question another young man whom Miss Borman refused a date two weeks ago. The youth is said to live near the Borman home.

Miss Borman was 22 years old. She lived with her father, Henry Borman. She had been missing since last Saturday when she left home to register for work at the state employment bureau in Gary.

FRANKIE PARKER JAILED, RELEASED IN $30,000 BOND

Frankie Parker, known as the millionaire airplane bootlegger of prohibition days, spent four and a half hours in the county jail yesterday after he surrendered on indictments charging him with conspiracy to forge American Express company money orders. Parker was released after his attorney, James M. Burke, had scheduled $30,000 bond. Parker pleaded not guilty before Judge Robert Jerome Dunne.

Parker got out of jail much more quickly than George [Bugs] Moran, former north side gang leader, who spent five days in jail on a similar charge before he was released in $30,000 bond Thursday.

Ralph A. Hanna, former investigator for State's Attorney John A. Swanson, also indicted as a member of the ring, surrendered yesterday and pleaded not guilty.

New York, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Two men, one a Franciscan brother, died today in flames which damaged upper floors of the rectory of the Church of St. Anthony of Padua in Greenwich Village. One priest, trapped five floors above the street, was critically burned, and another, the Rev. Luigi Vitale, 62 years old, was injured in leaping from a window to the roof of an adjacent building two floors below. The dead were Brother John Chiazza, 58 years old, and Julius Tappero, 65, a cook.

SENDS BROTHERS IN COUNTERFEIT GANG TO PRISON

Two brothers, Sam Florest, 35 years old, and Al Florest, 28, were sentenced to nine and six years respectively in Leavenworth penitentiary by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday on counterfeiting charges. The brothers were found guilty by a jury on six counts of an indictment charging them with passing and possessing $6,000 of fraudulent silver certificates.

The defendents were arrested last July after a government undercover agent had worked with them for three months gathering evidence. Another member of the gang, Mike Catalona, 39, 4611 Broadway, who testified against the others, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to serve eight months in the Cook County jail. Two others were previously dismissed from the case because of insufficient evidence.

Caller's Collateral a Gun; Finance Concern Out $500

An armed robber invaded the offices of the Household Finance corporation at 3150 Lincoln avenue yesterday, waved a revolver at the cashier, Mrs. Gertrude Wietholter, then escaped with $500 from the cash box. The Sheffield avenue police were notified.

HEIRS PASS UP $130,749; COUNTY GETS WINDFALL

If you try hard enough, you can find some one who'll take $130,749.01 off your hands. Judge John F. O'Connell of the Probate court did yesterday. He turned over the money, which heirs have failed to claim from estates for years, to County Treasurer Horace G. Lindheimer and said the county might spend it any way it chose.

The money has been accumulating since 1924 because heirs had died or moved away or couldn't be located. The smallest amount was 60 cents. The largest was $4,222.48, the unclaimed shares of Thomas and Michael McCormack in the estate of Mary Crowley. Because the law requires that such funds be held for seven years, inheritances unclaimed since 1932 are still accumulating.

If the heirs in the 1,032 estates involved ever appear, they can still get their money. The judge will just give them an order on the county treasury.

Otto Fahsbender, 6224 Evans avenue, was sentenced to ten days in the county jail for driving while intoxicated by Judge Stephen Adamowski in the Safety court yesterday. His driving privileges were suspended for a year. On Feb. 7, 1937, he was sentenced to ten days in the Bridewell on a similar charge. Robert Starr, 506 Chicago avenue, got ten days in jail for reckless driving. He was suspended from driving for six months.

RAGING ILLINOIS FIRES CURBED BY HEAVY RAINS

6,000 Fighting Blazes in Twelve States.

Drenching rains last night curbed raging forest and prairie fires in southern Illinois which had caused Gov. Horner to declare a state of emergency. Moving slowly eastward, the rains were expected to bring aid today to 6,000 forest fire fighters in twelve states.

In Illinois the rain fell in the wake of windstorms which killed one man, caused extensive property damage, unroofed houses, uprooted trees, and damaged communication lines.

Although out of the tornado belt, Chicago may expect high winds and rain today. Forecaster C. A. Donnel said the center of a western storm area would pass the city, but that the fringe would bring strong winds and cooler weather.

Late last night the wind increased to an estimated 35 miles an hour. Gusts as high as 55 miles were recorded early today at Tribune Tower. Numerous windows were blown in throughout the city. In front of 5024 North Lockwood avenue a large poplar tree was blown across the street. Firemen removed it.

Bans Fires in Forest Areas.

Gov. Horner issued his proclamation at the request of the division of forestry of the conservation department. The first of its kind, it prohibited the starting of any open fires in forest areas of the state without permission of a forestry agent.

The fire hazard caused by dryness of grass and brush, due to lack of rain for more than a month, was declared the most acute in the history of southern Illinois forestry units.

Galen Pike of Harrisburg, United States forest supervisor for 157,000 downstate acres, said the rain has halted the spreading fires, which were whipped by high winds. But unless more rain falls soon, he said, the situation will remain serious.

Two thousand men were enlisted by the state forestry service in fire fighting. The most critical counties were Franklin, Wayne, Gallatin, Hamilton, Saline, Pope, Hardin, Massac, Johnson, Jackson, Union, and Alexander. Thousands of acres were seared.

In neighboring Indiana, farmers in remote hill sections fled in terror as the fire spread toward their homes. The most extensive blazes were in the southern part of the state. Michigan also faced the same peril.

Kentucky's forest fires were described as the worst in history. In Tennessee many of the mountain fires were out of control. One-fourth of West Virginia was on fire, the weary fighters waiting for rain to check the flames. One hundred fires were out of control.

Other states fighting the fire danger included Alabama, Mississippi, Missouri, Georgia, Virginia, and the Carolinas.

Wind Topples Radio Tower.

At Martinsville, John Buckle, 40 years old, was electrocuted when a power line fell upon him. Power lines were severed at Salem, East St. Louis, and Du Quoin.

FIRST ILLINOIS DRIVER LICENSE ISSUED TO WARD

Edward J. Hughes, secretary of state, yesterday issued the first Illinois drivers' license. It was given to Senator Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago], father of the law over which there was a Democratic factional squabble for patronage.

This morning, the secretary said, 125,000 license cards will be mailed to early applicants. It will be illegal after next May 1 for any resident of Illinois to operate a motor car in this state without his license card on his person. Application blanks are being issued by THE TRIBUNE public service offices at a rate of 6,500 a day.

HAMMOND POLICE HUNT FOR CLEWS IN GANG MURDER

Hammond police were still seeking clews yesterday to the shotgun slayer of Walter Leonard, 29 years old, a former alcohol peddler. Leonard, believed to have been the driver for gunmen who in 1935 fired on State's Attorney Courtney's automobile, was found fatally wounded in Hammond on Wednesday. Capt. Sandor Singer of the Hammond police said, "It looks like another Chicago gangland killing that may never be solved."

BARBER'S HOME BOMBED.

A stench bomb was tossed into the home of John Adamczyk, 5525 Schubert avenue, yesterday. Adamczyk said he operates a cut rate barber shop in the basement of his home.

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

SOAP SOPHISTICATES

By CALEB

GREAT-GRANDMAMA, making the household supply of soap in a great iron kettle out-of-doors, used often to taste the brew much as she sampled food to tell when it was done. Youngsters, whose vocabularies were controlled by the application of soap upon occasion, shuddered at the thought of it—but great-grandma never seemed to mind.

The taste method of discovering when soap was done survived the coming of machines and white-tiled laboratories for many years, but recently it, too, has gone the way of the horse and buggy. The plant in which our Americe soap is made kept until recently an official taster whose word was law when it came to emptying the great vessels in which the soap ingredients were boiled. And—he loved his work. Retiring at a ripe old age, he scorned the "gadgets" and chemical tests used today, and still insists that only the taste tells when soap is done to a turn.

We do have here numerous customers and friends with a highly developed taste in soap—expressed by their careful choice and exacting standards. We call them "soap sophisticates," and some of them are to be found almost any time in our Toiletries department. They regard soap as more than a casual household convenience. Color, size, shape and perfume become items of importance to them, and they discuss them at length as they linger before the vari-colored displays brought together in our cases by connoisseurs like themselves.

These soap sophisticates know that many of the best soaps are aged as carefully as fine wines or woods, and that some manufacturers never release their soap until it has seasoned for at least a year in warehouses.

A good many soaps are famous for their distinctive perfumes—and your real soap enthusiast can identify them blindfolded. One such soap has an amazingly realistic lilac scent hard to distinguish from the blossom itself. Others produce the very effect of other flowers, and still others the fragrance of pine needles. Each scent has its adherents among the soap enthusiasts, and each commands a following. And so you need not be surprised next time you visit our Toiletries department if you hear there a spirited discussion of more length than you ever imagined could be engendered by as prosaic an object as a simple bar of soap.

BRITISH PREMIER TO VISIT FRANCE; LAY PEACE PLANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax accepted an invitation of the French government to visit Paris from Nov. 23 to Nov. 25, it was announced tonight in London. The ministers will be accompanied by their wives.

The main purpose is to sound out French ministers on Chamberlain's European appeasement proposals, it was said. The two nation's leaders will talk over prospects of a four power pact [Britain, France, Germany and Italy], the return of colonies to Germany, the Spanish civil war and the league of nations.

The proposed trip is considered in some quarters as a move to counter the impression of a slackening in Anglo-French coöperation as a result of Chamberlain's negotiations with dictator states. Diplomatic sources disclosed that Chamberlain seeks assurance that France will swing into line with Britain. He wants to be sure of France before committing himself on Reichsfuehrer Hitler's colonial ambitions and other problems, it is said.

OPEN INQUIRY INTO CAUSE OF AIRLINER CRASH KILLING 14

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. HELIER, Jersey, Channel Islands, Nov. 4.—An investigation was begun tonight by aviation experts into the cause of the crash today of the four engined De Havilland airliner, St. Catherine Bay, killing fourteen persons, four of them women, one a baby, and one a farmer who was crushed when the craft fell upon him.

Within two minutes after the plane took off for Southampton, England, at 10:50 a. m., flames and smoke began streaking from one of the motors, the ship began to fall and crashed to earth. An explosion followed, blowing the mutilated bodies of crew and passengers several yards.

The giant airliner was operated by the Jersey Airways service and was on its regular flight from here to Southampton, 125 miles over water. Air line officials said they were unable to determine the cause of the crash. They said clouds were as low as 150 feet at the time of the takeoff.

NEUTRALITY ACT ENDANGERS U. S., SAYS SEN. AUSTIN

The neutrality act of 1937 should be repealed or amended to leave the United States free to remain really neutral in the event of war, Senator Warren R. Austin [R., Vt.], said yesterday. He spoke on "The Voice of America" before the Executives' club in the Hotel Sherman.

The neutrality act, he asserted, might operate by economic participation to help one side in a conflict.

He proposed to give the President discretion to apply or withdraw embargoes under the act when war actually exists, whether declared or not, and when such action is necessary to promote the peace and security of the United States or to protect the lives of its citizens.

"Isolation in the modern world is impossible," he declared, "if we are to preserve a republican form of government on this continent. Isolation would afford the 'emergency' for the perfection of the totalitarian state here."

ARAB REBEL CHIEF THREATENS U. S. IN PALESTINE DISPUTE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4. — [Special.]—A vigorous letter addressed to "Franklin Rosefelt, Cordil Hole, and Sinator Grant" has been delivered to George Wadsworth, American consul general in Jerusalem, by Abdul Razik, Arab rebel leader. He threatened to boycott American goods, demolish American buildings, and seize American portable property if the United States government intervenes in favor of continued Jewish immigration into Palestine. Razik suggested, instead, that the United States open her own doors wider to immigrants. It is assumed that "Sinator Grant" refers to Senator Wagner. The letter is being forwarded here by mail. The state department would make no comment on it today.

GERMAN MOVIE ACTRESS DENIES HITLER ROMANCE

New York, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Fraulein Leni Riefenstahl, a Nazi German film celebrity, arrived here on the Europa today and laughingly denied there was anything romantic about her friendship with Adolf Hitler.

She had been referred to frequently as one of Hitler's few women friends, and her trip to America brought a report that she had lost favor with the dictator. She laughed at the story that she has Jewish blood.

"Because I work in the films I have to see Hitler sometimes," she said. "He is not difficult to see. I have known him since 1932. He saw one of my pictures and liked it."

Fraulein Rifenstahl said she was here on a holiday.

KING TO REVEAL AMERICAN VISIT PLANS TUESDAY

Will Tour U. S. if He Has Sufficient Time.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 4.—King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth will visit the United States if there is time at the end of their Canadian tour next summer. That was stated here tonight.

The king probably will disclose his plans in a speech at the reopening of parliament on Nov. 8. No indication of specific plans is yet availble.

A formal message from the king, reviewing the year's major events and important legislation, officially ended the first parliament session of his reign today. Until he personally reopens parliament on Tuesday, that body is "in abeyance."

Praises Roosevelt Action.

President Roosevelt's "timely action" in the war crisis won a royal word of praise. The king called it a powerful aid toward peace in the course of his brief review of world affairs. Otherwise the message was largely a doleful catalog of wars and other troubles.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain was unable to attend the session due to a cold. His condition was reported to be better, however, and he is expected to be on hand for the state opening of parliament on Tuesday.

Omits Royal "We."

Following present practice, the king did not use the royal "we" in his message. He referred to himself in the singular. Read in the house of lords to the assembled peers and commoners by Lord Maugham, the lord chancellor, the message was repeated in the house of commons by the speaker, Capt. E. A. FitzRoy, sitting in the clerk's chair instead of his own as a token that the session already was prorogued.

A review of the Czech crisis and the events leading to it was followed by mention of the decision to ratify the Italian treaty. On the heels of that came a brief complimentary reference to the league of nations, though the pretense no longer was maintained, as it was until George VI.'s accession, that the league still guides British policy.

Refers to Wars.

Wars still going on in Spain and China drew rueful comment, followed by more grateful mention of closer coöperation achieved with Egypt and Ireland.

A gloomy note returned as the message mentioned that "I have been deeply distressed by the continuance and recent intensification of violence and lawlessness in Palestine," and "conditions prevailing in the West Indies have given me concern."

New laws on defense services, health services, slum clearance and regulation of coal, bacon, fishing and dairy industries all were mentioned before the traditional conclusion: "I pray that the blessing of Almighty God may attend you."

DIES AFTER FIRE RESCUE.

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Mrs. Belle Bartholomew, 75 years old, who was rescued a week ago from her blazing farm home on Harrison avenue road, died last night at the Swedish American hospital. Death was due to pneumonia, believed caused by the fumes she breathed in the fire.

MILK GIVES MOST VALUE PER PENNY, SAYS FOUNDATION

According to recent studies on the nutritional values of various foods, the Milk Foundation, a non-profit health education organization, found that Grade A milk contains more essential food elements per penny than any other single food. Grade A milk is an excellent source of vitamins in a most economical form, all of which are very important to maintaining buoyant good health. Grade A milk also is rich in high quality protein needed to build and repair body tissue. In addition, it has a large supply of minerals, particularly calcium and phosphorus.

MOSCOW TERRORISM IN MINNESOTA.

Clarence Hathaway, the editor of the Daily Worker, New York's communist party newspaper, went to Minneapolis to do his own reporting of the trial of Arnold Johnson. Johnson was the driver for William S. Brown, head of the teamsters' district council. He confessed that he had murdered his employer, but the jury of six men and six women came to the seemingly contradictory verdict that he was innocent. Mr. Hathaway's reason for thinking this murder trial worthy of his own personal attention is in itself the key to an extraordinary story.

Four crimes are outstanding in Minnesota's recent political history. They are unsolved murders and unquestionably political. The killers got the editors of two small papers, Liggett and Guilford, both murdered to stop the exposures they were making, both being slain after the state's press gag law had been pronounced unconstitutional by the United States Supreme court.

The other two political murders took two officers of the powerful Teamsters' union, which was the vanguard of the late Gov. Floyd Olson's attack upon Minnesota industry. Patrick J. Corcoran was the first assassinated. His murderers, like those of the two editors, were never punished. They weren't even found. Then Brown, the head of the teamsters' district council, was killed. The murderer, as confessed, was his own driver and bodyguard. Again no conviction.

Mr. Hathaway went out to report the trial for reasons which are not apparently perceived by the ordinary run of American newspaper readers. Minnesota is the battleground between the Stalin and the Trotzkyite communists. It is the only state in which the Trotzkyites say they have an influential following. Their stronghold is the general drivers' council and, after two murders, their principal representatives are the three Dunne brothers—Grant, Miles, and Vincent.

"The verdict of the jury," says Mr. Hathaway in his report, "was generally attributed to the strong case made by the defense attorneys during the closing arguments of the trial, which lasted twelve days. They concentrated their attack against the three Dunne brothers—Grant, Miles, and Vincent—all Trotzkyites, implying that the solutions of the two murders—Brown and Corcoran—were to be found not in the conviction of the defendant but in the further examination of the Trotzkyites. Though the defense attorneys did not say so in so many words, they implied that the murderers were to be found in the ranks of those who were struggling for control of the general drivers' council—the Trotzkyites."

It might seem strange to persons not initiated in the mysteries of communist terrorism why the Trotzkyites should be suspected of killing men affiliated with them in their struggle for survival in Minnesota politics against the Stalinites. It is apparent, however, that communism has progressed to the stage in the United States where terrorism becomes a part of the tactics for political control. Stalin assassinated the Founding Fathers and old bolshevists by the prostitution of judicial process, but many of the most distinguished soviet officials—generals, admirals, and diplomats—went the same death route taken by the minor thousands suspected of political or personal deviation. They were murdered in the dark.

If we are to take the communist interest in Minnesota politics merely at its face value, the conclusion must be that Moscow purge methods have begun to flower in the state which for a long time had been the most receptive. The communist feud is developing also in Michigan, but Minnesota is the pioneer in new American political methods. The communists are the principal activists of the New Deal.

Minnesota is the state in which Mr. Roosevelt, two years ago, when he was running for reëlection, removed the Democratic nominees for governor and United States senator to give the communist supported Farmer-Labor candidates a clear field. He, then, was himself the candidate for the Moscow vote.

GOVERNMENT OPERATION.

The state of Illinois thought it made a smart deal when on July 3, 1930, after paying for 80 per cent of the cost of the sanitary ship canal and the Illinois waterway it turned the latter over to the federal government for completion and surrendered all right to its ownership and operation. One hundred and fourteen million dollars have been spent on construction on the stretch of navigable water between Chicago and Grafton, at the mouth of the Illinois river. Overhead, maintenance, and operation have cost an additional indeterminate number of millions.

The proponents of this transfer of ownership and authority were so anxious to effect its consummation by the passage of the rivers and harbors act of 1930 that they allowed Senator Blaine of Wisconsin to insert an ambiguous amendment in the act which has arisen to plague those shippers who are now using the waterway. Low water is seriously hampering barge operations over a large portion of the route. The secretary of war unquestionably has the right to relieve this situation by simply authorizing a slight increase in the diversion of water from Lake Michigan—an increase of an amount which engineers say will in no way hamper lake trafic. However, the legal advisers of the war department have decreed that the Blaine amendment prevents any diversion for navigation purposes in excess of that allowed by the Taft decision for sanitation purposes. Shippers are told they will have to wait until some time next year when a minimum depth of nine feet will be maintained by the series of locks and dams now being built in the lower Illinois river. A worse example of stupid government ownership and operation would be hard to find.

Incidentally, the city of Chicago is going to find itself up against a similar proposition as a result of turning over absolute control of its street transportation to Mr. Ickes in exchange for a paltry federal grant of eighteen million dollars to build a piece of a subway.

VOTE YES ON THE AMENDMENT.

THE TRIBUNE recommends a yes vote on the proposed amendment of the banking section of the state constitution to be voted on Tuesday.

If ratified, the amendment will abolish double liability for bank stockholders, and will make banking legislation in the future a legislative instead of a constitutional subject. As a safeguard against hasty action it is provided that a two-thirds vote of both houses will be necessary on banking legislation, whereas a majority is sufficient for other subjects.

Double liability for bank stockholders is being abolished generally. It no longer applies to national banks and has been done away with in other states. The compulsory insurance of deposits up to $5,000 has removed the justification for double liability from the standpoint of all but the largest depositors.

So disastrous did bank stock ownership prove to be during 1931 and 1932 that it is now impossible to get any persons of business experience and means to purchase stock in a state bank. The result is that a number of sections of Chicago and many downstate cities are suffering because of a lack of any banking facilities. Ultimately, it is believed, the present law will result in the extinction of all Illinois state banks.

The experience of this state under the existing arrangement which required a referendum on changes in the banking laws was one of the worst of any states during the period just preceding the banking moratorium. A banking code such as that in the state of New York probably would have cut down considerably the banking disasters we experienced a few years ago. But a banking code is a highly technical piece of legislation, and runs to 100 printed pages or more. To make a book of a ballot and expect a voter to be able to read it and come to a conclusion about it in a few minutes in a voting booth is highly absurd.

Several persons have written to THE TRIBUNE pointing out that when radicals of both isms are striving to change the character of American government it is no time to tinker with the fundamental law of a state. We believe, however, that protection against ill conceived banking laws is more surely provided by the amendment in the existing constitutional provision. And for that reason we believe that the circumstances justify an exception to the policy of opposing all constitutional changes during the present emergency.

NEW CAVE MEN STUFF.

The people living in and around London aren't at all sure whether they were set to digging fox holes and bomb and gas proof shelters in the recent crisis to protect themselves or to protect Mr. Chamberlain. He was mightily strengthened in his dealings with Herr Hitler by the anti-aircraft precautions to which the people were stimulated. Although they are undecided now whether those holes kept Mr. Chamberlain out of one, they are learning that neither they nor the authorities were doing the thing well. Its political effect was all right in giving the people an illusion, the reality of which Mr. Chamberlain was trying to avoid. But there will have to be better equipment and method if there is ever a test of the protections.

The digging contains a suggestion. It can be put in a question: Why should cities be above ground? The race has gone far since cave days. Underground habitations now could be provided with light, proper temperatures, pure air, and all conditions best suited for good living. For one thing, climate would be at last man's own work. The usability of the earth would be, if not quite, almost doubled.

Above his city house the householder's family would have the garden. When skies were smiling and weather lovely he would be out like a chipmunk enjoying his trees, plants, turf, and flowers, with the sky above him. He would have space for outdoor recreations.

When the weather was bad he would be in his well ventilated underground home, with his streets, shops, factories, playgrounds, places of assemblage all protected from the whims and eccentricities of climate. Below he would be master of his comings and goings. The weather forecast would be unimportant. With the scientific knowledge of his experts he would make his temperatures and keep out the winds, rains, sleet, snow, excessive cold, and excessive heat. When he wanted to pop into the upper world, he would find it unblemished by structures and open for his greater entertainment.

If Mr. Chamberlain, to survey what was exposed of Great Britain to Herr Hitler's air force, had come up calmly to look over groves of trees and beds of petunias, and if he then went to Berchtesgaden, Godesberg, or Munich, his ultimatum to the Fuehrer might have been, "And so what?" or "Do you want to make anything of it?" With underground cities the weather would be taken out of daily life and the airplane out of international politics.

Editorial of the Day

[Bloomington, Ill., Pantagraph.]

Injuries, deaths are not uncommon as the power machines grow in popularity on the farm. To say that it is regrettable is small consolation to those who have themselves suffered, or who have lost loved ones. It is well worth while, however, to point out the dangers, that others may heed.

Railroad men are qualified to speak of safety first. Their program has cut the number of railroad worker accidents to a tenth the former volume. The worst danger of all, they report, is lack of respect for machinery and its ability to cause injury. This respect has been gained by a long campaign of meetings, discussion, publicity.

Farmers are at a disadvantage in that they are their own bosses in many cases and have no supervisor to enforce safety rules.

It is obviously the duty of leaders in agriculture to undertake some safety first program in this machine age.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

A FEW 'RAHS FOR OUR TEAMS.

"On, Wisconsin. On, Wisconsin——"

"Go, you, Northwestern, break right through that line——"

For goodness' sake, or words to that effect as used in "Of Mice and Men," it's almost the same tune!

Anyway, we'll be there, muttering advice to the quarter backs. Take this one for us, N. U., and then fight it out with Michigan next Saturday for the championship. You're rated to win a pennant a year ahead of time, without the aid of the fabulous De Correvont, and then we'll tell the sports desk, "I told you so." Our guess is that Hahnenstein will be the deciding factor.

The original words of "On Wisconsin" said, "Run the ball around Chicago." But that's obsolete. Chicago is playing Harvard today, and nobody seems to care. We do not expect to see the score of the battle of the intellectuals in Cambridge, Mass., posted at Dyche stadium.

The Monk Comes Clean.

What a mess I started and am wondering if it will be safe for me to come home. Due back early next week, but I shall go into a huddle with myself and decide between a passport to Spain or a return ticket to Chicago via Baraboo.

Now if them thar guys in Baraboo really want the truth of the matter, perhaps the following statement will clarify things a bit for them. Mr. Clark never pretended to be the actual Bunn the Baker, never having attended an oven in his life. He was a railway clerk in the employ of the C. B. & Q. Ry. here in Chicago, and on a trip through southern Wisconsin happened to see the sign of Mr. Bunn the Baker. It struck him as a wonderful pen name, and he perhaps is guilty of pilferage or petty theft or something, but that's what he did. Over that signature he contributed regularly to Bert Leston Taylor's Line, and as a result the actual Bunn the Baker became a national figure. It is doubtful that the baker in question was literally inclined. Clark did the writing and Mr. Bunn became famous.

Hope this explanation will reinstate the canceled subscriptions in Baraboo. Cheerio.

SEA CHIVALRY.

A storm at sea and a ship on fire,
A thousand people in peril dire;
Out of the ether the signals fall
And a dozen liners answer the call.

They speed away to the ship in need,
A dozen captains of every breed,
To follow the rule of the sea that knows
No distinction of friends or foes.

But over in China and over in Spain
Women and children appeal in vain;
Comes no reply to their S O S,
No one can help them in their distress.

How they must envy those souls at sea,
Where tempest and flame rage ruthlessly,
Awaiting the doom of the bursting bomb!

Eolus.

The Actor's Fighting Word.

While you are in the mood for producing "wise and eloquent sayings," could you be persuaded to delve into the mysteries of the origin of the word "ham" as applied to an actor? The Spectator.

[Authorities differ on this, and there are several explanations, all fairly plausible. It may be a contraction of "Hamlet," the ambitious tragedian's favorite rôle. It may be an abbreviation of "ham-fat," referring to the grease that actors smear on their faces. It is always used in a derogatory sense. It is a cheap sneer at [1] an actor's ability, and [2] his sense of vanity. The Linemaster has written billions of words about the stage without ever employing it.]

The Class in Nature Study.

Please, Mr. Linemaster, there are too red leaves in Chicago. You just didn't look in the right places. These fluttered down on my shoulder Nov. 2 on the way to work, and I saved them just to show you. There is a whole row of trees full of them on Nickerson avenue. I run under them every morning to catch the bus.

Puck of Norwood Park.

A WOMAN'S INDIAN SUMMER.

Now Indian summer casts a clement smile
And marigolds warm, pumpkin orange. With guile
She turns upon the earth a light so mellow
Each garden is a painting yet belies
Now fields, well harvested, are bared to skies
Too cool to stir seeds quickening anew.

So you, with smile and cultivated charm
Look forty-nine obliquely in the face,
Assume serenity above alarm
At Time's unmitigated, measured pace.
Alike in bearing, you and autumn wear
A mask of nonchalance, of savoir faire.

Maxine Brinkley.

Jack Frost Loses His Reputation.

Jack Frost is late this year and our city air could scarcely be expected to encourage bright colors, but the red in autumn displays may not be affected by either. According to modern nature lessons, it is the chemical change within the leaf itself that determines both the change and the color, sugar content being responsible for the reds.

By the time the local and federal governments get their cut of "sugar," city trees might naturally be shy of expected brilliance. Because J. Frost usually turns up in time for the change, he is the red herring or cover-up artist put on to fool the public—in other words the "fall guy"; and not as bad as he paints or is painted.

Mrs. Jack Frost.

First Aid to Strapless Gowns.

Re the recent disaster of the strapless gown: May I suggest that the escorts carry a box of letter clamps, real bright and shiny, for emergency use? After the accident, onlookers would think the repair work was just a bit of the brilliant trimming now in vogue. Office Girl.

IS JACK A DULL BOY?

WHY does one boy or girl make normal progress at school—maintain an average excellence in grades—while another lags behind or falls of promotion at the end of the year? All too often the situation is looked upon as an indication of laziness, whereas the proper term to apply is listlessness. The former may be a matter of disposition; the later, in most instances, has a physical basis. Such a youngster needs a careful health inventory, including an inquiry into his mental reactions, as psychological factors may play an important rôle.

Of course, if the lad is ill or debilitated from some previous illness we need look no further for the cause. In fact, he should not be in school until convalescence is fully established. More than likely some smoldering infection is present and it is not uncommon to find children with afternoon temperatures of over 100 degrees because of pus in the sinuses, the tonsils, or some other point in the body.

Many teachers will say that Johnny or Gretchen cannot concentrate. While a dreamy state is not unusual there may be an utter loss of interest in the school program actuated by rheumatism [which is sometimes called "growing pains"], or the malady known as chorea, or St. Vitus' dance. Again, unhappiness in the home may lead to a form of indifference that may be put down as lack of intelligence.

Every physician can recall many young patients who have been brought to him because of backwardness. A thorough study of the child more often than not disclosed an anemia or possibly a case of malnutrition which, when corrected, transformed the youngster into an alert, eager student. There may be plenty of food in the home but the selection is poor or ill balanced, with too little vitamins, calcium, or iron. I recall a twelve year old boy who was not only indifferent but ugly. The trouble was hunger. The home larder was well stocked but he has formed such vicious eating habits that he was badly undernourished.

I have no quarrel with our present educational system. It is about as good as we can expect under the plan of mass training where—in the main—individual attention is impossible. Of course, the work must be pitched for the average but we must not fail to feed that insatiable trait—curiosity—which is the spark plug of every developing mind. Instead, we impose upon the child tasks which he does not relish and which he rebels at performing. Of course, there are some dull children and all such should be directed wisely to that kind of vocational school for which there is some aptitude.

But book learning can be made interesting because the fledgling craves contact with the outside world—things that are new, strange, and different. We will have difficulty with but few pupils if curiosity can be satisfied. I have in mind a high school classmate. He knew more about the world of affairs than all of us put together; he had traveled more than any one. But to him Latin was a stark tragedy. Instead of excusing him from the course and directing his attention to other fields he was obliged to weary his way through four tedious years. This one subject killed his ambition for college. At any rate, the thought of the entrance board examination appalled him. He told us, "I am going to study law anyway." In those days there was no prelegal academic requirement and I was not at all surprised to learn later not only of his brilliant career at the bar but of his wise decisions when he was elevated to the bench.

With an instructor who could have made the study of Latin live—and some can—he would have led the class. Instead, "cum concessives" and "conditions contrary to fact" proved his Waterloo. Most of the faculty classified him as a backward youth. He was anything but that, and I wonder sometimes why students are not consulted more frequently as to the reasons for failure.

With physical difficulties out of the way—encouraging, stimulating leadership in the schoolroom will solve the problem for the boy or girl who is not actually lacking in brain power.

NOSEBLEED.

M. P. writes: Is nosebleed in an adult dangerous? What should be done?

REPLY.

Much depends upon the cause. If the blood pressure is unduly high the episode may be looked upon as a popping safety valve. If a teacupful or more of blood is lost it is time to stop the hemorrhage. This may be done by packing the nostrils, using clean, sterile gauze or thin strips of salt pork. If the incident is repeated frequently, a careful physical examination with some attention to the nasal mucous membrane is advised.

TWO BREEDS OF PARASITES.

S. W. writes: Is creeping eruption the same as scabies?

REPLY.

No. They are caused by two different parasites. The itch mite is responsible for scabies. It, too, has the power to burrow but not the long, serpentine, molelike channels caused by the creeping eruption worm.

INFECTED TONSILS.

P. R. writes: Does chronic tonsilitis mean that the tonsils are diseased?

REPLY.

Yes, and that infection has penetrated deeply within the crypts.

CHANGE OF BENEFICIARY.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Thanking you for past kindness I again send in a few questions:

1. Can a beneficiary of a group insurance policy be changed without writing out a new policy?
2. Is a small slip or rather printed form sufficient?
3. If not, is there ground for a lawsuit? I. M.

1. Ordinarily insurance policies expressly specify the method of changing beneficiary. On group insurance there will be a master policy usually in the possession of the employer and individual policies in the possession of the employé.
2. We cannot pass upon its sufficiency without having its wording and the wording of the other policies before us.
3. We cannot advise without the facts.

SHE DOESN'T FIND SANTA CLAUS.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Do Chicago real estate owners ever get a break? Recently the papers announced that real estate in default of taxes would be auctioned off in the near future. Certain other cities have managed to "get together" on the tax situation and have been able to clean up back taxes by allowing owners to pay defaulted taxes without penalty. But not Chicago—a pound of flesh, or nothing.

Most people whose taxes are in arrears are victims of the depression. Let me cite my case: First there was sickness, then death; then sickness and death again, and finally, the third blow—a sickness demanding the services of the best specialist in his line and the hospital, not once, but twice. But this time death was defeated. One salary to cover all. Could any one short of a magician pay taxes under that load? Never willing to admit defeat, I visualized Chicago real estate booming again, selling, getting my hands on a few dollars once again, indulging in such luxuries as new linoleum for the kitchen and maybe a mattress; but I had forgotten, there really is no Santa Claus.

RATS A GROWING MENACE.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—To your column R. W. O. contributes a letter on the rat menace. I wonder if people realize the danger of permitting these rodents to breed as rapidly as they do in the city of Chicago. I think the time has come when something should be done and I would like to see THE TRIBUNE take some action in this respect.

The Lincoln park zoo is full of rats—walk through it at night some time if you want proof. Another place overrun with them is Oak street beach.

I attended many open air concerts in Grant park this summer; on at least ten evenings, while walking along the outer drive sidewalk in broad daylight, I would see the rats scurry in the bushes. You can also see them around the pillars at the north end of Grant park on Michigan avenue.

In west Rogers Park the residents are shooting or otherwise killing rats by the dozens. I understand residents on the north shore are bothered—they have been told that the Skokie flood sent them eastward.

The near north side is full of these pests—many of the old residences, which have been turned into so-called studio apartments, are really rat homes.

Since reading "An American Doctor's Odyssey" the thought of rats prowling around makes me shiver. G. O.

MAKE TWO TERMS THE LIMIT.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—In a radio address Judge Jarecki stated that throughout his sixteen years as county judge no one ever raised a breath of accusation against him. But what I wish to say is this: The voters should make it their business to stop reëlecting public officials in the higher offices after they have had two terms consecutively. George Washington advocated that two terms were enough for any major office holder and he was wise in that. Therefore, it would be well for the voters of Cook county to refuse voting for any office holder who had held his office for two terms.

CITIZEN.

HAS "CONTEST FEVER."

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Now that twilight comes early and days grow shorter, how about some more Da-De-Das or some guessing contest?

Christmas isn't far away and everybody can use money at Christmas time; besides, it helps a feller or a gal to while away long evening hours.

THE CITY'S AIRPORT NEEDS.

Geneva, Ill., Nov. 1.—I am moved by a recent editorial in THE TRIBUNE to suggest to you that the procurement of adequate airport facilities for Chicago is not exclusively Chicago's problem, but is instead one in which all the suburban communities have a vital share.

The proposed island airport "depot" should certainly be pushed forward as rapidly as possible. In addition, a base or service airport, of approximately double the maximum area now required by the department of commerce, should be constructed in a zoned area west of the city and connected with the loop by a superhighway—which latter would, of course, not serve the base airport exclusively. The present airport at 63d street will never serve satisfactorily as either a transportation base or depot because of the extreme hazards arising from the density of building on several approaches. It should be relegated to important, but subsidiary, purposes as promptly as other facilities can be procured.

To achieve any plan providing the Chicago area with adequate airport facilities, an authority, comparable with the successful Port of New York Authority, would seem necessary. Such a Chicago Airport Authority, with municipal powers, might well embrace the area lying within a forty mile radius of the loop.

The construction problems involved in airports are relatively simple, but those involved in airport location require experience, technical ability, and foresight of the highest order. Such abilities could be procured and fostered by an airport authority and operate with relative freedom from political considerations.

I am sure the suggestion of an airport authority is not new to you, but it appeals to me strongly as providing both the logical and—despite the legislative processes involved—the speediest solution to our problem. GEORGE M. OSBORN.

ELMS: SEEDLINGS AND OTHERS.

Arlington Heights, Ill., Nov. 3.—While driving to a ball game this summer I noticed that most of the elms planted on the highway were common American seedling elms. There ought to be no seedling elms planted on our highways any more than one would plant a seedling apple or pear tree in an orchard.

Milwaukee has 60,000 grafted Moline elms planted on its streets and they are a wonderful sight to see. The trees are all uniform in shape, straight growing with smooth bark and large shining leaves. They are very fast growing. This elm was introduced by me twenty years ago.

The seedling elms can still be grafted if done early in spring by men that have had experience in nurseries where they do grafting. GEO. K.

WILL FIND GOOD READING OF USE.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—To the Steinmetz student who asked "Why read Macbeth?": The reading of good literature will help you more than any other training to write that "good business letter," because it builds your vocabulary, fires your imagination and broadens your understanding and judgment.

If you fit yourself smugly into the groove of a stereotyped "good business letter" you will not only fail to progress but you'll never "get a kick" out of your work. Furthermore, it won't take your employer long to discover that you have no background.

MRS. F. R. MCCULLOUGH.

FED UP ON WPA.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—What about "creating jobs"? Also "the more abundant life"? I have been devoting a bit of thought to both these bits of hokus while swinging the pick on WPA at $55 per.

Recently the workers on one of the WPA projects received orders to "cease and desist" making their own coffee on the project, although no time was wasted from work while they were so engaged. It seems that some one has "a concession" to sell a concoction labeled coffee on certain projects.

One of the "big shots" in the personnel department is a "Mrs." Another "Mrs." occupies a good paying position in the division of employment. If the "Mr." that goes with the "Mrs." of these two ladies happen to be occupying good paying positions, either in WPA or elsewhere, then the more abundant life really means something to these people. It also means something to us "saps" out here on a $55 job, who are beginning to realize that the New Deal, with its elegant platitudes must be taken with "a grain of salt." The gang of "Mrs." in the Merchandise Mart, as well as the rest of the chair warmers, have done one good thing at least—they have awakened thousands of us to the fact that we must turn to Richard Lyons and the balance of the Republican ticket as the only means of escape from an intolerable condition. LITTLE MAC.

LOUIS SULLIVAN WROTE THEM.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Mr. Harper's letter in the Voice of the People about the "I Will" girl tempts me to make another effort to find out the authors of the three beautiful inscriptions appearing on the "Symphony of Life" proscenium arch of the Auditorium and on either side wall, under the pictures depicting spring and fall. At the arch:

"O! soft, melodious springtime.
First-born of Life and Love."

"A great life has passed into the tomb, and there Awaits the requiem of the winter's snows."

Maybe Mr. Harper or one of your many readers can help me bring my thirty-five years' search to a close.

H. S. WRIGHT.

[THE TRIBUNE'S information is that the three inscriptions were written by the late Louis H. Sullivan, who was the distinguished architect of the Auditorium.]

DIDN'T CARE FOR THE CARTOON.

I think, and probably 11 million or so other members of the fair sex do likewise, that your artist, Mr. McCutcheon, should have an immediate and thorough examination by an alienist to determine the stability of his mental status quo—he, for drawing the cartoon, and you, my dear sir, for allowing it to be printed. We have been called the Feline Tribe—now it seems we belong in the anthropoid category. ETHEL LOUISE FOLEY.

CALL FOR 50,000 AMERICANS.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—This is a suggestion to fifty thousand normal Americans to contribute with me $1 each to enable the Dies committee to continue its excellent work of investigation of un-American activities in our country. The committee has done honest, patriotic service.

U. S. WILL HONOR MUNDELEIN ON VISIT TO VATICAN

Ambassador Is to Greet Chicago Cardinal.

Ambassador Phillips.

Phillips announced that President Roosevelt had instructed him to arrange for Cardinal Mundelein an official reception by American diplomatic and naval representatives. This will be in addition to the usual honors paid visiting cardinals by Italy.

Phillips explained the extraordinary honors were ordered by the President because of the high esteem in which the cardinal is held by both Catholics and others in the United States, particularly the middlewest.

Cardinal Will Report to Pope.

The cardinal is aboard the liner Rex, which will reach Naples tomorrow. He is coming to Italy to report to Pope Pius XI. on the recent Eucharistic congress in New Orleans, La.

In accordance with President Roosevelt's instructions, Cardinal Mundelein will be the guest of Ambassador Phillips and Rear Admiral Henry E. Lackey, commander of the United States Mediterranean fleet, until he reaches Rome.

He will be taken by Admiral Lackey's launch to the cruiser Omaha as soon as he disembarks from the Rex. On the Omaha a luncheon will be given in his honor. Among the guests will be representatives of Santa Maria del Lago seminary in Rome, which was named for St. Mary of the Lake seminary of Mundelein, Ill.

Italy Provides a Train.

After the luncheon Phillips will escort the cardinal to Rome on a special train provided by the Italian government. In Rome Cardinal Mundelein will be met by the full embassy staf, after which the ambassador will turn his guest over to papal authorities.

In addition to reporting to Pope Pius on the New Orleans congress, Cardinal Mundelein will attend the ceremony of the beatification of Mother Cabrini. For many years Mother Cabrini worked among Italian immigrants in the United States as founder of the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—The state department said today it had no knowledge of reports that Cardinal Mundelein would discuss with Pope Pius XI. establishment of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Vatican.

SNITE'S CONDITION UNIMPAIRED BY TRIP TO FLORIDA

Miami Beach, Fla., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Satisfied that Fred B. Snite Jr. suffered no ill effects from his trip from Chicago in his iron lung, Dr. John J. Fahey returned to Chicago today by plane.

Dr. Fahey, who accompanied the infantile paralysis sufferer here last week for his second winter at his father's estate, remained long enough to supervise Snite's use of a smaller respirator that covers only his chest. Fred spends four or five hours daily in this apparatus, a welcome respite from the large machine that encases his body to the neck.

A special trailer has arrived from Chicago and Snite has made two excursions in it.

DOCTOR CLAIMS $580 FOR CARE OF DOLLAR HEIR

A claim for $580 was filed in Municipal court yesterday by David A. Herstein, 561 Diversey parkway, against the Dollar Steamship Lines. The petition, filed by Attorney Leo L. Stone, alleges the money is due Dr. Herstein for medical services to H Stuart Dollar, grandson of Capt. Robert Dollar, founder of the lines.

Dollar, who is 26 years old, was found unconscious in his home on Aug. 26, apparently from an overdose of a sedative. He was treated by Dr. Herstein and spent several days in Grant hospital. He is a nephew of R. Stanley Dollar, president of the lines, and is employed in its Chicago office. He resides at 910 Lawrence avenue.

Plane Crashes Into Bay; Pilot Saved by Cruiser

Newark, N. J., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—John Okenfus, 23 years old, a private flyer, saved his own life today by battering his way out of the cabin of a four passenger seaplane after it crashed into Newark bay. Okenfus was trapped in the wrecked ship with water up to his neck. He managed to smash a window and crawl out of the cabin onto one of the wings. A few minutes later he was rescued by the crew of a cabin cruiser.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Wisdom's Gate," by Margaret Ayer Barnes. [Houghton Mifflin, $2.50.] Published yesterday.

In the sense that the principal characters in "Wisdom's Gate" appeared earlier in their lives in "Years of Grace" this is a sequel to that fine panoramic record of Chicago from just before the Columbian Exposition of 1893 to 1930. Cicely and Albert had just gone to China to construct from the fragments of two broken marriages the perfect union as "Years of Grace" ended.

In no other sense is "Wisdom's Gate" its sequel, for in method of treatment, in the size and texture of canvas, in theme, and even in the actual writing, the two books are unalike. Here there is none of the passive acceptance of the "years of grace." Here is a younger, more violent, more honest generation facing marital hurricanes. Here there is chronicled not leisure of thought and action, but restlessness; not blindness, either voluntary or enforced, toward a husband's potential infidelity, but sharp insight into its causes and into the consequences of admitting that insight; a young woman's bitter unhappiness not only at her husband's debonair lies but at her own inability to deal with the situation; and Mrs. Barnes has keyed her style to that swifter modern tempo.

No comfortable lifetime, but a few short, tense months are portrayed here. Time, a genial character in "Years of Grace," here plays an impetuous part. "Wisdom's Gate" is a long book, but vertically so, not horizontally. It plumbs the reactions of only two persons. Others are present only as they affect those two lives and their destiny.

In the literary pattern of Mrs. Barnes' work, "Wisdom's Gate" belongs with "Westward Passage" in technique—concentrated in time and emotion—and differs from "Years of Grace," "Within This Present," and "Edna His Wife," which are flowing in time and emotion.

Well-Turned Thriller Has Chicago Setting.

"The Glass Slipper," by Mignon G. Eberhart. Doubleday-Doran, $2.] Published yesterday.

Chicago itself, the near north side, is the scene of Mignon G. Eberhart's latest murder mystery. It starts, as do all Mrs. Eberhart's competent thrillers, in the calm and charm of physical and social well-being, and steers a devious and horrid course through chicanery, suspicion, duplicity, jealousy, hatred, and three murders without its characters ever losing that charm or that calm. It is Mrs. Eberhart's special gift that she can make perfectly nice people thoroughly suspect, and that she can skilfully juggle murder and romance.

Every evidence points to Rue Hatterick as the logical murderer. As a nurse she was with the first Mrs. Hatterick when she died. She was married to Dr. Hatterick only ten months later. Things look increasingly bad for Rue, but before the end every one looks guilty and could be, and there is a tense last minute averting of a fourth murder. Here you get your money's worth of suspicion and suspense.

This Murder Mystery Has Many a Chuckle.

"The Gracie Allen Murder Case," by S. S. Van Dine. [Scribners, $2.] Published a week ago Friday.

Philo Vance, admitting that the years are getting him and that young love has an academic attraction for him, takes a hand in the affairs of Gracie Allen and George Burns while he is solving a murder mystery which involves Gracie's brother. Philo is the same slow-moving quick-thinking aesthete, but it is Gracie's nit-wit "clews" which scent out the murderer—AND George Burns' sensitive nose, for he is head perfume smeller for the In-O-Scent Perfume company and the lingering fragrance of "Kiss Me Quick," identified by him, makes a bloodhound out of Mr. Vance. Murder may never be funny, but this book is.

A Yorkshire Terrier's Fantastic Adventures.

A Yorkshire terrier, twelve inches long, with a jaunty bow on his topknot belying the terror in his heart, is the Odysseus of this wander tale which has much of the fantastic gayety of "The Enchanted Voyage."

Tapiola belonged to Mrs. Popple, the wife of the publisher, and had overheard literary conversations of moment. He had heard, for instance that "It is almost impossible to have a popular success these days under a thousand pages." That would have been a terrible blow if he had not also overheard the eminent critic declare, "We have returned to the age of heroes, and we admire today only the man who is without pity or other sentimental considerations of that sort."

Recognizing himself in this description, Tapiola set out to prove that in romance, adventure, and heroism a stout heart was worth more than the length and breadth of the shadow a man cast. With Tapiola on his adventures went Dicky, the canary, who insisted upon being called Richard because he intended to become a famous baritone. By way of the service entrance and the ash can they escaped into adventure—and a terrifying trip aboard the dump barge. There they met Jeremiah, a rat prophet wailing in the garbage wilderness.

The further adventures of the three are to be taken, as is the whole little tale, either as charming fantastic fact or allegory, according to the readers' wishes. "Journey of Tapiola" is written in the beautiful lilting prose of one of our major stylists, and I for one am all for accepting it as an amusing tale and asking no more of it.

Tender Nature Story Portrays Forest Life.

"Perri," by Felix Salten. [Bobbs-Merrill, $2.50.] Published Monday.

The author of that classic of a little red deer, "Bambi," here writes about a squirrel in the same naturalistic fashion. Here, as in "Journey of Tapiola," the animals all talk to one another.

In tender prose, Felix Salten tells of the life in the forest where two year old Annerle's father is gamekeeper. That life is viewed through the eyes of little Perri and her playmate, Perro, the "boy" squirrel. To them the field mice are foes, the martens and the hawks enemies, the smaller birds chatty companions, the foxes the grander folk, and the deer the kings and queens of the realm. And to them "He," the two legged creature with three arms [one shooting death], is the forest god.

Annerle at three was still able to speak their language. At four the "language of the innocent forest creatures was gone like the dandelion fluff in the spring breeze," and "the wall between man and animal had gone up, invisible, incomprehensible, impenetrable."

"Perri" is one of the tenderest of nature books. You will agree with Donald Culross Peattie, who writes in an introduction that even if "Perri" may be allegory, it is sufficient to read it for its joys.

Novel's Spinning Plot Pivots on Two Birds.

"The Noise of Their Wings," by Mackinlay Kantor. [Coward-McCann, $2.50.] Published Monday.

Two birds are the pivot upon which the spinning plot of "The Noise of Their Wings" whirls. The action of the book is over within forty-eight hours, but its sweep of time is a lifetime's search for a bird which once made American skies black with their migrations—the passenger pigeon. An eccentric millionaire, marked in childhood by the memory of their slaughter, offers a reward of $100,000 for the capture of a pair alive.

What tragedy that money wrought in the lives of the Florida cracker who trapped them and all those who touched them makes a good novel which somehow should be better. Perhaps it has some allegory planted in its pages which we don't make out.

Anyway, although it is written with the same slow intenseness of "The Voice of Bugle Ann" and celebrates the same sort of man's joy in noble birds that "Bugle Ann" did in noble dogs, "The Noise of Their Wings" is a disappointment compared with Mr. Kantor's previous work.

Novel Is Built Around Making of Munitions.

"Dynasty of Death," by Taylor Caldwell. [Scribners, $2.75.]

"Dynasty of Death" is an enormously long novel, covering a period of sixty years in the history of the United States and with events tentacled over the whole earth wherever war reared its head. It tells the story of a great munitions corporation, of an American dynasty which bred and disseminated death.

Across these pages marches a host of characters peopling tragic and historic events, all bound for the same goal, all conceived by the author to point his theme—that since war must be made by guns, the making of guns does, of necessity, make war as well as profits.

This is a novel of an idea. The human beings in it are put there by the author to exemplify that idea and therefore lack, at times, inevitability. But the book is impressive not only as an idea but by the sheer vastness of its canvas and the number of its characters.

Scholarly Study of U. S. Negro's Ancestral Home

BY PERCY WOOD.

"Dahomey, an Ancient West African Kingdom," by Melville J. Herskovits. [J. J. Augustin, two vols., $12.]

His studies of the dark peoples now bring Dr. Melville J. Herskovits, professor of anthropology at Northwestern university, to an exhaustive consideration of Dahomey, whence came the ancestors of the American Negro.

In enslaving for the colonies the traders brought cargo after cargo of Negroes from the little kingdom beneath the bulge of Africa's western coastline to the plantations in the new world. Much of Dahomey's early history comes from the notes made by these slaving captains.

Having already written in great detail of the American Negro, the Haitian peasant, and the bush Negro of Dutch Guiana, Dr. Herskovits, with his wife, lived for six months in 1931 in Dahomey. They spent most of their research period in Abomay.

Their home was near the market place and a well, so to their door came chiefs and commoners, descendants of slaves, priests, laymen, artisans, and diviners. The Herskovitses attended the native ceremonies, dances, and rites which have changed little with the centuries. As their friendship with the natives grew, so increased their notes.

The picture Prof. Herskovits draws of Dahomey today, interpreted in terms of its fascinating past, is an absorbing one, although the layman cannot hope fully to appreciate its scientific import. But despite the fact that "Dahomey" was written as a learned report on a little known part of the world, essentially for a learned audience, the anthropologically uninitiated will find it of interest.

Sea Tale Pays Tribute to Dying Art of Sailing.

"Last Port of Call," by Heinrich Hauser. [Stackpole, $2.50.]

This splendid sea story well might stand as a requiem for the dying art of sailing. It would be difficult to imagine a more sympathetic pastor to sing its greatness than the sensitive author, whose mastery of maritime fiction was established in "Bitter Waters."

As he tells it, Heinrich Hauser found himself so hemmed in by modern civilization that he was in danger of a breakdown. So he slipped away and boarded the Notre Dame, where he found a Conradesque character, Capt. Andersson, who achieves a matchless nobility in these 340 pages.

The Notre Dame was one of the dozen old full riggers left in the Australia trade, and she was doomed—as her predecessors were doomed—either to the wreckers' torches or to whatever honorable death the sea contrived for her. This inevitability ate into Andersson's mind during the long months of her last voyage, so at its end, with the author's help, he took his ship's fate in his own hands. It is a powerful and moving conclusion.

Women Describe Life Behind Prison Walls.

"The Woman Who Could Not Die," by Iulia de Beausobre. [Viking, $2.50.]

"So I Went to Prison," by Edna V. O'Brien. [Stokes, $2.50.]

In these two volumes are the stories of two women who spent unforgettable years behind prison walls. One woman was a cultured Russian, the other the most noted woman market operator on Wall street.

Without warning one night the GPU [Russian secret police] seized Iulia de Beausobre and lodged her in the Inner Prison of Moscow, known as the palace of torture. There her husband had been imprisoned, too.

Iulia de Beausobre spent twenty months in that fortress, in another vermin ridden sty which housed thieves, prostitutes, and other underworld rabble of Moscow, and in one of the notorious soviet labor camps. She never knew what crime was charged against her or her husband.

She has told of this confinement, one of the cruelest ever described, in rich, jeweled prose. It is essentially the story of her mind and heart which proved too strong for her jailors. But there also emerges a deep compassionate understanding, not only for those who shared her tragic fate but for their torturers.

Like the Russian, Edna V. O'Brien was the educated daughter of a wealthy family. She was born on a Florida plantation, was a New York debutante, and later was an outstanding successful business woman. She was sentenced to prison for mishandling securities for her clients, a charge she insists was unfounded.

Her account is well told and interesting, as is the development of Miss O'Brien into a woman who realizes that those who enter prison walls are not monsters, but human beings like herself. She left Bedford filled with a passion to reform society's prison system. J. H. T.

Scholarly Interpretation of Medieval Universities.

"The Medieval Universities," by Nathan Schachner. [Stokes, $3.50.]

The church, the empire, and the university were the heart of the middle ages. Of the three, the university is most purely medieval in origin and spirit, for this era was the golden age of the scholar.

What were these universities? We would not think them much today. Wherever teachers and students met together, without buildings or equipment, without administration, a university existed. Greatest of them all was that of Paris, housed in a squalid street, immortal for Abelard, notorious as the mother of that sterile scholasticism which made medieval scholarship ultimately a laughing stock, but dictator and arbiter of theology to pope and emperor. Others were preeminent in other fields—Salerno in medicine, Bologna in law, and Oxford in skepticism, to mention only three of scores. At Oxford Wycliff led his abortive reformation; there grew up the endowed halls which developed into our modern college system.

Nathan Schachner has recreated an age pulsing with the excitement of pure intellectual exercise, entertaining with the unconscious comedy of the medieval mind, throbbing with conflict between town and gown.

A Caribbean Cruise and an Aerial Jaunt.

"Sky Roaming Above Two Continents," by Harry A. Franck. [Stokes, $3.50.]

In "Caribbee Cruise" John W. Vandercook tells of those enchanting islands that lie like pearls on a string against the blue velvet of the Caribbean sea, and of the larger ones which are better known and are on the path of all the big cruise ships. Jamaica, Haiti, Cuba, and Porto Rico have their points, but it is the Windward and Leeward islands—Dominica, Guadaloupe, St. Vincent, Grenada, Antigua, Martinique, and Barbados—which lure the traveler who wants to stray off the beaten sea paths. These are bits of tropical paradise as yet unspoiled and unexploited. The author paints a vivid picture of their beauties. Rum, sugar, slavery, pirates colored their violent past. Today they are peaceful and remote.

"Caribbee Cruise" is a grand book, full of atmosphere and history. It is written with sympathetic insight and tinged with an amusing sense of humor.

Harry A. Franck flew over most of the islands described by Mr. Vandercook. But he came down in Mexico, Guatemala, Honduras, Panama, Venezuela, Salvador, Trinidad, and several other spots on his sixty-nine day sky jaunt. He tells of the trip in a genial, informal manner, giving glimpses of the peoples he saw, their countries, and something of their histories. The book is illustrated with photographs, most of which were taken by the author. E. W.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

In Hollywood Code.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 4.—There are certain things you shouldn't do in Hollywood. . . . The death of Conway Tearle recalled the golf game that ruined him in the picture colony. . . . He was playing at the Rancho course.

A producer was playing in a very slow foursome ahead of him. . . . Tearle was indiscreet enough to tell the producer what he thought of him for tying up the course and refusing to let the Tearle twosome go through. . . . As a result Tearle was kept out of movie work for years, and by the time they let him get back the gravy train had gone.

Francis X. Bushman will tell you that he was exiled from Hollywood because he offended a famous studio head. . . . Bushman had come to Los Angeles with a legit show. . . . His regular valet was getting married and arranged for a substitute . . . The famous producer came backstage after the show and sent in his name. . . . The substitute valet said: "Mr. Bushman is too busy to see you tonight." . . . Bushman never worked again in the movies.

These are illustrations of personal vindictiveness that are exceptions to the rule. . . . Yet there are certain things a player can't do out here and maintain his standing. . . . The reason is that this is a town of Crosley ratings. . . . Perhaps I'd better explain that. . . . The Crosley rating is the yardstick which is used in rating radio shows. . . . If you have a good Crosley, it means you're clicking on the air. . . . If you have a bad Crosley, it means your program is a flop.

Hollywood picks its company in much the same way. . . . A hostess invites only successes to her party. . . . She applies the Crosley rating test to her friends. . . . She doesn't want a failure suddenly to bob up among her successful guests; it would be embarrassing. . . . That's why you always see the same faces at Hollywood parties; only the successful members of the colony are eligible.

Lone exception to this was the party which Director Frank Lloyd gave. . . . Lloyd, a fine human being, invited the successes, but he also invited the failures. . . . In many cases he bought dinner jackets for former directors and stars so that they would not feel out of place at the Bel-Air Bay club.

He didn't apply the Crosley rating test to these old timers; he applied only the yardstick of friendship and the foot rule of memory. . . . It was the most unique party ever given in the movie colony.

If you think I'm exaggerating the Crosley rating on which this town is operated, I wish you could attend some of these Hollywood parties with me. . . . Ninety per cent of them have been invited solely because they have won success in their last picture, or because their husbands are powerful at some studio.

All of the night clubs out here recognize this Crosley rating system. . . . If Lew Ayres will pardon me for using him as an illustration, when he was in the first flush of success he was always given a ringside table. . . . Then Ayres started slipping out of the picture, and I saw him seated in row 3 or row 4 at night clubs. . . . Now Ayres is engaged in a fine comeback. . . . Today he is again given a ringside table. . . . It would be laughable if it were not so pathetic an indictment of human values.

Out here an actor or an actress is known by the company he or she keeps, and there is no clowning about it. . . . It is a game that is played out in deadly seriousness. . . . One of the better M.-G.-M. song writers, just out from New York, was telling me what happened to him recently. . . . For weeks he had been working at M.-G.-M. and his presence was unnoticed. . . . Suddenly he found important studio personages going out of their way to bow cordially to him in the commissary, or stopping at his office to chat with him. . . . He called me up in some bewilderment.

I asked him to check back on his movements carefully and it developed that one afternoon, quite accidentally, he had met Louis B. Mayer emerging from the Gable set. . . . Mayer had bowed and they had walked along together for some distance. . . . Immediately it was noised about that he and Mayer were friends. . . . Immediately he became somebody to cultivate. . . . Horrible, isn't it?

In other cities and towns a person is judged on his human qualities. . . . Out here he is judged not on himself but on people he knows. . . . "He is a very good friend of Darryl Zanuck" is more important as a recommendation than to say that he is honest, industrious, or talented. . . . The fact that he is a friend of Zanuck carries both a promise and a threat.

There are certain well known rubber check passers out here who can be seen at every party dancing with the glamor girls, who are more interested in having graceful dancing partners than they are in having honest men who can't do the rhumba. . . . The fact that these passers of rubber checks are phonies is of no importance. . . . The only thing that is important to hostesses is that they know the glamor girls and are accepted by them.

No town in the world has such a rigid series of social gradings as Hollywood and everything is based on Crosley ratings or price tags. . . . The chap who gets $500 a week associates only with others who get $500 a week. . . . The $1,000 a week performer mingles only with other $1,000 a week individuals and scorns the company of the $500 a week performer. . . . So on up the scale.

As a result failures are outcasts and you rarely see them unless you run into them accidentally at a restaurant. . . . A few weeks later one of these outcasts becomes newly successful as the result of a picture or a radio program and immediately you see him or her at all of the parties, because he gets an invitation immediately he clicks importantly.

However, Hollywood is no different from other cities, I guess. . . . The reason you notice it out here is that the people are important, dramatic, colorful. . . . Yet when I was a kid in Port Chester, N. Y., I never remember the village banker inviting the local horseshoer to his parties.

Human beings and human values, I'm afraid, are about the same the world over. . . . Out here the spotlight is brighter and human failings are exaggerated. . . . The stakes are higher out here. . . . Personal power is greater. . . . But Hollywood and a small town have much in common.

Good Morning!

Robert Donat's portrayal of young Dr. Manson, hero of A. J. Cronin's novel, "The Citadel," will live in the memory of those who see it as one of the year's most arresting performances.

Seldom do you see a player get his teeth into a rôle as the young Englishman does into this. Manson must have appealed to him intensely.

"The Citadel" is a story of doctors good and bad. . . . It is a paen to heroism and an exposé of hypocrisy.

Events are painted with broad strokes and strong contrasts, and superior craftsmanship makes the piece a vital, factual production.

Dr. Manson, a newly fledged medico, becomes assistant to a sickly, elderly doctor in a Wales coal mining district. . . . Though poorly paid and ill equipped, he battles with dirt, disease, and superstition, until a quarrel with his superior's wife forces his resignation. . . . During his sojourn here he has been aided by one Dr. Denny, brilliant, disillusioned and a drunkard. . . .

After Wales comes work in another district. And now Manson is married — to a clever company school teacher, Christine, who enthusiastically helps him in his work. . . . The two establish a laboratory—which is wrecked by superstitious members of the community. . . .

To London, then, where poverty saps the resistance of the Mansons. Things are most discouraging when Manson runs into an old classmate, living sleekly on the fat of the land. Worn out and cynical after what he's gone through, Manson decides to string along with Lawford and joins a fee splitting, favor swapping brigade of fashionable physicians who live principally on idle women of means who crave sympathy and a "bedside manner" and are willing to pay extravagantly for same.

The death of Denny on an operating table, through the inefficiency of a supposedly crack surgeon, brings Manson up taut. . . . He goes back to first principles. . . . His encounter with the medical society over what the members decide is a lapse of ethics is a stirring scene.

[THAT'S praise!]

Absent-Mindedness in Germany.

Here's an absent-mindedness story with tragic overtones, told Willard Abraham by a man just arrived in this country from Germany. One day he left the house and as he was approaching his car one of Hitler's Storm Troopers came up to him, asked for his car keys, and drove the car away. There was nothing the German could do, so he shrugged his shoulders and walked to his destination. The next day he absent-mindedly went to the garage to get his car and through coincidence it was there, because the Storm Trooper patronized the same garage. He saw his car and drove it out, forgetting that it had been taken from him the day before. That afternoon he was thrown in jail, charged with stealing a car.

While the ramp now in use in front of the Civic Opera house was under construction, crowds stopped daily to watch the paving gang at work. One day one of the men stumbled and spilled the contents of his wheelbarrow. The watchers grinned when the hard boiled foreman yelled:

Costume Slip Saves Cash in Clothes Budget

BY RHEA SEEGER.

This is news for the career girl with a heavy schedule of parties ahead. First the good looking slinky black velvet costume slips that are the fool proof basis for top mixing. Owning one of these black beauties, life again whirls around with ease, for with half a dozen different tops you have just that many different looking party outfits.

The other alternative is one of the black velvet skirts made with a shirred mid-riff lastex top. With one of these you also match and mix, but use blouses instead of separate long sleeved dress-parade jackets that fit like a second skin.

None of this loot will paralyze the clothes allowance. With the proper amount of imagination you can manage some pretty soul-satisfying duets. For instance, try a form fitting demure black velvet jacket with the skirt for a swanky evening suit. If you crave glitter try a lamé or brocade jacket, lined with some eye blinding color like fire truck red or green or orange or striped silks.

Moiré taffeta is another good lift for the top of a black velvet skirt; you can buy them in lovely vivid colors as well as pastels. Some have twinkling rhinestone buttons flashing down the front.

With the costume slips, the short snappy boleros get top rating, from the glittering chi-chi things of colored sequins and lamés to the lastex marvels of velvet. Colors include sage green, delft blue, raspberry red, sapphire and topaz with plenty of whites and powdery pinks for the less daring shoppers. If you've little money for dress-parade clothes try this formula; it works every time.

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

For the knitter who likes to make small items, these knitted doll clothes are recommended not only as fun for the needleworker, but to insure complete happiness in the heart of some little girl. These are knitted of pink pompadour wool, with the wheel motifs worked in rose and green embroidery silk. The instructions are for an 18 inch doll, but the size may be altered by the use of larger or smaller needles.

Club Exhibition Credit to City's Art Collectors

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Arts club opened its first exhibition of the season yesterday. It is a remarkably interesting and comprehensive show, covering some half a century of painting and illustrating the unusual paths up which art has been struggling for a good part of that time.

The modern paintings and drawings have been loaned from private collections in Chicago. One gets the comforting feeling, in running over the various pictures, that Chicago is not lacking in collectors of taste and discrimination. Even those paintings which are the most weird are stunning examples of their kind.

In the large gallery there is a diversified group of important canvases. The charming gray and silver "Draped Figure" by Pruna balances the distinguished solidity of the "Deux Femmes Assises" by Degas, a recent acquisition of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, who are lending it. In between are several characteristic Gauguins, one of the most lovely, "The Bathers, Brittany," lent by Mrs. C. B. Goodspeed; the exquisite "La Danseuse au Cerceau" by Forain, lent by Mrs. Higinbotham Patterson; the decorative Redon—"Femme dans les Fleurs"—lent by Mrs. John H. Winterbotham; the amusing surrealist fantasy, "Physician Lifting with Extreme Precaution the Cuticle of a Grand Piano," by Dali, lent by Mrs. Thomas Fisher, and the black and white study, "Woman Playing with Cats," by Picasso, lent by Mrs. R. R. McCormick.

In the adjoining small room are more paintings of similar character—a delightful Foujita, a charming Renoir [two charming Renoirs] and a Pascin, lent by Arthur Heun.

The following gallery is in different vein. Here have been gathered the abstractions, cubist and otherwise. Your guess is quite as good as mine as to the subject matter and relative merits of these exercises in paint. No one can deny that they furnish splendid material for discussion. Among the artists responsible for them are Picabia, Picasso, Giro, Leger, Valmier, and Ozenfant.

The round room has been hung with drawings and little pictures and the result is charming.

The exhibition will continue through November.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

If you like a really flossy bath and one that helps banish fatigue and calms your jitters you must try some new, luxurious "sea powders." The powders come in flat little packets; you use one to a bath and with a little imagination plus the contents of the envelop you enjoy sea bathing—with modern improvements such as a fine scent—right in your own bathtub.

Here's a recipe for a good bath on those nights when you're so exhausted you wonder how tired people have to be to die: Empty an envelope of the "powdered sea" under a forceful stream of hot water. Cool the water just enough to be able to take it comfortably and slide in. It will be like enfolding yourself in warm, frothy foam.

We forgot to tell you that this powder makes bubbles—billions of them—and also colors the water. If you'll keep a small stream of warm water running for about ten minutes, keeping the bath water at an even warm temperature, you'll find the bath a swell rest cure. Just relax and as the water cools your nerves will unkink.

If you take this fatigue chaser late at night don't cool the water too much; tumble right into bed and you'll drift off to sleep. If you want to be pepped up finish off with quite cool water.

These sea bath powders, said to contain sea moss and what-not, come in five fragrances. The orange blossom is charming. The bouvardia is the sort of scent women like; it makes the water pink, too. The lime is one of our favorites. It's a refreshing fragrance in any form. Men like this, and clover, almost as much as they like the pine, to which they seem eternally faithful.

INSTALMENT XLII.

A FIENDISH DEED.

About four hours later they reëntered the flat. Fanny looked done up, though of the turmoil in her brain only a dull throb was left to remind her of her arduous day. Geoffrey, taking her old-fashioned cloak, noted the deep vertical furrow between her brows.

"Feel like having a bite?" As she shook her head energetically he altered it to, "A drink, then. Not whisky, I think. I'll fetch the brandy."

"I seldom drink," she explained, sipping the full glass he brought her. "For so long, you see, it was supposed to be bad for me. Tonight, though, I seem to be catching a chill. Maybe this will stave it off."

She shivered a little, warming her satin toes by the fire her nephew was busily repairing. "Don't make that up for me," she yawned. "I'm off to my bed."

He folded her evening wrap round her. "Don't cross tomorrow," he advised. "Not with a cold coming on."

"Nonsense! I'll have a cabin, and Paris hotels are scorching hot. I must attend to matters now, Geoffrey. Till that will's settled I can't draw a free breath. Afterward—well, which is it to be, Cairo or St. Moritz?"

He smiled. "Dear Fanny! Always living up to your last name."

"Why not, pray?" She shook herself, as a ruffled hawk might do. "At my age you must humor me."

His hand slid into hers, and rising he helped her up. "Now, then, a boiling bath and then bed. When you're all tucked up I'll bring you another drink."

"Hot lemon," he insisted, "and a couple of aspirins. Will you call when you're ready?"

"I'm not used to all this coddling," she grumbled, liking it tremendously all the same. "Yes, if it'll please you. . . ."

Left alone, Scarpath did two things—prepared the hot drink in the electrically fitted kitchen and paid a brief visit to his bedroom. When he emerged he was wearing his dark plum brocade dressing gown over his evening trousers and shirt, and in the right hand pocket of it appeared a considerable bulge. He unstrapped his watch and laid it, face upward, on the mantel. Eleven thirty-nine. That gave him eleven minutes.

Was this Fanny coming back into her bedroom? If so, she had pottered again into the bath. He picked up the small silver tray containing the steaming lemon drink and aspirins, waited yet a minute longer, and then walked steadily through the passage to knock at Fanny's door. No answer. He pushed the door inward a trifle.

"May I venture in?"

From the bathroom Fanny answered him rather thickly. "No, no, keep out! I'm brushing my teeth."

Scarpath set down his burden, and with a light chuckle crossed to the partly opened door. There, a few feet away, stood Fanny, facing the basin mirror—clouded with steam, thank goodness!—and from the rear view a tall, shapelessly garbed figure. A curious frostiness in his eye, he measured the net covered bun into which her gray hair was wadded at the base of her head. His right hand stole to the bulging pocket of his dressing gown.

"Don't make too long a job of it," he warned pleasantly. "You'll get chilled again."

Elizabeth was still mopping dolefully at her eyes when the bell rang another belligerent peal. Was it Fanny coming back? In a tremble again, she took cover in the bedroom, but on hearing gruff, cockney speech, and a series of thumps peered timidly into the passage.

"My wardrobe trunk!" she gasped. "My hat box, and my two cases!"

"Seems the lot," said David, dryly, signing the carrier's book. "Here's your keys. Better look things over."

"But why? I can't understand! Did Fanny do this?"

"Hardly," argued Alison, secretly in despair over the inroads on her limited space. "Didn't she count on carting you back with her? It looks—yes, I must say it does look very much like capitulation. Betsy, you've been given up as a hopeless job. O, well!" she sighed, "they can't stop here. Let's unpack and see if my landlady can stow the big trunk, anyway, in her boxroom."

"I might sell this," mused the superfluous one, shaking out her mink coat. "The last thing Daddy bought me. It cost a lot."

"Keep it to make a splash in," David advised.

At a safe distance he growled to Alison that this settled it.

"Not one word about the sapphire. Understand? She won't stay here unless she's allowed to share expenses. Well, then, you just take what she offers you and say nothing."

Just like him, she lamented, yet what lover wouldn't have done the same? Actually, she could not envisage any alternate remedy. She went back to the heap of rainbow finery Elizabeth was hauling from her trunk and created a diversion.

"We'll dress you up, Betsy!" she cried. "All these rich furs—why, you'll be a Russian princess!"

"All the Russian princesses I know," said Elizabeth soberly, "are running hat shops in Paris—or else walking on in Hollywood."

"Hollywood!" David echoed it under his breath, and found Alison and Colin eying him incredulously. "O, not films," he explained, barely audible. "But Hollywood—well, one jump from Reno, you know. She might go there. . . ."

In spite of herself, Elizabeth was reviving a little at the mere prospect of having something to wear. All these nearly forgotten clothes still in quite decent style! Thankfully she got into a soft blue angora frock, and brightened a bit more when Colin declared she might, after a rest, go with David to a cinema.

"Wearing your plutocratic mink coat. No, I don't think it'll do you any harm." To Alison he added confidentially that some distraction was indicated after that scene with the aunt. "We've got to snap her out of this depression. We'll go, too—but not to the same show."

Neither David nor Elizabeth was quite clear as to what film they witnessed. What they did realize, thrillingly, was the warm gloom, the sense of complete isolation amidst strangers, and the closeness of their bodies. When seductive waltz airs stole forth they found their heads grazing without the slightest volition, and, though David never tried to possess himself of the hand snuggled for safety inside the folds of mink fur, both experienced all the sensations of actual contact.

Elizabeth, now and again meeting the dark brown eyes fixed on her, knew that she was being drawn nearer and nearer to the brink of a frightening bliss. Her head swam. She was slipping. O, how easy it would be to let go her anchorage and drift blindly, intoxicatedly into this heaven! The one thing, of course, she must not let herself do.

Until you've used a glass knife, ourself, you don't know what a great itchen convenience it is. Glass knives re most attractive in appearance— n fact, they are pretty enough to ive as a little gift or a bridge prize. nd they are extremely sharp. They're ntended for fruits of all kinds, and f course, they will never be dis- colored by acid stains.

Try one in preparing grapefruit next time and see how nicely it works. These glass knives have been popular n Florida for a long time and are ow being sold in this part of the ountry. They're not expensive.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This youthful dress, which makes up especially well in woolens, is one that flatters either slim-as-a-reed or slightly plump silhouettes. The secret lies in the unusual paneling. It is wide at the shoulder and wide at the hemline, but melts into nothingness at the waistline. This trick gives the effect of slenderizing the waist and hips, which accentuates breadth through the shoulders and flare through the skirt.

The collarline is versatile. It may be high and have a contrasting, detachable collar, or it may open into small revers. If you wish, leave an opening in the top of one of the bodice panels and insert a pocket. Into it you may slip a contrasting kerchief, just for a touch of color. Sleeves may be either long or short.

Style No. 2738 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with ¼ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Child's Cough May Be Chronic If Neglected

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

It was the evening show at our little neighborhood movie theater—one of those damp autumn nights when you think, "I wish I had my winter coat out." But the theater was warm, so we settled down, resignedly, having made a mistake in the time the picture we wanted to see went on.

I found myself looking aimlessly about, when I was startled by a racking cough at my elbow. Two little 10 year olds, whom I hadn't noticed in the darkness on entering, sat next to me. As my eyes wondered over the audience I noticed large numbers of children young enough, many of them, to be tucked in bed and sound asleep. Even when ten thirty came, most of them were still there.

The point, however, is not just that these children should have been home, but that my two little neighbors continued to cough those deep, bronchial coughs that are usually of long standing.

And behind me in the bus yesterday on a rather long trip was another small lad with a hollow cough. "How much longer will it be, Mommie?" he kept saying at intervals, and "How long will we be shopping, Mommie?"

"Well, most of the day, dear, I think . . . if your cough isn't better tomorrow I'm not going to let you go to Sunday school, I'm going to keep you in bed."

I see a surprising number of children with these chronic sounding coughs being allowed to do all sorts of things they shouldn't—stay up late at movies, go to school or out in drizzly rain, or cold, late afternoons. It is just this sort of thing which makes these coughs hang on.

When children are recovering from heavy colds, their energy should be guarded or the aftermath is prolonged, their resistance lowered, and frequently chronic coughs or other conditions will develop.

And keep in mind that you can't depend upon your child for knowledge of how he feels. Children rebel against resting or being kept from their usual vigorous play. They rarely tell you when they feel limp or low, but if you watch their actions or the fatigue signs in their faces you can tell.

With the high frequency cold season ahead of us, I want to issue this warning. Such care is often a great deal of trouble to a busy mother, but it's part of her job.

"Caring For and Amusing the Convalescent Child" is a leaflet of interest to parents and nurses. It will be sent on receipt of a large, stamped, addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The chance to hear a North American debut — not a mere Chicago debut, mind you — was one of the lures which drew a good sized audience to the Civic Opera house last night. Another was Lawrence Tibbett, singing the title rôle in "Rigoletto."

The singer who had never before emitted a single note on this continent is Hilde Reggiani, Italian soprano. As she bounced out upon the stage in the second act the great volley of applause which had rewarded Tibbett's "Pari Siamo" turned immediately in a volley of welcoming applause for her. The audience cocked its collective ear while its collective heart beat a little faster at the ancient excitement of a big debut.

Her first phrases were delivered mostly in a parsimonious little voice which had too hard a brilliance. And these phrases lacked the fine oily legato which one demands of an Italian singer. "That's all right," we said. "She's saving herself for the Caro Nome."

This reasoning turned out to be fairly sound altitude Mme. Reggiani gave rather generously of her voice in the two climaxes which precede the aria. Then the moment arrived, and we pressed forward [figuratively] to see what the newcomer would make of the terrific test piece by which all Gildas must win their spurs.

The voice was soft and caressing in the recitative, shot with light in the first phrases of the air. Taking her time about everything and not trying to hurry a single phrase, Mme. Regiani reached the fireworks [toward the end of the piece] in good vocal condition. She handled them competently, but could not maintain in the more difficult reaches an air of ease and of reserve power. Tonal suavity disappeared. The ovation which followed was a B plus.

The singer was much less stiff in her delivery when her part of the third act began. She seemed to be allowing a little more natural feeling to creep into her voice, and her tone colorings were warmer and more significant. All in all one may call Mme. Reggiani's debut a success, especially in view of the fact that she came only a day or so ago into our hot and humid November and could hardly have had time to whip her voice into a condition thoroughly satisfactory to herself.

North	East	South	West

"My partner, North, claims that my four heart bid was a shutout bid, at game. I differ with him and say the bidding should have been as follows:

North	East	South	West
3 clubs	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
5 diamonds	Pass	5 no trump	Pass
6 clubs	Pass	Pass	Pass

"East Boston, Mass."

This is a typical bridge tempest in a teapot. Since six clubs or six hearts was absolutely cold, both partners took it for granted that a slam contract should have been reached. As general logic, this view is unimpeachable, but unfortunately, although 90 per cent of bridge bidding is based on sheer logic, the other 10 per cent gives us plenty of trouble, and this hand belongs to the 10 per cent. [Why is it that minority groups always are so darned unmanageable.] The fact is that the North-South hands cannot be bid to a slam unless asking bids are called into use. Without this aid there is no earthly way for North to tell that his diamond void will produce the slam, whereas a spade void, with two diamonds would be worthless. Conversely, there is no way for South to tell that North is void in diamonds. I realize that my correspondent proposes to clarify this issue by bidding five diamonds over four hearts, but may I point out that this is a very risky procedure? North cannot be certain that he will be safe at even five clubs. Four hearts may easily be the limit of the combined hands. Hence, if North bids five diamonds, he is committing himself either to five hearts or to six clubs. Of course, we can get around this difficulty by having South bid only three hearts in response to North's three clubs, but here again I find an objection! Everything being equal, North's opening bid should be not three, but four clubs. He cannot possibly tell that a three club bid is desirable, in that it will allow slam investigation, with cue bids, etc. From North's original point of view, a sheer shutout appears much more in order.

I want to take this occasion to point out that many freakish hands render logical slam bidding impossible. As I have said time and again, all worthwhile bidding systems are devised to take care of the 90 per cent majority of deals. We cannot have our cake and eat it too, which is to say that we cannot stick to simple, easily remembered bidding conventions and yet hope to conquer every weird distribution that comes along.

Dresden Boys Are Naturals in Art of Singing

BY CECIL SMITH.

In the course of their second tour of the United States the sixty boys of the historic Dresdner Kreuzchor [Dresden Boys' choir] are pausing in Chicago for a few days. Last night, under the direction of Rudolph Mauersberger, they sang a formal concert in Orchestra hall. Tomorrow morning they will assist in the 95th anniversary celebration of St. Paul's church, Fullerton avenue and Orchard street, and Tuesday evening they will sing in the Rockefeller Memorial chapel at the University of Chicago.

Ranging from 10 to 19 years of age, the boys have devoted themselves, under Prof. Mauersberger's splendid discipline, to the classics of German sacred and secular part music, from the Reformation period to the present century.

The tradition of the choir is historic indeed, for records of its activity run back to the year 1200. Johann Sebastian Bach, Mozart, Goethe, and Napoleon all heard the choir's performances, and Richard Wagner attended the Holy Cross college, of which the choir school is a part.

With all four choral parts fully represented in either unchanged or changed boys' voices, the choir sings with a tone of unearthly beauty, pure and floating in quality, and remarkably faithful to pitch. The conductor does not seem to have to labor in order to produce a precise and artistic result. Singing seems as natural to them as breathing, and as completely devoid of affectation.

Their repertoire stretched back to Orlando di Lasso and Hans Leo Hasler in the sixteenth century, and touched upon the works of Bach, Schubert, Schumann, Wagner, Brahms, and Bruckner. Always their performance was of a kind to let the music express itself, without the distraction of theatricalism or the obtrusion of the conductor's personality. The concert was one of the quiet but real and satisfying joys of the autumn season.

Announcement has been made of the marriage on Oct. 25 of Mrs. Dian Weeks Winans, daughter of Mrs. Harvey T. Weeks of Chicago, to John E. Wheeler of 720 North Wabash avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler are at home at 720 North Wabash avenue.

Donald Lacks Girl Friends; Fault Is His

Donald, 18, says: "I have what I believe is a serious problem, although others may not think it so. I have no girl friend. All the fellows I know have girl friends. They kid me unmercifully, asking me what is wrong that the girls won't fall for me. They act as if I were a black sheep. What can I do to get a girl or two interested in me? Personally, I believe it is impossible for me to have even one. This may sound and seem like a silly problem, Miss Blake, but it is darned serious to me, since it makes me melancholy. DONALD."

It IS a serious problem, Donald, that you don't get on with girls well. All boys of 18 should have friends among the opposite sex. It rounds out their education. It gives them social experience and it just balances life for a boy.

We assume, Donald, that you are not interestd in having one steady girl; that you just want to feel there is a girl you can take to a dance or something once in a while.

We discover one bad flaw in your equipment, Donald, that may well explain your failure with girls. You say that personally you believe it is impossible for you to attract a girl. If you feel that way about it, you are going to fail.

Why and where did you get such an inferiority complex? What have these other boys you speak of that you can't muster to your aid? That's what you want to study. But only after you have set up a better estimate of yourself!

You can be neat and attractive. You can have a likeable manner. You can learn to dance well so the girls would like to go dancing with you. You can do the gentlemanly thing in your method of approach to girls.

You can say nice things to them. You can talk. But we beg of you not to let one of them hear you say that it is impossible to make the grade with a girl. That would damn you in their eyes.

You don't have to try to impress them with your importance. The other boys don't. But you can't go around impressing people with your unimportance unless that's the way you want them to accept you.

You should join group activities, Donald. Get out with a group of hikers, say, or other sports groups. Mix around on every possible occasion. Force the occasion if need be.

FINNAN HADDIE is lightly smoked and salted haddock. "Finnan" is a corruption of Findon, the name of a Scottish fishing village. Haddock cured at Findon was the original "finnan haddie."

Pomegranates and persimmons are back on the market. Try pomegranate juice in jellied salads. It gives gorgeous color and an unusual flavor. Or sip it as a breakfast appetizer. A good sized pomegranate will make a small fruit glassful. Squeeze out the juice as you would orange or lemon juice. . . . Be sure those persimmons are fully ripe before you buy them. Don't use the standards you would use for tomatoes. Persimmons should be soft before they're eaten, or their astringent juice will coat your teeth and pucker your tongue unpleasantly. Fully ripe, however, this fruit is delicious.

When famous chef Henri Charpentier, now in Chicago, was a boy of 14, he was making crêpe suzette for the prince of Wales, now duke of Windsor. He's since made them for most of Europe's royalty, and he used to make them after for that notable gourmet-gourmand [is there such a thing?], Diamond Jim Brady, whose favorite chef he was. I watched Henri making his suzettes the other day, and had the privilege of tasting them, too. What I wouldn't give to be able to make an orange sauce to match his!

Now the doughnut experts have decided that 370 degrees is a little too hot for their frying fat. Put in the doughnuts when the thermometer registers 350 degrees, they say. At this temperature the goodies become thoroughly cooked inside and the crust is a delicate brown. . . . Try a few different icings on your next batch of doughnuts. Make a plain confectioners' sugar as a base. Flavor part of it with lemon juice, part with orange and grated orange rind, a part with maple. Sprinkle nuts on the maple iced doughnuts, coconut on one of the others. Rum flavored icing is good on doughnuts, too.

Afternoon tea is one of the easiest and yet most gracious forms of entertainment. Whether the tea is elaborate or simple, there are many suggestions for its service and menus in Mary Meade's "Tips on Tea Parties." Irene Dunne's Advice on Skin Care Is Sound

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Irene Dunne, born in Kentucky, suh, has the lovely camellia skin of southern girls. And we wanted her rule for the acquisition [and retention] of the perfect complexion.

Says she: "There isn't any.

"Complexions are as difficult as the people inside of 'em," Miss Dunne said. "Some lucky people are born with perfect skins and manage to keep them with a minimum of effort. For others, it's a constant 'dressing room battle.'

"But there is no such thing as a single magic formula for a perfect complexion. Because your best friend has a peaches and cream complexion, which she claims she acquired with the aid of white vaseline, don't assume that white vaseline is the answer to your complexion problems. Because your mother has, for forty years, maintained her flawless skin by scrubbing it vigorously with hot water and laundry soap, don't regard this as a recommendation of her methods. To believe in one panacea for all complexion ills is as silly as the Victorian notion that any girl could acquire a perfect skin if she rose at dawn and bathed her face in dew!

"Too many things can affect your complexion, making it the exception to the rule; soaps, hard water, cosmetics, food or pollens to which you are allergic, your general health, climate, how you live, where you live [skins behave differently in the coal dust of manufacturing cities than they do in the hot, dry winds of the desert].

"Keep your skin clean—with soap or cream or method that experiment [or a good dermatologist] has proved right for you. Wear the cosmetics that agree with your skin. And then stop tinkering. You're achieved what you want—a clear complexion.

Such sanity of advice we would expect from the lovely Irene. She is more than right about treating your skin individualistically. It is the one sure way of preserving its beauty, and more and more women are adopting this point of view with the most profitable results.

COVERT—a semi-sports fabric specially recommended for town $37.50

Despite the fact that no fabric has a more rural pedigree than covert cloth, it is one of the most important fabrics in the new casual trend toward semi-sports clothing for town. The rugged qualities that stand it in good stead for country wear are equally important in town, and its rich luxurious finish gives it an air of town bred distinction. You see it here in a three button jacket, with the top two buttons buttoned—a new style detail that carries out the semi-sports, nonchalant attitude toward town wear.

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 4.—Notre Dame's undefeated football squad, which last week routed the Army, tomorrow will try to sink the Navy, a heretofore unprecedented feat. As far as your correspondent knows, no enemy has whipped Uncle Sam's Army and Navy within the space of eight days.

Apparently there are plenty who want to be shown, because more than 55,000 will jam Baltimore's Municipal stadium to watch the battle. A capacity crowd of 63,000 may attend if rain predicted for tomorow afternoon holds off until after the kickoff.

Navy scouts who watched Elmer Layden's thirty-six players crush Army with a terrific fourth quarter assault at Yankee stadium last Saturday report that this is the best team that has come out of Notre Dame since 1931. It will take at least two more weeks to establish that as fact, but there can be no denying the wallop packed by those men operating behind the line.

If Sheridan, Saggau, Stevenson, Thesing, Piepul, Tonelli, Zontini, and Sitko aren't the greatest array of back field men Notre Dame has had under Layden, then Mr. Wells' war of the worlds was real, the depression is over, everybody goes back to the factory tomorrow and how would you like your Christmas bonus, in cash or caviar?

Tonelli, who was injured two weeks ago, did not make the trip to Baltimore. He was the only player on the bench who didn't get into the Army game and workouts this week convinced Layden that the young man ought to give his aching ribs another week of rest. Notre Dame has another backfield man you haven't heard much about who one of these days is going to crash the headlines. He is Bill [Slug] McGannon, brother of the late Tommy McGannon, who lost his life in the locker room blaze at Purdue two years ago. He is a left half back and they say he can carry the ball as deftly as his brother.

Navy Starved for a Victory.

Navy, defeated by Yale, and tied by Princeton and Pennsylvania, is desperate for victory. Layden and his assistants all week have impressed their charges with the fact that fight and drive, such as they will encounter tomorrow, often upset the stronger ball club. The Middies have the psychological advantage that always goes to the underdog, the knowledge they are going into a game with everything to gain and little or nothing to lose.

Navy's prospects of halting the march of the Irish have been complicated by a series of minor injuries. Emmett Wood, the squad's best ground gainer, is recovering from a sacro-iliac sprain received in the Penn game and will not be in good shape, if he is able to play at all.

Ed Gillette, a blocking back, has a misery in the foot due to some one tramping on his dogs in practice. There are a few other ailing mem-

Socially, Oswald was a lug. He hovered shyly on the edge of every conversation but never could get his teeth into one. Then one day he bought a Wake of the News book and read it on his way to the club. It did something to him. The boys were talking about the Wake book when he came into the lounge. BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Nov. 4.—Purdue's Boilermakers ordinarily are as gentlemanly a set of football players as you would care to meet, but they left their company manners behind them as they arrived in this football-crazy town this morning to prepare for tomorrow's argument with Ohio State.

Citizens acquainted with the 1938 career of the Boilermakers, not to mention a long past due account with the Buckeyes, could well understand the riled mood in which the boys from Lafayette landed.

Here they are, a team which has been one of the surprises of the year. They have played six games and lost only one, yielding seven points to Minnesota. They came back in the final period to tie Fordham, 6 to 6, and rallied again to lick the tough Badgers in the second half.

Two Reasons for Their Ire.

Their ire in the present situation is based on two counts. Six days ago they met an Iowa team over which they were given an edge of two touchdowns by most conservatives. At the end of sixty minutes they had done no more than match Iowa's zero. This was caused not so much by the amazing fury of the aroused Hawkeyes as by a rash of fumbleitis which broke out in the Purdue back field, usually a sure-fingered foursome.

The more pressing annoyance in the Boilermaker crew has to do with tomorrow's game, however, even though the fumbling difficulty with Iowa still rankles. Purdue and Ohio State have met six times since 1919. The aggregate score for that span is: Buckeyes, 117; Boilermakers, 0. Thus, 360 minutes of football have transpired in this particular feud with nary a Purdue dent in the Ohio State goal. The best the Lafayette outfit has done in the series was to hold its foes to seven points in 1924.

Purdue is well able to hold up its head on an all-time scoring basis with other conference competition, but not against its rivals of the morrow. Regardless of the fact that the Buckeyes are favored to win, the Boilermakers feel that they are in a perfect position, not only to settle their own debt with the Buckeyes, but also to squash the Ohioans' still lofty hopes of a cut of the Big Ten title.

Winning Spirit Prevails.

This feeling extends to Mal Edward, the quiet little man who is directing the Boilermakers. Elward would not commit himself to any predictions, but stressed the fact that his kids will enter the game with a winning spirit superior to that of many another Purdue team, which is to say considerable.

The Boilermakers came to town sans the services of Carl Verplank, Dick Johnson, and Al Shackleton, all of them down with injuries. The absence of Verplank will give 162 pound Jim Maloney another chance at guard. Maloney is the gent who played the full sixty minutes of the Iowa game, and topped off that feat by filching the ball at the end of the game and sprinting 100 yards with it to the Purdue dressing room.

The Boilermaker back field will include two former Chicagoans, Ted Hennis of Lindblom at quarter back and Tony Ippolito of St. Ignatius at full back. The half back posts will be occupied by Jack Brown and Mike Byelene.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 4.—Pennsylvania will play Michigan here tomorrow and the game has such attractions that the turnstile fellows are looking forward to a 40,000 gate, that is, if the weather man continues to be the middle west's noblest citizen. And those 40,000 will see a dashing game, no doubt, what with the Quakers possessed of an electrifying quarter back named Francis Xavier Reagan, who will seek to steal the spotlight from Michigan's equally electrifying young men, Tom Harmon and Forest Evashevski.

These three youths are pointed out on the basis of dramatics. Both teams are well set with other stars, but Reagan, Harmon, and Evashevski, all sophomores, have been captivating crowds wherever they have played.

Ah! The Wildcats.

Coach Fritz Crisler has been saying for several days that he fears his Wolverines haven't had their minds on Penn altogether this week. He says they just can't help thinking about the game they will play before 85,000 here a week from tomorrow, a rather vital match with the Northwestern Wildcats.

All of which is neither here nor there, except that it will be nice reference material in case the big Wolverine football renaissance wabbles to the extent of a Penn victory.

With all this upset talk even the most partisan Penn followers find it difficult to find anything in the past performance sheets to encourage hope of victory against the sprightly Wolverines, except in the comparative scores of the teams against Yale. Penn beat Yale, 21 to 0, while Michigan had to come from behind to win, 15 to 13.

Michigan Line Outweighed.

Michigan's stalwart forward wall, which has paved the way for the featured performances of its backs, will face a line outweighing it almost sixteen pounds to the man. The array includes four sophomores.

One newcomer will appear in the Michigan line. Horace Tinker, starting the first regulation game of his life, replaces Archie Kodros at center. Kodros, his ribs injured against Illinois last week, will be used "only if necessary," according to Crisler.

Quakers' Big Line Is Fast.

While the Quaker line appears ponderous on the weight chart, despite the presence of Mendelson, who weighs only 169 pounds, Michigan scouts have consistently cautioned their squad on the quick speed of the line, an impression also derived from its signal drill here this morning.

The game will be the fifteenth between the Wolverines and the Quakers, with Penn at present enjoying an 8 to 6 edge in the series.

Three Big Powers of Northwestern Line

John Haman plays center for Northwestern. He has a habit of beating the ends down the field when the Wildcats are forced to punt. On defense he's tough, too.

Don Guritz is just a guard, but opponents of Northwestern wish he were a half back or something else. He's a powerful fellow both on offense and defense.

Nick Cutlich has been doing his part in keeping Northwestern undefeated. He's a tackle who will cause Wisconsin plenty of trouble this afternoon.

Gophers Count on Comeback Against Iowa

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 4.—The Gophers, those sturdy fellows to whom a football victory is as common as a home cooked dinner, still have their appetites, but their gridiron dream has been shattered. The shattering was done unexpectedly last Saturday by Northwestern's Wildcats and the memory lingers on. But even with their dream of dominance broken by that defeat, the Gophers think they can rally tomorrow against an old foe, Iowa, and thus find a quick cure for both the mental and physical wounds suffered from contact with the Wildcats' claws.

To a nonpartisan the impending battle is a matter of bouncing back or going ahead on momentum. The Gophers are the ones who will have to do the bouncing, if any. The Hawkeyes will go ahead, if possible, on the momentum picked up last week when they pulled their own little cornfield surprise by waging a scoreless tie against favored Purdue.

An Ancient Rivalry.

Even with the possibility of another gridiron shock Iowa can't be legitimately figured to have the chance of the mythical Chinaman. These two schools have had a football romance since the fall of 1891. Twelve meetings elapsed before the Hawkeyes were able to eclipse the Gopher power which reached its peak, so far as Iowa is concerned, with 75 points against zero in 1903. The Hawks scored their first victory, 6 to 0, in 1918, whereas the previous session had been 67 to 0 for Minnesota in 1916. The Hawks then went on to win four more in a row, another in 1924, another in 1928 by 7 to 6, and the last in 1929 by 9 to 7.

But what Iowa has to watch for tomorrow is that rebound. When Minnesota's long string of victories and ties was broken by Northwestern in Evanston in 1936, Iowa was luckless enough to be the Gopher foe for the next week-end. On that occasion the Gopher fury popped forth in the form of pride. They gnawed Iowa into a

Maroons Try Razzle Dazzle at Harvard

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Coach Dick Harlow will send out against Chicago tomorrow exactly the same Harvard team that he started running signals on Sept. 9, the first day of fall practice on Soldiers' field. He has been fortunate in that none of his key men has suffered serious injury.

The midwesterners are conceded little chance of beating the Crimson. Harvard is at the top of its game as was demonstrated last week by the conslusive drubbing it meted out to Princeton.

Maroons Hold Workout.

The Maroons arrived today and held a brief workout in Soldiers' field. Coach Clark Shaughnessy said he would start the same eleven that overwhelmed DePauw, 34 to 14, last Saturday. The drill indicated that the visitors would shoot at the Crimson an unorthodox offense, combining use of razzle-dazzle with passes.

Harvard has the Chicago plays well tabbed, but it is no secret the Maroons have been working on new and bewildering variations this week. Chicago is expected to use forward passes liberally with Bob Wasem and John Davenport, Big Ten sprint champion, as the receivers.

Crimson Develops Slowly.

Coach Harlow has developed a left tackle, a center, and both guards, as well as a ball handling back to replace the brilliant Vernon Struck of the 1937 team. At tackle Tom Healey has improved steadily. He has not been so powerful as was Alex Kevorkian last year, but has developed most satisfactorily.

Mellen and Glueck have played a lot of football at guard, with the former strong in the running attack, and Mellen excellent on defense. Tim Russell has been a dependable center.

Within the last week Ben Smith has made a big advance as a plunging back, such as Harvard has needed all year, and he also has been valuable as a blocker.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

With the Western conference championship, or at least a share in the title, at stake, Northwestern's Wildcats this afternoon will entertain Wisconsin's Badgers in Dyche stadium. Thirty-five thousand, a crowd which fails to equal the importance of the contest, will watch the Wildcats carry on.

Northwestern has beaten Illinois and Minnesota. The victory over the Gophers last week, 6 to 3, temporarily eliminated Minnesota from championship consideration. But Northwestern's scoreless tie with Ohio State in its opening Big Ten game has made it necessary for the Wildcats to whip Wisconsin today and to win from Michigan next Saturday if they desire to share in the championship award.

Badger Line Heavier.

Wisconsin will come to Northwestern with its best lineup since the defeat by Pittsburgh. Bill Schmitz, left half back, will be at his familiar post, and Roy Bellin, who substituted for Schmitz, has been returned to his right half back job. The Badgers also will have a weight advantage of approximately 10 pounds a man in the line.

Wisconsin's line and the smashing play of Full Back Howie Weiss have been the Badgers' greatest assets this season. While Northwestern does not have a full back equal to Weiss, the Wildcat line needs no introduction.

Two Good N. U. Lines.

Northwestern's lines—for there are two of almost equal ability—have kept the Wildcat goal line uncrossed this year. Minnesota's field goal last Saturday by Horace Bell is the only score against the Northwestern defense. More important, of course, has been the aggressive offensive play of these linemen who have blocked for the ball carriers so that they have piled up a total of forty-eight first downs in three conference games.

John Haman, Wildcat center, has developed into one of the best men in the Big Ten in his position. Center, originally, was one of the worries of Burt Ingwersen, Northwestern line coach, but Haman, who received his first experience last year in the closing games of the campaign, has come through. He not only is an offensive player of merit, but his backing up of the line on defense has contributed greatly to the undefeated record of the Wildcats.

Goldak Ready for Action.

While the return of John Goldak, junior right guard, will bolster this position, Northwestern already has found a star in Hal Method of East Chicago, Ind. Method began this season on a par with Goldak and it was this Hoosier who carried the burden against Minnesota. Fred Heitmann has been his relief and he is certain to see service today.

Watches Weather Reports.

Yesterday Coach Lynn Waldorf watched the weather reports anxiously. Ordinarily rain and a slow field, which apparently is the weather man's gift today, equalize football teams. Northwestern wouldn't necessarily worry except that under these conditions a smashing line game shows up better than an attack based on running and passing.

Since Wisconsin has Weiss and since the Wildcats will depend on the running of Bernie Jefferson, Jack Ryan, Red Hahnenstein, and Paul Soper, and the passing of these backs, inclement weather is a handicap.

Northwestern must win, for a tie game would be as disastrous to championship hopes as a defeat.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

When Earl [Curly] Lambeau sends his Green Bay Packers against the Bears in a National Football league game in Wrigley field at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow, it will be the fortieth time the former Notre Dame full back has directed the Northerners in a contest with their bitterest rivals.

Lambeau's record is unsurpassed in football. It beats by three games the record of A. A. Stagg, who sent the University of Chicago Maroons against Illinois 37 times. George Halas, Lambeau's opponent tomorrow, will be coaching the Bears for the thirty-fourth time in a game against the Packers, the third longest record of its kind.

Halas would be tied with Lambeau except that he once decided to forego coaching and turned the Bears over to Ralph Jones, now of Lake Forest, in 1930, 1931, and 1932. It was while Halas was confining his football duties to the front office that Lambeau set a National league record by winning three consecutive championships.

Bears Won First One.

Since the Bears and Packers began their series back in 1921 with a 20 to 0 Bear victory, Lambeau and Halas have risen from the status of sandlot coaches to positions among the élite in their profession. They have been two of the dominant factors in the growth of professional football and the National league.

Although he is the only coach to win four championships, Lambeau never has been able to master the Bears completely. In thirty-nine previous meetings with Halas and Jones coached clubs, his Packers have come away with sixteen victories against nineteen defeats and four ties. Seventy per cent of their games over the last eighteen years have been important factors in championship races. The title hopes of each team invariably have hinged on its ability to beat the other.

Tomorrow's game is no exception. The Bears must win to remain in the title struggle and the Packers, tied with Detroit for the lead on the basis of games lost, although on percentage they hold first place, must avenge a 2 to 0 defeat by the Bears in Green Bay earlier in the season to keep pace with the fast traveling Lions. The Lions play Cleveland in Detroit tomorrow.

It's a Famous Rivalry.

Between them, Halas and Lambeau have built up the Packer-Bear series where it surpasses even the natural rivalry between the New York Giants and the Bears. In recent years the Packers have been unable to match the power of the Bears in early season, but they have whipped them with passes in Wrigley field later on.

Passes again are Lambeau's forte as he brings the Packers to Chicago tomorrow for the start of an extended road trip which takes them to Detroit next Sunday and New York the following week for the final game of the schedule.

Irish Set to March; Navy Is Desperate

Even Layden couldn't find anything wrong with the Notre Dame boys as they went through their last practice at Griffith stadium in Washington this afternoon. He expects to start the game with the same lineup that took the field against Army.

Sitko to Play Safety.

There probably will be one tactical change in Notre Dame's play. Last week Quarter Back Steve Sitko sent the left half back, Saggau or Sheridan, to the safety position to handle opponent's kicks, but he will do the work himself tomorrow.

The Irish are quartered in Washington tonight. They will come to Baltimore on their special train at 11 a.m. tomorrow. Coach Layden and other university officials spoke tonight at a banquet in Washington for an old Notre Dame player, Ambrose O'Connell, assistant postmaster general, who is national president of the Notre Dame Alumni association.

Navy has won three out of the last five games with Notre Dame. It won its first victory in 1933 by 7 to 0 and repeated the following year, 10 to 6. The third triumph came in 1936 by the margin of a field goal, 3 to 0. Notre Dame has whipped Navy eight times. One of the Irish victories was scored in Chicago before a crowd of 120,000 at Soldiers' field in 1927. Notre Dame took six straight before the Middies stopped them in 1933.

WAR ADMIRAL AND SEABISCUIT MAY CLASH IN STAKE

Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—War Admiral, Samuel D. Riddle's 4 year old, arrived at the Narragansett Park track this morning from Pimlico, where he lost to C. S. Howard's Seabiscuit last Tuesday. Trainer George Conway said War Admiral will work out on the track tomorrow.

War Admiral will compete in the $10,000 added Rhode Island handicap here on Nov. 12. Narragansett Park officials are hopeful Seabiscuit will be here for the event, but no word has been received from Owner Howard.

INDIANA, STILL AFTER VICTORY, FACES BOSTON

Meets Unbeaten Eastern Eleven.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—An Indiana team which is rated much stronger than its record indicates is given an even chance to beat undefeated Boston college in Fenway park tomorrow. The Hoosiers have gained only a tie in five games.

The Indiana squad arrived this morning and during the day was given a look at Fenway park. Coach Bo McMillin sent the Hoosiers through running signals and the varsity eleven was impressive in its workout.

"We realize," said McMillin, "that we will be facing a real team in Boston college, but our team can't go along outplaying the opposition indefinitly without finally tasting victory. We have thrown away our chances in other games, to be sure, but I'm sure the eleven is ready to settle down and profit by earlier mistakes."

Kansas State and Oklahoma to Meet Today

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Kansas State, upset by Kansas last week, gets a chance to redeem itself tomorrow when it meets Okiahoma in Norman in the leading Big Six football game.

In the other conference game tomorrow Nebraska will be seeking its first victory of the year when it meets Kansss in Lawrence. Non-conference games match Missouri and Michigan State in Columbia, and Iowa State and Drake in Ames.

The undefeated Sooners rate as favorites over Kansas State, but close observers are ignoring last week's Kansas-Kansas State game, won by Kansas, 27 to 7, and looking for a real battle.

Kansas, on its showing last week, and even allowing for a letdown, seems to have an edge on Nebraska. Nebraska's offense has been unimpressive, but the Huskers are tough on defense, indicating another tight game. Kansas has not defeated Nebraska at home in forty-two years.

Michigan State, on its record, rates a favorite over Missouri, while Iowa State's smoothness and trickery give the undefeated Cyclones an edge over a rugged Drake team.

BREAKS 211 POINT SCORING RECORD OF DE CORREVONT

Kingsport, Tenn., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Bobby Cifers, Kingsport High school's sensational half back, scored 33 points tonight to eclipse the 211 point total amassed last year by Bill De Correvont of Austin High, Chicago.

Cifers, 183 pound triple threat star, scored five touchdowns and place kicked three extra points to lead his team to a 41 to 0 victory over Bristol and run his total for the season to 213 points.

Needing one touchdown to shatter De Correvont's mark, Cifers executed one of the most spectacular plays of his career. A pass intended for Bobby flew over his head, but struck a secondary defender and bounded into the air. Cifers grabbed the ball and raced 47 yards to score.

Kingsport has two more games on its schedule.

JOHNNY BROACA, YANKEE HURLER, IS REINSTATED

K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, last night announced he had acted favorably upon the application for reinstatement by Johnny Broaca, New York Yankee pitcher who left the club suddenly late in the 1937 season.

Following Broaca's disappearance, the right hander was placed on the voluntarily retired list. Recently he made application to the Yankees for reinstatment, which the club recommended.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Nov. 4.—(AP)—C. F. Crossley, manager of the Cedar Rapids Raiders of the Three-I league, has been released, President Harry Johnson announced tonight. Johnson said Crossley was in line for a job as manager of another club next year. He did not reveal the name of the club.

Carnegie Tech Stands in Way of Pitt Parade

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 4.—(AP)—A gritty band of Carnegie Tech Tartans reported ready tonight to "do or die" in an effort to block the path of the triumphant Pittsburgh university Panthers tomorrow. More than 60,000 are expected to see the silver anniversary clash of the two city rivals, with Pitt a favorite to win.

The biggest news of the eve of the battle was a hint that the Pittsburgh backfield may be broken for the first time this season, because of the leg injury of Marshall Goldberg. His leg was hurt in the Fordham game Saturday and he spent a couple of days in the hospital early this week.

Goldberg practiced the last two afternoons, but Coach Jock Sutherland indicated he may let him rest and place Ben Kish, 198 pound reserve back, in his place.

FORDHAM, ST. MARY'S CLASH.

New York, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Bent on reversing the result of the last two years when Fordham emerged victorious over his St. Mary's Gaels, Coach Slip Madigan will send his strongest squad into the Polo Grounds tomorrow seeking touchdowns.

More than 50,000 are expected to see the eighth meeting of the two schools. Manhattan fandom has discounted Madigan's assertion that Fordham will win and looks to a battle of half backs, with Fordham's Sophomore Eshmont pitted against St. Mary's second year student, Mike Klotovich.

VILLANOVA PLAYS AUBURN.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Villanova, undefeated in sixteen straight games, takes on Auburn tomorrow in one of the east's outstanding football games. A crowd of more than 20,000 is expected in Shibe park to watch the Wildcats, held to a 6 to 6 tie by South Carolina last week, endeavor to come back against the southerners.

ARMY HAS BREATHER.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 4.—(AP)—With 14,000 boys and girls expected in Michie stadium, little Franklin and Marshall college will come here tomorrow to lay siege to the Hudson river citadel of Army's cadet football eleven. While Army was not expecting much trouble from the Diplomats, Coach Wood has warned his players to watch Manotti, touted as an elusive back field man.

COLUMBIA VS. VIRGINIA.

BREWER IS BACK AS ILLINI DRILL FOR OHIO GAME

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Mel Brewer, Illinois quarter back, who returned to practice this week after a month's layoff, appeared at quarter back on the first team today in defensive dummy scrimmage against the freshmen.

Brewer's participation encouraged hope that he will be able to play against Ohio State next week. His blocking and line backing was greatly missed in the Notre Dame, Northwestern, and Michigan games.

Coach Bob Zuppke, who expressed pleasure at seeing Brewer in action, will continue to work Ralph Ehni and Phil Pezzoli at quarter back, Ehni receiving the call on account of his punting. However, if Brewer suffers no more accidents in practice he is likely to play much of the Buckeye contest.

DE KALB DEFEATS ELMHURST, 39 TO 0; CLICKS ON PASSES

De Kalb, Ill., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Scoring four touchdowns in the first quarter, the undefeated De Kalb Teachers football team beat Elmhurst, 39 to 0, today.

Classic League Teams Go Into Action Tonight

The Classic league will bowl one of its Sunday matches tonight in the Cheltenham Recreation, 7847 Escanaba avenue. The most important match of the evening will be that between the league leading Monarch Beers and the Power House Candies. The other matches are:

Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer vs. Schlitz Beer.

Illinois-Missouri Polo Game Is Canceled

Gates Returns to Dartmouth; Says He'll Stay

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Harrington Gates was back on the Dartmouth campus today. The 24 year old athlete, who left school to spend five days with a religious cult known as the "Holy Ghost and Us," made a surprising return and said he would remain to continue his studies. He will not play any more football, however.

Gates, who was the star blocker of the Dartmouth back field, was driven to his college lodging house by Joseph Holland, a member of the cult, who was Gates' host at the cult's New Boston, N. H., headquarters. Holland wore dark glasses and declined to talk with newspaper men. He drove to Boston after seeing Gates to his rooms.

"I've come back to Dartmouth to stay," he said.

Announcement that Gates would return to Hanover was made earlier in the day by Ralph W. Davis, Manchester, N. H., attorney, who is a Dartmouth graduate and active alumnus.

52 to 0 debacle. The Gophers, unless the Hawkeyes have one of those inspired hours, will make an effort to redeem themselves similarly tomorrow.

There either is a little fear or a desire for experiment in the mind of Bernie Bierman, the Gopher coach. Subject to change, of course, he said today that he would start George Gould at quarter back. George is a senior who never before has drawn an opening rôle. Part of this promised setup is due to the physical condition of George Faust, first string quarter back, and to the fact that Phil Belfiori, heretofore second choice for the signal job, called plays which failed to baffle Northwestern last Saturday.

Iowa Admits It's Tough.

The only other shift from the lineup which started against the Wildcats last week will be at right tackle. Warren Kilbourne will be there for the kickoff. Three weeks ago he was third on the list for the position. He's been moved up because there is a suspicion that the Wildcats gained too much ground through the post when it was occupied by Charles Schultz and Allen Rork.

Iowa's squad, which arrived this afternoon, sent out word that it was tough and without worries.

OVERLIN BEATS BOLDEN; DECISION IS UNANIMOUS

Ken Overlin, middleweight contender from Decatur, Ill., outboxed Nate Bolden, former intercity Golden Gloves winner, to earn a ten round decision in White City last night. Many of the 1,906 spectators booed when the winner was announced.

Overlin showed superiority in the first seven rounds, earning the unanimous vote of Referee Phil Collins and Judges John Bray and Frank Jackson. Overlin weighed 163 pounds, nine more than Bolden.

85,000 to See California and U. S. C. Battle

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Unbeaten California was the favorite today to defeat Southern California when the two meet before some 85,000 fans tomorrow in a game that probably will decide the Pacific coast conference entry in the Rose Bowl game Jan. 2.

Both teams were bothered by minor injuries, but it was doubtful if all the ailments put together would seriously weaken either team. Coach Stub Allison was reported undecided whether to start Will Dolman at left end, the 185 pound wingman having been favoring a leg injury, and Howard Jones of the Trojans faced the same problem in Amerigo Tonelli, husky guard.

The Bear backfield, starring Vic Bottari, Dave Anderson, and Louis Smith, was reported intact, while the Trojans should have enough reserve strength behind Granville Lansdell, Bob Hoffman, Bill Sangster, and Red Morgan to forget about the injured condition of Bob Peoples.

Indications were the battle will be one of California power, plus a championship complex the Bears seem to have, and Trojan speed with an additional team spirit reminiscent of former Southern California elevens. Probable lineups:

Lane Defeats Sullivan, 14-0, in Section Final

Lane Tech High school's football team, champion of the north section for the first time in four years, is ready for its semi-final round game with Fenger, south zone titleholder, next Saturday. The north siders pressed their reserves into service yesterday to accomplish their seventh straight victory, defeating the weak Sullivan eleven, 14 to 0, on Lane Tech field.

The game ended sectional play for Lane Tech, which in its brilliant march to the division championship rolled up 217 points to its opponents' 25. It was Sullivan's fifth defeat in seven games. Regulars saw little action in the contest, but the two touchdowns were scored by members of the starting lineup.

Pergament, Zdunek Score.

Milton Pergament, regular full back, scored the first touchdown in the opening quarter by running 25 yards. In the same period Half Back Zdunek made the second score when he intercepted a Sullivan pass and ran 90 yards. Bus Mertes, left half back, and Cheny, substitute full back, added the extra points.

Thornton High of Harvey defeated Bloom of Chicago Heights, 8 to 0, last night in a South Suburban league game. Scoreless going into the third quarter, Thornton punted out of bounds on the Bloom 1 yard line. Hendron was tackled for a safety on the next play.

Fenger, which clinched the south section championship last week for the second straight year, concludes its schedule this afternoon against Bowen on Pullman Tech field. Harrison Tech, central zone semi-finalist, will play its last sectional game against DuSable in American Giants' park, 39th street and Wentworth avenue.

Coin May Decide It.

The toss of a coin may decide the west section champion which will meet Harrison on St. Philip field next Saturday. The section's representative will be Austin or Crane Tech, which are tied for first place. Austin plays Steinmetz in Mills stadium this afternoon and Crane meets Kelvyn Park on Spencer field. If both Austin and Crane win, a coin will be tossed immediately after the games to decide which eleven will oppose Harrison.

TEACHER FORCED TO SOCIAL WORK, CRITIC ASSERTS

Revolt Against Trend Is Urged on Instructors.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—The American trend is to make social workers rather than instructors out of school teachers; Howard Mumford Jones, writer and professor of English at Harvard university, told the Wisconsin Education association today.

"Instead of educating, teachers are being forced to lead crusades for social betterment, economic reform, rehabilitation of family life, and better movies," Jones said.

"I sincerely hope I shall live to see American teachers revolt and declare 'we are willing to teach your children all necessary knowledge without which neither they nor society can survive, nor philanthropists nor guardians of the poor.'"

Teachers Well Equipped.

Jones declared American teachers are well equipped to do the task for which their training has designed them, but they are crushed beneath too great a burden.

"If the teachers' influence is to be counted in every movement for moral, educational, and civic betterment; if she must donate her time, service, and money for the community at large, she is not a teacher but a social worker," he continued. "School boards have overlooked the fact that the teacher is just one person and is not an animated social center."

What was once simple arithmetic, Jones declared, now is considered as twelve separate abilities and eleven separate knowledges including an understanding of good and poor investments, and four separate appreciations including arithmetic situations which make for good citizenship.

In history, he declared, a teacher must supervise such separate activities as making of tents, learning the Gettysburg address, and explaining the cause and effects of migrations.

Doudna Elected President.

Edgar G. Doudna, secretary of the state board of Normal school regents and former editor of the Wisconsin Journal of Education, was elected president of the association, defeating Ross B. Rowen, Oshkosh High school teacher.

Resolutions adopted by the delegates urged a revision of tuition laws to make school districts charge actual cost per pupil for nonresidents; favored increased state aid for high schools; endorsed federal aid to education in the states; opposed the state system of prorating public and vocational school appropriations, and urged the University of Wisconsin to establish "freshmen colleges" at strategic points in the state for the benefit of high school graduates who cannot afford to go away to school.

The delegates also expressed their feelings in opposition to the opinion of the United States attorney general that teachers are subject to federal income tax laws and must pay back taxes for the last 12 years.

Joseph E. Boriff told the science group that a course in marriage was desirable for high school seniors. There would be fewer divorces if they were taught the problems that would confront them, he said.

Death Fall from Speeding Train Is Called Accident

A coroner's jury decided yesterday that the death of Edward Everson, 60 years old, of Argyle, Wis., who was killed Thursday when he fell from the Illinois Central Hawkeye Limited at 16th street and Wabash avenue, was an accident. Witnesses said Everson tried to catch the train as it left the station, and apparently had hung on until he was brushed off at the 16th street trestle.

Find High School Boy Shot to Death in Home

Garth Collord, 15 years old, was found fatally shot last night in a bedroom of his home at 1420 South 12th avenue in Maywood. A .22 caliber rifle belonging to a brother was found nearby on the floor. COLUMBIA GAS SUED BY U. S. ON TRUST CHARGES

Monopoly Is Alleged in Four States.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4. — The federal government today pushed its anti-trust drive by filing a civil suit against the Columbia Gas & Electric corporation, big holding company. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings announced that the suit had been filed in the federal District court at Wilmington, Del. It charged the corporation with "conspiring to monopolize" the natural gas industry in Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, and West Virginia.

Atty. Gen. Cummings.

The justice department complained that the corporation, its officers and directors, and the Warfield Natural Gas company, a subsidiary, had engaged in a conspiracy to restrain trade since February, 1930.

Files Clayton Act Charge.

The government also charged the corporation with violation of the Clayton act by acquiring 75 per cent of the stock of a former competitor. It asserted that Columbia had crushed the American Fuel & Power company and its subsidiaries—Inland Gas corporation, and Kentucky Fuel Gas corporation—by purchasing large blocks of the company's securities and then forcing it into receivership.

Cummings said that the justice department decided to take civil rather than criminal action against the corporation because "the principal overt act occurred eight years ago and makes it inequitable to institute criminal proceedings at this date."

The complaint asked that the court issue an injunction to compel Columbia to divest itself of its holdings in the American Fuel & Power company and of any control over companies resulting from reorganization of that system.

Sought to Eliminate "Raider."

"In the judgment of the department," said Cummings, "evidence in the present case shows that Columbia Gas & Electric corporation considered the American Fuel & Power company a 'raider' in its territory and that the defendants conspired to eliminate the latter company and its subsidiaries as competitors." A "raider" was described as an independent company which attempts to sell gas or power in a territory controled by a holding company.

"If no steps are taken to divest Columbia of its holdings in the American system," Cummings said, "and the proposed reorganization of Inland and Kentucky is consummated, Columbia will obtain complete control of the Inland and Kentucky lines and the trustee of the American company will have no alternative to accepting Columbia's offer of $300,000 for American's remaining subsidiaries."

Cummings said that Columbia dominates the operations of more than sixty subsidiaries engaged in producing electricity and natural, mixed and artificial gas, and serving about 900 cities. United corporation, an investment trust sponsored by J. P. Morgan & Co., has regularly owned 20 to 25 per cent of its stock, he said.

Utility Ready for Action.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The filing of a federal anti-trust suit here today against the Columbia Gas and Electric corporation brought a prompt statement from that company that it was fully prepared to defend its business policy when the action came to trial.

Columbia issued a formal statement which said in part:

"The policy of Columbia's system has been to maintain and increase its operating reserve acreages as necessary to assure to its present and prospective consumers an adequate supply of gas for all present and prospective increasing demands. This policy has been followed consistently and is essential for the maintenance of the service and the stability of the company in its operations.

"The department of justice apparently feels that such policy conflicts in certain cases with the anti-trust laws and brings this suit to obtain a judicial interpretation of the matter."

Columbia is one of the utilities in the group which recently announced it would undertake $2,000,000,000 worth of power generating construction for national defense. In Washington, a war department spokesman said he did not believe the monopoly suit would affect the corporation's participation in the construction program.

Zukor to Direct Paramount Picture Output in England

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Adolph Zukor, chairman of the board of Paramount Pictures, Inc., will go to London to take charge of the development and direction of Paramount's British picture productions. This was announced yesterday by Barney Balaban, president. Zukor will continue as chairman of the board and will also be in charge of Paramount's activities on the European continent. William Lebaron, managing director of production in Hollywood for many years, will be given full charge of Paramount's picture output in this country, Balaban said.

Stocks Ease; Pre-Election Trade Wary

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 4.—Stocks closed lower today on a turnover of 1,196,240 shares. Preëlection caution characterized trading and prices see-sawed narrowly through most of the session. The half session tomorrow and the election day holiday next Tuesday were other restrictive influences. Evening-up operations represented a large part of the day's dealings, brokers said.

Opening mixed, the list steadied and plus signs predominated in forenoon trading. An easier tone developed in the afternoon and the list turned irregular. Of 846 issues traded, 410 closed lower, 253 higher, and 183 unchanged.

Columbia Gas Shares Dip.

The feature of the session was the weakness in Columbia Gas and Electric issues. The common dropped ¾ point to 7¾ and the preferred slumped 4 points to 79. The setback was attributed to the government's action in filing an anti-monopoly suit against the company. Other power and light shares receded in sympathy, but losses were not pronounced.

President Roosevelt's announcement at midday that his radio speech tonight would indicate the changes which it is deemed advisable to make in all legislation passed since the beginning of his administration had little visible effect on the main body of shares, according to observers.

Good Business News Ignored.

Motors did better than other pivotal industrials. Both General Motors and Chrysler edged fractionally higher. Both were fairly active. Steel shares as a group held their ground fairly well. Only minor fractional declines appeared against United States Steel, Republic, and Youngstown. However, Bethlehem slumped 1¼ points.

Railroad shares were generally lower, although part of early losses were made up in the afternoon. News that the nation's roads had canceled the order for the 15 per cent wage reduction came too late for market interpretation.

This was a drop of 1.65 per cent.

SOUTHERN ROAD SEEKS $6,000,000 EQUIPMENT LOAN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4. — (AP) — The Southern Railway company asked the interstate commerce commission today for authority to sell $6,000,000 of equipment trust certificates to the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the RFC has agreed to the transaction, subject to authorization by the I. C. C. Proceeds will go to purchase 2,400 all steel freight cars and 25 all steel express cars.

The Southern recently obtained $13,500,000 from the RFC to purchase 5,724 freight cars and $350,000 to purchase four light Diesel-electric engines.

The Southern estimated 8,124 new freight cars would reduce its annual car hire bill by nearly $2,000,000 and reduce maintenance costs by $250,000 for a five year period.

The equipment trust certificates, bearing 4 per cent interest, would be sold to the RFC at par.

Business Books

"Daniel Willard Rides the Line," by Edward Hungerford. [G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York. Price, $3.50.]

The rise of a Vermont farm boy to a commanding position as president and chairman of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad is traced in this book. It provides interesting biographical reading for the average business man or student. To those engaged in railroading this picture of the man who spends as much time riding the line in his traveling office as seated at his desk in Baltimore should be especially profitable and pleasant.

Willard's first job was as a section hand with the old Connecticut and Passumpsic in Vermont, where he successively graduated to running a "donkey" engine for a construction gang, fireman, and engineer. Glimpses of railroading behind the scenes in the last fifty years are interwoven by the author with Willard's moves to the "Soo," the B. & O., Erie, and Burlington roads, and his return to the B. & O.

AUTO PLANTS EXPAND OUTPUT FOR SEVENTH CONSECUTIVE WEEK

The agency estimated output of American and Canadian factories this week at 80,030 vehicles. This compares with 73,335 last week and 80,770 cars and trucks in the corresponding 1937 period.

November production will reach 365,000 units, the agency said, unless unusual circumstances retard operations. The November, 1937, output was 376,000.

General Motors factories this week turned out 38,825 cars and trucks, compared with 35,592 last week and 46,378 a year ago. Chrysler's production amounted to 18,250, compared with 16,750 last week and 26,000 last year.

The Ford Motor company, which was behind the other leaders in getting into 1939 model production, turned out an estimated 12,875 units this week, against 11,875 last week and 1,250 in the corresponding 1937 period.

FREIGHT TRAFIC RISES; REVERSES SEASONAL TREND

The Association of American Railroads reported yesterday that the nation's railroads loaded 708,840 cars of revenue freight during the week ended Oct. 29. This was 3,212 cars more than the 705,628 loaded in the preceding week, a contra-seasonal gain of 0.5 per cent.

The drop in loadings from those of the corresponding week of 1937 was the smallest this year, according to the association. Loadings were only 7.7 per cent lower than a year ago.

Heavy shipments of coal, which offset decreases in the movement of other important commodities, caused the gain in loadings last week. Coal loadings rose 8,416 cars over those of the preceding week.

BENDIX AVIATION PUTS WAGE LEVEL BACK TO NORMAL

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—A "back to normal" pay revision for salaried employés of all subsidiaries and divisions of Bendix Aviation corporation was announced today by Vincent Bendix, president. The restoration, which excludes top executives, became effective Nov. 1. Wages of all employés receiving $300 or less a month are to be increased to the level prevailing last March 31.

The action, Bendix said, is in line with the company's policy announced last March when conditions in the automobile industry made economies necessary. He said at that time salaries would be restored when conditions waranted.

STOCK EXCHANGE HEAD TELLS OF PEACE WITH SEC

"The commission, most reasonably and fairly, has left completely to the exchange its function of management, retaining for itself the residual rôle of supervision," Martin said.

He praised SEC Chairman William O. Douglas as "sound and intelligent."

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 4.—The Mexican government has increased its crude oil shipments to Texas from 10,000 barrels daily to 15,000 under the sliding scale permitted by the contract with the Eastern States Oil company. The increased shipments began this week.

Chicago Corp. Pays 50 Cents on Preferred

Directors of the Chicago corporation yesterday voted to pay a reduced dividend of 50 cents a share on the $3 preferred stock. Checks for the disbursement will be mailed Dec. 1 to stockholders of record Nov. 15. Payment of the dividend will leave arrearages of 75 cents a share on the preferred issue.

Chicago corporation dividends this year total $2.25 a preferred share, including the current payment. In 1937 the usual annual rate of $3 a share was paid.

Directors said that net assets as of Oct. 31 were valued at $34,174,500, equal to $59.43 a preferred share. Allowing for the stock at its stated value of $50 a share, plus dividend accruals of $1 a share, the net asset value was equal to $1.47 a share on the common. This compares with a value of $54.78 a preferred share and 70 cents a common share Sept. 30.

Bastian to Pay Extra 20 Cents.

Bastian-Blessing company, large Chicago corporation which makes liquified petroleum gas pressure regulating equipment and welding apparatus, declared an extra dividend of 20 cents a share on its common stock. Payment will be made Nov. 25 to holders of record Nov. 15. On Oct. 1, 1937, the company paid an extra of 25 cents a share.

An initial dividend of 50 cents a share will be paid Nov. 25 by the Electrical Products corporation, the surviving company of the recent Electrical Products corporation-Claude Neon Electrical Products corporation merger. The record date for the dividend is Nov. 14. Prior to the merger the dividend rate was 25 cents a share each quarter.

Trustees of the Erie railroad were authorized by Federal Judge Paul Jones of Cleveland to distribute $226,600 on certificates of Erie railroad equipment trust of 1934.

U.S. AND BRITISH TRADE AGREEMENT BELIEVED CERTAIN TO BE MADE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—A reciprocal trade agreement between the United States and the United Kingdom is for the first time regarded as assured. The treaty may be signed within a few weeks.

This was learned today after Secretary Cordell Hull had given to Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, a reply to the recent communication of Great Britain concerning rates on a few commodities which remain in dispute.

Habitually cautions in discussing trade agreement negotiations, Hull went further than he ever has during the British negotiation, and said that the discussions were in their final stages. Although he was careful to say that they were in "final stages," whatever may be the outcome, it was established that no doubt remains among the negotiators on both sides that an agreement will be concluded.

The recent British communication which concerned tarifs on a few remaining items, such as ham, lard, bacon, and, according to some reports, automobiles and lumber, narrowed the field of difference appreciably.

22 TENNESSEE CITIES AND TVA AGREE TO BUY OUT PRIVATE UTILITY

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 4. — (AP) — Negotiators announced an agreement was reached here today for a group of 22 cities and the Tennessee Valley authority to buy out the West Tennessee Power and Light company for $1,600,000. Of this sum the TVA will pay $509,000 and the cities $1,091,000.

Joe Swidler, TVA attorney, said the deal would mean a saving of about 45 per cent to customers representing approximately $300,000 a year.

The company is a subsidiary of National Power and Light, which recently sold its Knoxville distribution system and has agreed to sell its Memphis system.

Memphis city commissioners received today the report upon which the city light and water commission based its approval to an agreement for purchase of the Memphis Power and Light company for $13,500,000. The report revealed the city of Memphis would pay $11,500,000 and the TVA $2,000,000 of the purchase price.

FORD, CHRYSLER READY TO SETTLE ANTI-TRUST SUIT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Informed persons said today the Ford Motor company and the Chrysler corporation would file consent decrees at South Bend, Ind., next Monday, providing for regulation of certain trade practices in the auto financing industry.

Simultaneously, these persons said, Attorney General Cummings will advice the court that the justice department agrees to the settlement. The consent decrees, reached after five months of negotiations, are expected to result in the government's withdrawing anti-trust charges now pending against the Ford and Chrysler companies.

These firms and General Motors corporation were indicted by a federal grand jury at South Bend last May 27. They and their affiliated finance companies were charged with coercing dealers into favoring those finance companies over independent ones.

RAILS RESCIND PAY CUT; STRIKE THREAT ENDED

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The railroads yesterday rescinded their plan to cut the wages of their 930,000 employés 15 per cent on Dec. 1. This definitly set at rest the threat of a nation-wide railroad strike.

The railroad problem is now back in the laps of the railroad presidents, the Roosevelt administration, and congress. How to pay operating expenses and bond interest in the face of dwindling revenues remains the big problem. The railroads' hope for relief now centers on a broad gauge legislative program which is expected to be given congress.

Comply with Commission Report.

Yesterday's decision to withdraw the wage cut was expected as a result of the turndown the carriers received last Saturday from President Roosevelt's fact finding commission. The commission said it believed the wage cut would be futile as a relief measure and denied it.

The wage cut plan was given up at a meeting of about 200 top railway executives at a meeting of the Association of American Railroads at the Blackstone hotel. Representing 131 railroads, the rail officials met at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning. They authorized John J. Pelley, president of their association, to send a telegram to Mr. Roosevelt at Washington.

"In our conference on Oct. 31," the telegram said, "you asked me to inform you what the railroads would do about the recommendation of the emergency board that no horizontal reduction of railroad wages on a national scale be pressed at this time.

Hope for Sound Program.

"The chief executives of the railroads concerned met in Chicago today to consider the situation created by the report of the board. I advised them of your expressed desire to be of help in the present situation and of your hope that there will be developed a constructive program of legislation which you will be able to support at the next session of congress.

"I have, therefore, been authorized to advise you that the railroads will withdraw the present notices of wage reductions.

"The railroads are taking this action not because they agree with the conclusions reached by the board, but because they recognize the gravity of the situation, and because they hope that out of it there will come, through coöperation of all concerned, a sounder and more equitable transportation policy in this country."

Act with Little Argument.

PEOPLES TRUST ENDS FIGHT WITH CONTINENTAL

Stockholders Approve Dissolution.

Attorneys for the Peoples Trust and Savings bank, which ceased operations in 1932, yesterday announced stockholders have approved dissolution of the bank. They also approved settlement of litigation with the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company.

The stockholders of the Peoples Trust will turn over the remaining assets of the bank and $142,000 additional cash to the Continental. The Continental in turn will pay off the remaining deposits liabilities of the Peoples Trust which amount to about $50,000.

Assets Below Deposit Claims.

The Continental bank in 1932 assumed the job of paying off the depositors of the Peoples Trust after the directors of the latter institution decided to liquidate. After paying off nearly $16,000,000 of deposits the Continental brought suit against the stockholders of the Peoples, asserting that the assets of the Peoples bank fell short of the deposit claims. The suit was upheld in the Circuit court. The Supreme court reversed the ruling, deciding that the contract between the Continental and the Peoples was invalid because it was not approved by the state auditor.

Depositor Files Suit.

Subsequently an unpaid depositor brought suit against the Peoples stockholders in the Federal court. The Continental bank intervened in this suit. The suit against the stockholders will be withdrawn and the Continental will be given uncontested title to remaining assets of the Peoples bank.

Among the stockholders who participated in the settlement were Lester Armour, Philip K. Wrigley, Philip D. Armour, Charles Ward Seabury, and the estate of Roger C. Sullivan.

NORTH AMERICAN GRAIN MARKETS STAGE RALLIES

North American grain markets rallied yesterday. Corn futures on the Chicago Board of Trade closed 1 to 1⅛ cents higher. Wheat advanced ⅝ to 1 cent.

Commission houses absorbed the low priced offerings early in the session. Later shorts attempted to cover and disclosed a lack of selling pressure.

Corn Offerings Scarce.

Scarcity of country offerings of cash corn for deferred shipment contributed to improvement in sentiment. Export demand for corn continues to be restricted.

Surplus offerings of North American and Australian wheat continued to weigh upon the Liverpool market. December and March prices dipped to new low levels since the autumn of 1933. At the bottom, December futures sold at 60¼, or ⅝ cent below Thursday's close. Private reports of hail in parts of Argentina and covering by shorts caused a rally and final trades were ½ to 1¼ cents a bushel higher. The May delivery displayed the most strength at the close.

English Buying Small.

English interest in American hard winter wheats was reported to be meager. The purchase on Thursday of 625,000 bushels of yellow hard and red winter grain by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation was considered by some observers to be intended for export under subsidy.

English millers, however, do not want these varieties, it is understood. Arrival of such grain is looked upon with disfavor there because it depresses prices.

Government Agency Lends Over 19 Million on Wheat

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Commodity Credit corporation reported today it had loaned through yesterday $19,183,309 on 32,152,061 bushels of wheat. Loans were made on 610,980 bushels in Illinois.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In a story on November 3 concerning replacements of FDIC examiners it was stated incorrectly that L. J. Johnson replaced R. O. Bishop in the St. Paul office. Bishop succeeded Johnson.
